Father Wadding Said It.
Technically Sweet.
Topsy Turvy Russia.
If Ill, Don't Eat.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

FROM GLENAULIN, Chapelrod, County of Dublin, Ireland, comes this:

"Dear Brisbane—In a Rooscommon paper this from you appears: 'His present menial attitude recalls the saying of a Democratic leader on Staten Island: "We used to have wooden ships and iron men. Now we have iron ships and wooden men.'

"This is a crib from Father Luke Wadding, of Rome and Waterford, 300 years ago. During penal days he mourned:

"'Formerly we had priests of gold with wooden chalices. Now we get wooden priests with golden chalices.'

"I greet you well.

"T. M. HEALY."

LEARN, IF IT CAN give satisfaction, that conditions in Wall street are "technically" much better. That won't give satisfaction to little people that were gambling gaily a year ago. When Wall street gets "technically" better it means that small accounts are wiped out, little gamblers are dead and buried financially and must save up for the next foolishness.

STOCKS ARE IN "strong hands," which means that those that put them out at a high price have bought them back at a low price.

Call money lends at one per cent, 90-day money lends at two per cent.

Everything is charming "technically," which ought to be a lesson for little men not to gamble, but it will not be.

NEWS THAT COMES from Russia seems as topsy-turvy as though it came from "Alice in Wonderland."

American engineers are developing asbestos resources in Russia, adding another surprise concerning Russian resources generally.

United States engineers are operating an asbestos pit two miles wide in a place far off from Moscow, and the other centers that had 10,000 population a short time ago now have 55,000 population and within two years will yield twice as much as the world's total output of asbestos in 1928. More reason for worrying about "Russian dumping."

DAVID BELASCO, brilliant producer who has had pneumonia, is said, in spite of his advanced years, to be improving and "able to take nourishment."

His physician, if wise, will see that he takes it in liquid form and small quantities.

MANY THAT MIGHT recover die because loving relatives or unwise doctors insist on their taking nourishment.

A sick man is eliminating poisons. His system can't do that and absorb nourishment at the same time. Those that forget it are apt to die.

CARDINAL HAYES, archbishop of New York, who celebrated his sixty-third birthday yesterday, typifies in his great personal popularity and efficiency the wisdom of the Catholic Church in its selection of high officials.

Cardinal Hayes was born a poor boy, in a New York City tenement house, and made his way with no help except that of his own intelligence. His selection as cardinal proves the advantage of the Catholic Church for centuries over other reigning powers.

Emperors and kings have depended for their ability on the accident of birth. Popes and cardinals have been selected regardless of birth or its accidents, for their ability.

RAILROAD MEN, including the greatest in the United States, representing 90 per cent of all the railroads, pledged themselves yesterday to avoid cutting wages or discharging men and to employ as many more as possible.

This they do in the face of decreased railroad earnings, an excellent example to other employers.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS at Geneva, overruling the objections of the United States, France and Japan, decides to adopt the "Navy budget plan."

Under that plan each nation would be told how much money it may spend for ships. That might be hard on the United States, especially if it applied to airplanes and submarines, since everything we get costs us much more here than it costs in Europe.

Fortunately the United States as yet is not bound by the wishes or decisions of the League of Nations, although we are doing our best to tie ourselves up in the World Court, which is the league back door.

LORD READING, who has been Viceroy of India and represents well the intelligent British empire, tells delegates from India at the London round table conference that they cannot expect dominion status now.

Bluntly but kindly he tells representatives of 300,000,000 Hindus and Mohammedans that they cannot claim equality in the British empire with the inhabitants of Canada.

And they can't. Anybody knows it that understands Indian conditions.

COLD SPELL DUE HERE TONIGHT

Blizzards Cripple Mid-West Traffic, Disable Telephone Service; 5 Reported Dead

The mercury, which mounted to the 70's this afternoon, will take a 30-degree plunge over night, the weather man predicted.

Colder weather, which will definitely break the long mild spell, was expected to reach here beginning late today, with overcast skies and possibility of light rain.

Fair and cold weather is scheduled for tomorrow, with near-freezing temperatures over the week-end. The lowest temperature tonight will be around 40 degrees, Forecaster W. S. Broiman said.

Blizzards Cripple Mid-West Traffic

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Lower temperatures, the weather bureau predicted, were due in most of the Middle West today.

Meanwhile residents of North and South Dakota, Northwestern Minnesota and Western Nebraska were attempting to restore normal conditions following severe snow storms.

BABY EXPOSURE VICTIM

One death, that of the year and a half old child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moffit, of Moffit, N. D., was indirectly attributed to the storm. The condition of the child who had been ill, became worse when the parents' automobile was stalled in a snow drift. They were

EXTORTIONISTS ELUDE TRAP

Plans of county detectives and borough police of Allegheny Valley towns to capture extortionists who demanded $1,000 from O. M. Otte, of Tarentum, assistant purchasing agent of the Allegheny Steel Company, yesterday failed, it was revealed today. The extortionists failed to flash a signal for the dropping of the money.

Otte told police that he had been informed in a letter, to board a Pennsylvania railroad train leaving Pittsburgh at 5:45 p. m., yesterday and when he saw a light flashed from an auto on Freeport road, he was to open the car window and drop the money package. After communicating with detectives he was told to follow the instructions, while police guarded various points.

The signal to drop the money was not given. Before he reached home, a telephone message was said to have been delivered, that the extortionists knew they were watched and another demand would be made.

GIRL, HELD UP, SAVES $2,000

The bravery of a girl cashier in battling two daylight bandits, saved $2,000 for her employers in Homestead today.

Miss Ethel Schmidt, cashier at the Braun Bakery, Seventh and Ann streets, was on her way at 9:30 o'clock to deposit the money in a bank, when two youths stepped from an automobile and demanded the funds. The girl was carrying the cash in an envelope under her coat. She screamed and fought the robbers as they attempted to wrest the package from her.

The battle attracted attention of passersby and the thieves fled with only Miss Schmidt's purse, containing $7.

Police secured the license number of the car driven by the bandits. It bore the number 28P47, and, according to state highway records, was issued to M. T. Leanner, 798 Gaden street, Meadville, Pa.

OHIO DRY ACT AUTHOR ASKS WINE, BEER

Present Law Failure, He Declares, People Aroused, Demanding Modification

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21. (AP.)—C. C. Crabbe, father of Ohio's dry laws, and former attorney general of Ohio, today announced that he favored a modification of the Crabbe act to permit the sale of light wines and beer.

Crabbe said he was for modification which would permit the sale of light wines and beer under strict government control. This plan, he pointed out, could not become effective, however, without a modification of the Volstead act.

CONTROL PREFERABLE

He said:

"Light wines and beer under strict governmental control would be preferable to what we have now. There is neither respect nor true enforcement of the present law. If the law as enacted had been properly respected and enforced, I would not have advocated a change, but I am willing to concede that this is not true, and consequently am in favor of modification.

"We need a statute that will more nearly meet the wishes and command the respect of the great majority of the people. The present prohibition law has not prevented the use of intoxicating liquor, but, on the contrary, has brought about a condition where there are a greater percentage of our people drinking now than ever before. The drinkers are a different element too, than in former years.

OPPOSE PRESENT LAW

"I believe that a majority of the people of Ohio would still favor a reasonable law regulating the use of intoxicants, but

Europe's Making Poor Mouth With Gold in Its Teeth

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Whose billion did England borrow from France?

If it belonged to France why was France hollering wolf?

Looks like France has been crying with a loaf of bread under its arm.

Europe said it would pay its war debts if it took forever. Looks like it will.

When you borrow from Peter to pay Paul you are only taking on a new sparring partner.

How about that golden cabbage France borrowed from us?

We are at least entitled to smell it cooking.

How about that old gent known to Europe as Uncle Shylock?

That was us. Is the bunion in the other shoe now?

When England pays France will France pay us?

Or do we grab the brass ring and go for another whirl?

It's too complicated. Let's call it off, shake hands and then count our fingers.

All we know is that Europe has been making a poor mouth. With plenty of gold in its teeth.

RAILWAYS READY FOR TERMS

Willing to Pay City Value Of Operation Economies, Trolley Car Heads Assert

President F. R. Phillips, of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, today announced his company will credit the city whatever reductions in operating costs may accrue from economies in the use and operation of the proposed subway. Winters Haydock, engineer of the City Transit Commission, said Phillips' pledge opens the way for the negotiation of a contract and an early start on actual construction.

The present plans call for two downtown subway loops which would divert underground the surface street cars now entering the downtown district from the Penn avenue district and from the South Hills underground.

LOOP ROUTES

One loop would start near the Smithfield Street Bridge and traverse Smithfield street to Seventh avenue and loop back to Smithfield street by way of Seventh avenue, Liberty avenue, Wood street and Sixth avenue.

The second loop would originate east of the present Pennsylvania station, traverse Liberty avenue to Sixth avenue and loop back to Liberty avenue by way of Sixth avenue and Wood street.

Those are the routes which have been under consideration on instructions of City Council.

$6,000,000 AVAILABLE

War Diary Reveals U. S. Fight to Save Edith Cavell From Firing Squad

BRUSSELS, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—How the Marquis de Villalobar, Spanish ambassador to Belgium, and Hugh S. Gibson, then first secretary to the American legation, tried to prevent the execution of Nurse Edith Cavell by the Germans is told in extracts published from the diary of Marquis de Villalobar.

The Marquis relates that at Gibson's suggestion the two of them went to Baron von der Lancken, then director of political affairs in the occupied Belgian territory, and tried to get Miss Cavell reprieved on the eve of her execution, but were balked by the baron's refusal to telephone Kaiser Wilhelm.

The marquis told Baron Lancken:

"Miss Cavell may have sent hundreds of men to the front by means of her ambulance, but if you kill her she will send millions against you from her tomb."

KAISER ANGRY

The former emperor is pictured by the marquis as having become very angry when he learned of the execution. He is said to have reprimanded those who permitted it to occur and to have ordered

SHUNK BROWN UNDER KNIFE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Francis Shunk Brown, former attorney general of Pennsylvania, was operated on today at Jefferson Hospital. Mr. Brown, who was defeated for the Republican gubernatorial nomination last May by Gifford Pinchot, has been in the hospital since Friday. He is 72.

Judge Francis Shunk Brown, Jr., of the Common Pleas Court, said his father's condition was aggravated in fighting a brush fire singlehanded two weeks ago on his estate, Elk View farm, near Chesapeake City, Md.

Davis Spent $4,063 In Senate Election

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21.—(INS.)—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today reported expenditures of $4,063.49 in his campaign for election as United States senator. The account was filed in the State Bureau of Elections. Davis contributed $2,500 to the Republican State Committee, the rest of the expenditures were for traveling and postage. No contributions were reported.

Two women fliers out to break records find themselves in Pittsburgh today awaiting favorable weather. Mrs. J. M. Keith Miller, Australian aviatrix, has made three unsuccessful attempts to get started on a one-stop Pittsburgh-to-Havana flight.

"I may yet break the record of Miss Ruth Nichols for staying at an airport three weeks before getting away."

WAVE TO JUROR HALTS TRIAL

A friendly wave of his hand and nod of his head by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt to a juror in Common Pleas Court yesterday caused discontinuance of a damage case against Dr. F. X. Straessley, North Side physician, it was disclosed today.

The case, brought by Louis Manesiotes, a miner, against Dr. Straessley to recover for injuries alleged to have been suffered when he was struck by the physician's automobile, was on trial for the third time before Judge F. P. Patterson.

As the trial was nearing a close late yesterday, Solicitor Waldschmidt entered the courtroom and conversed with Assistant City Solicitor Benjamin L. Steinberg, counsel for the plaintiff.

At this time Waldschmidt is said to have raised his hand in recognition and nodded at a juror. Judge Patterson noticed it and at once ordered the case discontinued.

Rare Honors Await Kane, 'Strip' Picture Painter

By PENELOPE REDD

John Kane is a magnet for unique honors while he persistently paints, heedless of ribs painful from a fall in a street car.

He soon will make his first New York appearance on Fifth avenue in the Modern Museum of Art.

His first one-man show will be presented by Dudensing in the downtown gallery in February, according to word just received.

Last and greatest, his painting "Across the Strip" in the Carnegie International has been acquired for the Phillips Memorial Collection in Washington, D. C. This honor is regarded highly by American painters.

Critic Henry McBride, the prince-never-before-pleased with anything at the Carnegie International, says:

"Mr. Kane, I have been told, is self-taught which is lucky for him, since he is a poet. Mr. Kane's picture shows a group of simple houses with the daily bread wagon going about, and a general stir of homely activities.

"In some way it touches the heart. In fact it was the only picture in the whole collection that did give me that stir of the pulses that Emily Dickinson said is the true test of poetry."

John Kane may not be in "Who's Who," but he is there where art is the ultimate consideration.

Aviatrix Died in R-101 Crash, Paper Avers

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The rumor that a woman passenger rode to her death in the crash of the dirigible R-101 was revived today by the Saturday Review, which linked that rumor with another concerning the disappearance of a "well-known air woman." The publication said:

"Was there a woman passenger in the ill-fated R-101? The French press certainly said there was at the time of the disaster, and visitors to the scene of the tragedy were shown a woman's handbag which, it was said, was found in the wreckage.

"Now comes another rumor that a well-known air woman has been missing from her home since the day the R-101 sailed, and nothing has been heard of her since. After all, if there was a woman on board, why conceal it?"

No rumor concerning a "well-known air woman" has gained general currency here, and it was not clear to whom the Saturday Review referred.

TRADE TREND DECLARED UPWARD

National Manufacturers Hear List of Industries Held To Be Starting Upswing

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—A survey in 18 states has convinced the National Association of Manufacturers that business conditions are on the mend.

Discussing the survey, John E. Edgerton, president of the association, told the New York State Chamber of Commerce last night that industrialists and business men generally were unanimous in the belief the nation was "only just now taking a breathing spell in the tremendous industrial strides it has made as its own pace."

18 STATES SURVEYED

The states surveyed were California, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Utah, Washington, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Georgia.

Twelve states reported improvements, two reported a stationary status and four reported a decline, of which one was in the drought area, another in an exclusively mining region, and a third in an exclusively lumber section.

14 STATES OPTIMISTIC

Regarding unemployment, 13 states showed a "fairly encouraging situation," 14 were optimistic of improvement in the late winter or early spring, one anticipated no change, and three, which were in agricultural, mining or lumber regions, thought the situation unfavorable.

Industries on the upswing, Edgerton listed as steel, textiles, public utilities, shoes, paper, building, beet sugar, stockyards, numerous specialties, railroads in some sections, automobiles and allied lines, and mining in parts.

GERMAN THREAT ON WAR DEBT STUDIED

International News Service.

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—The effect of Foreign Minister Dr. Julius Curtius' speech before the Federal Council, in which he warned the world that Germany may be forced to declare a moratorium soon because of inability to fulfill reparations obligations, was watched closely today by official circles.

Although he outlined the entire foreign policy of the government, Dr. Curtius primarily stressed the future reparations respite, and accused Premier Tardieu, of France, of insincerity in disarmament problems.

MAY ASK ARMS SHOWDOWN

The address constituted the first official intimation that Germany is likely, in the near future, to invoke her right under the Young plan to call a moratorium on war debts.

The foreign minister also predicted Germany would demand an early disarmament conference "where each nation must show its colors and its real intentions."

He assured his listeners that Germany had no intention of scrapping the Young plan, but that its feasibility and eventual execution never had been guaranteed by the nation's statesmen.

FRENCH NOT WORRIED

PARIS, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Feeling was widespread today that Dr. Julius Curtius, in informing the Reichsrat yesterday that Germany eventually may have to seek the alleviations provided for in the Young plan, was speaking for home consumption more than with an eye to being taken seriously abroad.

The foreign minister's references to lagging disarmament and his vague talk of treaty revision were considered principally as a concession to German Fascist and ultra-Nationalist sentiment, which found so vociferous expression in the recent German elections.

It was understood here that France's answer to Dr. Curtius will be the same as that to the Fascist leader, Hitler, that to attempt all over again the laborious work of the peace conference would do more to provoke war than to assure peace.

NORRIS AGAINST SPECIAL TERM; URGES BILLS

Asks Job Aid, Muscle Shoals Action; No Filibuster Unless Foes Try to Balk Program

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Pass the Wagner unemployment bills, the constitutional amendment abolishing "lame duck" sessions of Congress, the bill for government operation of Muscle Shoals, the Blaine bill curbing federal injunctions and avoid a special session of the new Congress unless the administration forces it.

This was the program laid down today by Senator George W. Norris, leader of the insurgent Republicans, upon his return here after an overwhelming re-election in Nebraska. He declared he was opposed to any filibustering tactics at the coming short session and the calling of a special session, asserting:

"If there is a filibuster in the short session it will be because the administration refuses to go forward with the constructive program of legislation now pending in Congress."

Norris said most of the measures in his program had been blocked by the administration at the last session, and added:

"If the administration will dispose of these measures at the short session there will be enough time before next March 4. The only way there can be an extra session is if the administration defeats these measures by dilatory tactics."

On the question of farm relief, Norris said he saw no necessity for legislation at the short session unless the administration desires further appropriations for the Federal Farm Board.

FIGHT CHILD HEALTH AID TRANSFER

Foes of Change, Defeated In Committee, Threaten Open Battle at Parley

By PIERCE MILLER,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Though defeated in sub-committee and committee, the women fighting indorsement of a proposal to transfer children's health activities from the Children's Bureau to the Public Health Service, today threatened to carry the battle to the floor of the White House conference on child health and protection.

HOLD NIGHT SESSION

As a sequel to the row that broke yesterday at a meeting of the sub-committee on Federal health organization, the full committee called a special meeting last night and reaffirmed a previous decision to recommend the transfer. Miss Grace Abbott, director of the Children's Bureau, was the only one to vote against a motion by Dr. Henry F. Vaughan, health commissioner of Detroit. The action resulted in the virtual tabling of a previous motion to substitute a minority report made by Miss Abbott.

Dr. Joel T. Boone, President Hoover's physician, refused to vote, as did Dr. Anna Rude, of Los Angeles. The vote stood 23 to 1.

When the section of public health of the conference meets today efforts will be made to keep the fight over the future of the Children's Bureau from further marring the success of the conference.

Twelve women's organizations have on file with the committee a statement of protest, and Dr. Haven Emerson, of New York, chairman of the sub-committee, who fought almost single-handed against three score bitter women, admitted they represented an important section of thought on the child health problem.

ROW ECHO OF 1929

In effect, the row that suddenly threatened to disrupt the conference has been simmering since 1929, when the Sheppard-Towner law providing for maternity, infancy and child health hygiene control under the Children's Bureau lapsed.

The committees of Congress during the last session met a somewhat similar situation as exists now by no action. It was a fight between the American Medical Association and the Public Health Service on one hand and the Children's Bureau on the other for control of children's health activities.

GUESTS TRY TO VOTE

One phase of the situation said to be disturbing the delegates is that the work of the committee has been going on for nearly a year, and the invitations sent out by President Hoover to some 3,000 guests to be present have led many of the recipients to believe they had a vote as well as a voice in the deliberations.

These organizations though guests at the conference were represented as supporting Miss Abbott:

American Association of University Women, American Federation of Teachers, American Home Economics Association, American Nurses Association, Council of Women for Home Missions, National Board Young Women's Christian Association, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, National Consumers' League, National Council of Jewish Women, National League of Women Voters, National Women's Trade Union League of America and Service Star Legion.

JURY RETIRES IN ALLEN CASE

A jury of two women and 10 men retired shortly before noon today to consider the fate of Lee Allen, half-breed Indian, of Curry Hollow, who has been on trial all week in Criminal Court for the murder of his son-in-law, Daniel McConeghy, August 20.

Visiting Judge Davis W. Henderson, of Uniontown, charged the jury at the opening of court today. Yesterday afternoon was taken up with the arguments of Attorney Louis Little, who represented Allen, and Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty, the prosecutor.

Just before the taking of testimony ended, Mrs. Edith Allen McConeghy, whose married life lasted but seven weeks, took the witness stand in defense of her father. She testified there had been no bad feeling between her father and her husband. She was ill at the time of the shooting, which occurred in front of her parent's home. There had been some doubt as to whether her love for her husband would not overpower her sense of duty toward her father and cause her to refuse to testify in his behalf.

U. S. TRIED TO SAVE NURSE

that in the future no women were to be executed.

Miss Cavell, head of an English nurses' training school in Brussels, was executed by the Germans October 13, 1915, on the charge of assisting British, French and Belgian prisoners in the occupied territory to escape.

The Marquis, in his diary, says he was dining with Baron Lambert Rothschild when Gibson arrived in great distress and asked to speak to him on a matter of the most urgent importance. He then told him of several cases of espionage pending before the German military tribunal in which two French, one Belgian woman and Miss Cavell were involved.

NURSE CONDEMNED

He said Miss Cavell had been condemned to death and was to be executed at dawn of the next day. He asked the Marquis to take the place of Brand Whitlock, the American minister who was ill in bed with a high fever, and make every representation possible with the German authorities to stay the execution.

The Marquis says he and Gibson went immediately to Baron Von der Lancken, who told them he did not think Miss Cavell's execution would be immediate, but that the Baron said Gen. Von Sauberweig, the acting governor, was resolved to execute her.

PLEAS IN VAIN

The marquis, relating a private conversation he had with Von der Lancken, tells how he pleaded with him, but the baron said Von Sauberweig was not to be moved. As a last attempt the marquis says he suggested the baron telephone the German emperor at his headquarters, but the baron was stupified at such a request and exclaimed:

"But one can't telephone the emperor."

The marquis says he and Gibson finally returned to the United State legation when the fatal day was dawning, tired out and terribly distressed.

Months later, the marquis says, when he was dining with King George and Queen Mary, of England, he related the details of the matter and quoted the king as saying:

"It is a relief to me to learn the German emperor was not responsible for such a crime."

The marquis gives as his final verdict that Gen. von Sauberweig alone was responsible for Miss Cavell's death.

11 BANKS CLOSE IN WEST, SOUTH

Associated Press.

Eleven banks in five states of the South and Lower Middle West failed to open for business today.

Banks in English, Leavenworth, Corydon and Codydon Junction, all small communities in Southern Indiana, were taken over by the State Banking Department on the heels of the failure yesterday of two banks at New Albany, Ind., across the Ohio River from Louisville.

Banks at Paris, Tenn., at Donipan and Edina, Mo., at Crestwood, Louisville suburb, and Madisonville, Ky.; at Asheville, N. C., and a Negro bank in Nashville, Tenn., were the others to close.

Closing of the six Indiana banks was attributed to the recent failure of a group of Louisville banks. The closings in Kentucky today brought the number there to 15 in a week, seven in Louisville and two in its suburbs. The Asheville closing was the ninth in North Carolina in two days. The Missouri closings were blamed on heavy withdrawals.

finally rescued, but the child died at Steele, N. D.

South Dakota apparently was hardest hit of the Northwest states. Sub-freezing temperatures were recorded. Telephone and telegraph lines were down by the hundreds. Trains between Pierre and Huron were dispatched last night by short wave radio communication in lieu of regular telegraph facilities.

SNOW DRIFTS TO EAVES

Hundreds of automobiles were reported stalled in drifts on highways in Northwestern Minnesota.

Sidney apparently suffered more than any other point in Western Nebraska. The snow was reported to have drifted as high as the eaves of houses. One pioneer resident said the storm was as bad as that of 1888, but additional details were lacking due to crippled wire communication. Eastern Nebraska escaped with light snow, which melted rapidly.

4 DIE IN MOUNTAINS

DENVER, Col., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Clearing skies brought a truce today in the West's first major skirmish of the season with the hosts of winter.

Disrupted highway and rail transportation, while not yet normal, was gradually being set in order as mountainous drifts were cleared. Wire communication, prostrated by heavy snows, was re-established.

Four known lives were lost, considerable property damage done and losses to livestock resulted as the storm swept its relentless way from Oregon south to Arizona and from California into the plains country.

HUNT FOR RANCHER

Searching parties found the frozen body of Guy Miner, 47, in a drift a mile from his stalled automobile near Mount Dora, N. M., yesterday. A companion named Whitehead was discovered unconscious in the car. The extremely cold weather claimed its other victims in Oregon, Nevada and El Paso, Tex.

Searching parties failed to find trace of F. G. Evans, Black Forest rancher, who disappeared in the storm Wednesday night after he went to drive some cattle to shelter.

they are not in accord with the present rigid measure."

The former attorney general said he believed the present rigid prohibition law had brought about the condition which exists in many of the courts. He continued:

"It has brought to the fore an undesirable element and has contributed to the huge profits of this same element."

Crabbe said the recent election was indicative that "the pendulum has swung back."

NOT RESPECTED.

Crabbe said that the enforcement of the present stringent prohibition law in Ohio was "not satisfactory" and that the people of the state had not respected the statute.

The former attorney general said the law has failed to promote true temperance and that it needed to be modified to suit the majority of the people of the state.

He asserted that he was apposed to a return of the saloon.

Ex-Gov. Cox Predicts Plank for Repeal

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(INS.)—A prediction of a prohibition repeal plank in the Democrats' platform in 1932, made here by James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and candidate for President, brought discussion today. Cox, in New York to attend the wedding of his son, James M. Cox, Jr., to Miss Helen Rumsey, of St. Louis, said he regarded the prospects for a Democratic victory in 1932 as bright, providing the Democrats entered the battle "with no thought except the simple political philosophy of Thomas Jefferson."

Regardless of the dry South and the drifting away in the election two years ago of traditionally Democratic southern states, Cox said he thought a repeal plank would be voted by the Democrats.

He said Owen D. Young and Newton D. Baker were being mentioned by Democrats as a presidential candidate, but he thought Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, loomed largest.

Miss Nichols, who has flown every state in the union, taking in 46 of them last year in a 12,000-mile air tour in the interest of aviation country clubs, prefers not to discuss the records she will try for this year. She says:

"I don't see mto have gotten very far towards a Cincinnati-New York record, but I just couldn't sit around in Ohio any longer, and here I am, thanks to your mountain fogs."

THE'S OPTIMISTIC

o Mrs. Keith Miller over the telephone she was a bit more optimistic. The Nichols side of the conversation went like this:

"Hello, Chubby, old dear. How's things?

"My dear, you have no idea—oh yes you have, too. Yes, I know the fog is fearful. My dear, yes—I was up 10,000 feet, clipping off plenty of knots. It began to close in around Uniontown and I began to lose altitude. Got into a valley down near Bedford—just hedge hopping around in those mountains. I got into the valley and couldn't get out. It closed in before I could bank around."

Cash from a friend of Tunney's satisfied his opponent.

Coolidge Says 'Rackets' Prove Government Weak

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Nov. 21.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

The report that a group of 50 prominent persons are to be called together to consider what remedy can be provided to relieve trade and industry in some of our large cities of the burden of what is called racketeering is welcome news. The last annual convention of the American Federation of Labor denounced this evil and most commendably resolved to take action against any of it that came in contact with their organization. Otherwise there has been little of a concerted movement for suppression.

Calvin Coolidge

In effect a super government is undertaking to grant privileges and immunities, usually for a payment of money, under threat of penalties to be suffered if the demands are refused. While this form of corruption is peculiarly abhorrent to a free people, the ordinary individual is practically helpless against it. To refuse submission means to jeopardize his business if not his bodily safety. Only an aroused, insistent, and united public, with the help of the police power, will be able to cope with the situation. A public ventilation of the menace, and energetic action by all agencies charged with suppressing crime are clearly needed. Failure to provide security means weakness in our government.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

State Issues Hunting Rules For Open Doe Season

Ralph A. Liphart, state district game protector for Allegheny County, today announced the following rules governing the special antlerless deer hunting for only three days, November 27, 28 and 29, inclusive.

Practically all Western Pennsylvania counties except Allegheny will have open doe season this year.

Following are the rules:

You must have resident hunter's license before paid special license can be issued.

Both the special license tag and the resident hunter's license tag must be displayed on the middle of the back (on the outer garment) while hunting for antlerless deer.

You can kill an antlerless deer not less than 60 pounds legally, and also kill a legal buck deer during the regular buck season.

An antlerless deer legally killed and tagged can be taken to camp by the owner of the special license. If the owner remains in camp the said deer or part thereof can be used as camp meat, or brought home during the season or at the end of the buck season.

Don't shoot quick; take your time; shoot an adult antlerless deer. If there is no game protector near, one will be there soon. You should have your deer checked and tagged as soon thereafter as possible. Don't go home unless it is tagged.

FEAR HAUNTS GIRL AS USE OF MECHANICAL LUNG ENDS

FIGHTING WITH FEAR

MISS FRANCES M'GANN IN "ARTIFICIAL LUNG" MACHINERY

Miss McGann in the Chicago machine that for months did her breathing for her. Physicians say she can breathe without it, but she is afraid—afraid to sleep for fear she'll never awake.

IMAGINATION NEW HAZARD TO NURSE

Dreads Sleep Without Device That Has Saved Her for 70 Days, but Gamely Tries

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Frances McGann has entered the last stage of her grim battle for life. The epilogue is taking place in a gray room in St. Luke's Hospital. It might be called "the fight with fear."

For 70 days, a mechanical respirator has kept the 25-year-old student nurse alive, taking the place of lungs paralyzed by infantile paralysis. Now, the doctors have told her she can live without the respirator.

IMAGINATION BRINGS FEAR

But the months of dependency upon the machine have made her think she will die unless it does her breathing for her. Imagination, say the physicians—but imagination that sends the girl into shuddering, pitiful spells of fear.

There is a Poe-like setting for this battle with normal way of living the stake—the struggle that Miss McGann, through bravely-rouged lips, says she is going to win.

In the dim room, the young nurse lies and thinks with alternate fear and hope of the thing that has kept her alive. The respirator looks more ominous than reassuring. With darkness comes the real tussle.

She has been out of the respirator many times during the daylight—as long as 1" hours at a stretch—and she gamely works to better each preceding record. But being outside when awake is one thing; sleeping out is another.

AFRAID TO SLEEP

At first she said she would not do it. But the doctors said she must if she is ever to win her freedom, and she agreed to try—and went to sleep, succumbing to weariness, on the bed. Later she said:

"I didn't know whether I would ever wake up.

"I don't know yet. I hate to let go. I hate to go to sleep. If I can only get away over on that bed"—she turned her head in the direction of a bed about a yard away—"and go to sleep tonight. I know. I know. I have done it. But I get so frightened. I don't want to die——"

Tears came. With her shoulder-length dark hair parted in the middle and braided in two pigtails tied with bright red ribbon, she looked like a fifth-grader.

And then—

"But I'm going to do it!"

The carefully made-up lips, as brave as the gay ribbon, relaxed into a smile that quivered a bit.

$27,500 BAIL SET FOR 9 AT HEARING

Sleuths Watch Rendezvous In Park, Arrest Suspect; Marked Money Employed

When Yee Wing walks through Chinatown today his head is bowed.

He met a pretty young white girl in West Park Wednesday midnight, narcotic agents say. Although he had met her before in his laundry at 2919 Preble avenue, didn't matter so much.

He handed her a package and she handed him some money. Agents A and B, of the United States narcotic division, were watching from Union avenue.

They took the package, and the money and Wing. The girl, known only as a pretty young white girl, walked out of the picture.

The money, agents said at a hearing last night before a United States commissioner, was marked money; the package contained, they alleged, opium; the girl was a decoy.

RAIDS FOLLOW

Narcotic agents and city detectives followed Wing to his haunts. Early yesterday they raided 515 Third avenue and a building at 522 Third avenue, which holds the Chinese Temple and office of Yee King Lai—king of the Chinese here, though his title is president of the On Leong Tong.

King Lai and eight others were arrested. Pipes and 9,560 grains of opium and yenchi, a preparation used in dope smoking, were seized.

And last night all but King Lai were held for the grand jury on charges of violating the narcotic act. Lai's case was continued.

The hearing itself was drama, subtle Oriental drama in which the faces of nine Chinese were expressionless until the last moment. They sat around the room, listening intently, almost motionless.

AGENTS DESCRIBE SCENE

Narcotic agents testified as to the details of the pursuit, the catch, the raids on 515 and 522 Third avenue—the heart of Little Chinese colony. They told of four young smokers reclining on their wooden plank beds in the basement of 515; of the secret doors and panels in the wall, where materials were discovered.

Attorney Louis Little and Harry Firestone made pleas for King Lai, that he not be held for the grand jury until the testimony was read. These were answered, Assistant U. S. Attorney Zeno Fritz agreeing. Lai's case was continued. Even then there were no murmurs, or smiles. The emotion lines on the Oriental faces were limp, unmoving.

BONDS ARRANGED

Bond was set for the group, ranging faom $1,500 to $5,000 each, for a total of $27,500.

Attorney Little said:

"Bonds are ready for everyone except Wing."

Nine faces were still immobile.

Wing rose from his chair. His slant eyes glowed as he hurled a Chinese epithet. A spectator murmured:

"A dirty trick."

Wing heard it and repeated in English:

"It is a dirty trick."

He hurled another high pitched, Chinese cry. An old white-haired Chinese spectator, someone of importance, called Little, who called:

"Bring Wing back. They'll give bond for him, too."

They did. No one but the Chinese is certain why. The whites are surmising.

SUBWAY PATH CLEARED

are in the downtown triangle district.

Much importance was attached by the commission to Mr. Phillips' statement, for an official view of proposed plans has been awaited with interest.

The commission, it was learned, presented the railways company with an operating plan, but the company has not expressed an opinion on it. The plan stipulates that the city build the subway, for which $6,000,000 is available, the railways company to operate it.

PHILLIPS DENIES BLOCKING

Mr. Phillips, who denied published statements that the Railways Company is to blame for delay in the building of the subway, said:

"We have not stood in the way of the project. Since the very beginning we have agreed to pay to the city any economies effected. That is all we have to do with it. Beyond that it is not our affair.

"As to what benefit would accrue to the public by the building of a subway is for the City Transit Commission to say. Whatever economies accrue to the railways company as a result of the operation of the subway we will be glad to pay.

"It is not our responsibility to build the subway, but the city's. We will help to the best of our ability in carrying out our part. Our engineers have been working with the Transit Commission and holding sessions for more than a year. The railways company at no time has failed or refused to co-operate with the Transit Commission or public officials in building the subway."

Mr. Phillips' statement was made as a result of a number of questions asked him regarding the subject.

Mr. Haydock, when told of the railways company's attitude, said:

"Mr. Phillips has made a very fine statement. His viewpoint opens the way to bring about a constructive agreement between the city and the railways company in an effort to carry through the project."

In some quarters a question has been raised as to whether the $6,000,000 voted by the people to build a subway is sufficient. It is held by the commission that the sum will be sufficient for the route decided upon.

"Cashing these bonus certificates will relieve conditions among several millions of men and their families, and also benefit immensely the country at large."

3 SISTERS END LIVES IN BAY

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Washing ashore of two bodies in Santa Monica Bay and a letter to Ralph Miller, Hollywood artist, has revealed the suicide pact of three elderly sisters, apparently penniless while holding title to $200,000 worth of real estate.

The bodies of Mrs. Ada McKeon, 65, a widow, and Miss Abba Miller, 63, were found yesterday about the time the artist, who is a brother of the women, received a letter informing him his three sisters planned suicide. Miller said the third sister was Jessie Miller, 60. Search was being made for her body.

Miller told police the sisters were property poor. He said they lost a piece of Hollywood property worth $40,000 for non-payment of loans, and held title to other property worth perhaps $200,000.

SUIT REVEALS EDISON 'LOSS'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(INS.)—Thomas A. Edison, America's great inventive genius, passed up a device which has become the basis of present day radio loudspeakers and which has produced hundreds of thousands of dollars in tribute from the industry.

This statement, made in briefs on file today in the Supreme Court in two patent cases, was confirmed by Marcus C. Hopkins, of Washington, original inventor of the device.

Attorneys opposing the claims of Hopkins' Company in the high court said Edison was not impressed with Hopkins' idea and permitted him to leave his employ and take his models with him.

The Hopkins patent, a conical paper diaphram, was devised long before radio broadcasting was thought of, and was intended for use in phonographs and telephones. Hopkins said he attributed Edison's failure to see the possibilities to the fact that Edison is slightly deaf.

PREMIER BACKS INDIA PLEDGES

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Prime Minister MacDonald, in an atmosphere tense with eagerness, today told the Indian round table conference that the British government would not go back on any pledges it had made toward the achievement of a responsible Indian government.

He referred particularly to the British pledges prior to the Montagu Chelmsford declaration of 1917 pledging the development of self-government institutions in India.

There had been much interest among the delegates in what Mr. MacDonald would say, but the Prime Minister spent most of the time summarizing the various views which have now been presented before the conference.

Extremist Indian delegates were frankly disappointed that no more definite line had been given on the immediate intentions of the British government.

After Mr. MacDonald's speech, the plenary session adjourned and the burden of the conference was transferred to the federal relations committee of 32 members representing all sections of Indian life.

Diamonds to Stay Low; Good News To Bridegroom

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—For the prospective bridegroom, at least, a shaft of sunshine has filtered through the clouds of business depression.

Indications are that the price of diamonds will remain at the present relatively low levels. The Department of Labor has been told authorities in the diamond-cutting industry abroad see little chance for stabilization of prices at the high levels of a few years ago.

Stocks held by large European syndicates are reported to have reached huge proportions, the available supply far exceeding the present demand.

NEW LAW URGED FOR STREAM PROTECTION

Chamber of Commerce Board Announces Plan, Result Of Study of State Needs

Proposed legislation for an aggressive and progressive policy of stream protection in Pennsylvania, impossible under present laws, was drawn up at a meeting of the directorate of the Chamber of Commerce last night.

EMPOWERS WATER BOARD

It was proposed that the Sanitary Water Board be given authority to prevent unreasonable pollution of streams, be empowered to classify and re-classify all streams, and enter into discussion with industries, individually or by groups or classes, for the purpose of studying particular types of pollution and learning the best and most feasible methods of preventing it.

It was proposed further that the board be given power to compel municipalities to provide sewage treatment works when necessary. Where municipalities incur indebtedness up to the constitutional limit, it is suggested the cost be financed through annual rates for sewage connection, to be collected in the same manner as water rates, the revenue being used to pay operating and maintenance expenses.

4 MONTHS STUDY

Many other items in connection with stream pollution are included in the proposal, which represents efforts of about four months of study of pollution and legislation governing it.

TAX CUT HOPE STILL HELD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(Universal.)—Possibility still exists that the $160,000,000 income tax reduction shared by thousands of taxpayers this year will be continued through next year, if not permanently, it became known today.

This was made plain when treasury officials declined to commit themselves to a return to higher rates or, as many expected, to treat the return to higher rates as a matter of course.

Abandonment of the cut had been widely taken for granted in the light of President Hoover's statement last week that a small deficit was likely.

Temporary borrowing to tide the government over a period of depression is one step being considered by those favoring the retention of low rates as an aid to business and as good political policy. Suspension or curtailment of the sinking fund is another.

PLAN OIL WAR AGAINST SOVIET

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(Universal.)—An international oil war on the grand scale to "cure" Soviet dumping and underselling is being planned today by the petroleum titans—the Standard Oil, Shell and Anglo-Persian groups.

Although this announcement might at the present bring a denial, Universal Service is able to present on the highest authority certain anti-Soviet aspects of a combine which in itself may finally give birth to a world-wide war among the titans themselves.

Standard Oil, Shell and Anglo-Persian magnates, in their war against Russian oil products, the Soviet gasoline-selling organization, have prepared a program which will make the Soviets gasp for breath because of its magnitude.

The chief strategic move in opposition to Russia is the creation of a monopoly of all available oil tankers, on which the Soviet petroleum organization relied to flood Great Britain with Soviet gasoline selling far under the standard price.

WASHINGTON, N. C., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Slade Roberson, 25, and Herman Mills, 20, trappers, were killed and Guy Mills, 14, brother of Herman, was wounded, when H. E. Perryman, Winston-Salem lumberman, fired into a clump of reeds during a deer hunt near Blounts Creek today.

3 GIRLS, 3 MEN HELD FOR QUIZ IN KILLING

All Seized in Keyser, W. Va., In Connection With Slaying At Avella Drinking Party

West Virginia authorities and detectives from Washington County have made six more arrests, including three young women, in connection with the murder of Thomas Peteras, 38, of 2 Roberts street, in a shanty at Avella Tuesday night.

They were lodged in the county jail at Washington, where three other prisoners are being held for questioning in connection with the fatal shooting.

Peteras, an employe of a Pittsburgh employment agency, was found dead in the shanty Wednesday, following an alleged drinking party. Detectives then arrested Joseph Morgel, 41; Frank Weber, 24, and Frank Strong, 31, all of Penova, near Avella.

Yesterday detectives visited Keyser, W. Va., where they arrested Lucy Polinski, 16, of Cedar Grove, Pa.; Peggy Conrad, alias Peggy Coule, 23; Catherine Muman, 19; John Conrad, 28, and Lester Gray, 19, all of Keyser, and Louis Martinelli, 28, of Cedar Grove.

YOUTH BEATEN UNCONSCIOUS IN LANE

Mystery Veils Attack Near Turtle Creek; No Motive Evident; Police Plan Quiz

Found unconscious in a country lane off the lower Monroeville road, a mile from Turtle Creek, William Lesher, 21, of 26 Oxford street, Turtle Creek, was rushed to Braddock Hospital early today.

Lesher, who was beaten about the face, did not recover consciousness for several hours, hospital attaches said.

He was discovered in the lane of James Cunningham by Howard Swissheln and P. Berkheimer, both of Patton Township, who notified Capt. Joseph Sauter, of Turtle Creek police.

Sauter commandeered a car and had the unconscious man taken to the hospital.

Police today were unable to advance a motive for the attack on Lesher. Capt. Sauter said an investigation proved Lesher, who is an employe of the Valley Ice Company at Turtle Creek, had left his home at 6 p. m. to visit a fellow employe who resides in the Monroeville road, but a checkup revealed that the youth did not reach his destination.

Lesher was badly cut about the eyes and across the forehead, and suffered a laceration of the arm, Sauter said. Police Chief William Whalen, of Turtle Creek, planned to question Lesher.

LEVINE SEEKS U. S. ACTION

VIENNA, Nov. 21.—(INS.)—A conference between the American consul general and attorneys of Charles Levine, American, detained in the county prison on suspicion of seeking to counterfeit French coins, was scheduled for today while further inquiries into the case were being conducted.

The conference is to decide whether representations should be made to Austrian authorities by the United States consul in regard to Levine.

A rehearing of the case has been set for Monday by court officials.

Possibility that Levine may be transferred to a hospital developed today when physicians examined him after he had complained of lack of sleep and incessant headaches.

CHARGE 3 WOVE DEATH STORY

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Stanley Myers, district attorney, said he learned from questioning Dr. Paul Cooper that Nelson C. Bowles, Mrs. Irma Loucks Paris and the physician held a "rehearsal" of the story they were to tell officials regarding the death by stabbing of Mrs. Leone Bowles, wife of Bowles.

Mrs. Bowles died from a knife wound eight days ago, received in the kitchen of Mrs. Paris' apartment. Mrs. Paris and Bowles were present. They declared she stabbed herself. First degree murder charges were placed against the couple yesterday.

Dr. Cooper had been arrested for removing the body without notifying the coroner, and was rearrested later as a material witness.

CHANG ESCAPES WRECK PLOT

SHANGHAI, Nov. 21.—(INS.)—Scores were injured today in the derailment of a fast train near here in what is believed to have been a plot against the lives of Chang Hsueh Liang and other high government officials.

Investigation revealed that part of a rail had been removed from the track. Apparently the plotters thought that the Mukden war lord and his party were aboard the express, which plunged off the track and deep into the roadbed and for a time interrupted train service between Nanking and Shanghai.

Chang decided to return directly to Mukden, thereby avoiding Shanghai.

Warsaw Officials Give Dewey Sendoff

WARSAW, Nov. 21.—(INS.)—High government officials crowded the Warsaw railroad station to give Charles S. Dewey and his wife, for the past 3 years American financial adviser to Palond, a hearty sendoff. The press was warm in praise for his work of financially rehabilitating the nation.

Banker Shot, Routs Bandits, Killing One

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Left in sole charge of the suburban branch of a big bank for a few minutes this morning, the cashier, M. R. Hodgkinson, not only beat off a desperate attack by three gunmen, but fatally shot one of them after being himself seriously wounded.

STUDENT FREED IN SHOOTING

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 21.—Frederick Forcey, of Dormont, a former Kiski student, was acquitted on three charges of aggravated assault and battery and assault and battery with intent to kill, but was asked to pay the costs by a Criminal Court jury here today.

Forcey was charged by William Witsell, of the state police, of having fired a rifle recklessly during target practice at Kiski last April 15, one of the bullets striking and wounding John Copenhaver, a painter, working on a bridge over Loyalhanna Creek in Loyalhanna Township. Copenhaver recovered.

British Plan Liner To Rival Germans

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Specifications for a 73,000-ton liner which will challenge the Germans for supremacy in North Atlantic Ocean traffic were revealed today by W. R. Smith, parliamentary secretary of the Board of Trade.

Mr. Smith addressed the House of Commons in behalf of the Cunard insurance bill and told of the projected liner to cost approximately $22,500,000.

Cousin of Nurmi Found Shot Dead

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Murder or suicide was the question today in the fatal shooting of Aarvi Nurmi, identified by the Washington Post as second cousin of the famed Finnish runner, Paavo Nurmi.

The body of the 26-year-old census worker was found near his home in Takoma Park, Md., a suburb of the capital, after a party there Wednesday night. He was shot through the head.

Mate Killed in Fall, Wife Wins $5,000

Mrs. Elizabeth Yuhasz, of Duquesne, was awarded a verdict of $5,000 damages for the death of her husband, John Yuhasz, through a fall into an excavation, in her suit against the Pitt Construction Company, in Common Pleas Court. The excavation was made for construction of a retaining wall and bridge over Thompson's run, near Duquesne.

2 Convicts Flee Maryland Prison

Seek Picture of War Hero For French Memorial

Relatives of Sergt. James Mestrovitch, formerly of Company C, 111th Infantry, posthumously awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, were being sought today by representatives of Pershing Hall, America's Memorial to the Congressional Medal winners of the World War.

Mestrovitch is one of several heroes whose photograph is to be inscribed in gold on an ebony plaque and placed in the memorial at 49 Rue Pierre-Charron, Paris, to guest, his valor in rescuing his wounded company commander under heavy shell and machine gun fire.

Officials of the memorial association report Mestrovitch is one of the few men they have been unable to secure photographs of and request anyone knowing the whereabouts of his relatives communicate with the Sun-Telegraph. The Congressional medal, awarded after his death, was presented Mestrovitch's mother, Mrs. Mary I. Mestrovitch.

POLICE TO USE 'TALKIES'

CLEVELAND, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Cleveland police are going to try the "talkies" to record the confessions of criminal suspects.

The police plan to use the "talkies" for direct reproduction of the confessions to the juries. The police believe this will eliminate charges that prisoners sometimes make, that confessions credited to them were made under duress.

Specialists in criminal prosecutions believe the movies also may include re-enactments of crimes with the confessing man demonstrating exactly how the crimes were accomplished.

The demonstration of "talkies" in criminal prosecution was requested by the Cleveland Association of Criminal Justice, which is arranging with a New York firm to provide equipment for the test. Police Chief George Matowitz, Judge Samuel Silbert and Prosecutor Ray Miller agreed to give their assistance.

REDS HAMPER MISSIONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Christianity is finding Communism a more and more formidable foe in foreign missionary fields, and especially in Mexico, the Methodist Episcopal Board of Foreign Missions was told by John R. Edwards, its secretary, who said:

"Hundreds of young Mexicans are growing up today well educated in many ways, but with a distinct antagonism toward religion, due largely to influence of Communists."

Social unrest throughout Asia, arising often from Bolshevist teachings, has hindered missionary work there, his report said, and in many parts of China and India the missionary work of years has been undermined.

Woman Sues Police For Tax Arrest

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 21.—Mrs. Adeline Griffith, of Evans City, entered suit for $5,000 damages against H. C. Cookson, constable, and Purney Wahl, tax collector. She alleges her reputation was injured when the men arrested her for non-payment of taxes and brought her to the Butler jail, where she was kept for two hours.

Firemen to Fix Toys For Poor Children

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 21.—Fire Chief I. S. Zorb asks the public to donate toys which firemen will recondition for gifts to underprivileged children at Christmas. More than 300 families received repaired toys last year. This is the fifth year the firemen have acted as St. Claus' assistants.

STANLEY GIVEN AFRICA POST

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Sir Herbert Stanley, long a prominent figure in Britain's colonial administration, has been appointed high commissioner for the United Kingdom in South Africa.

A statement issued by the government said the appointment was decided with a view to further development of communication and consultation between His Majesty's governments. The new post will be combined with the existing post of high commissioner for South Africa, which soon will be relinquished by the Earl of Athlone, governor-general. Sir Herbert has been governor of Ceylon since 1927.

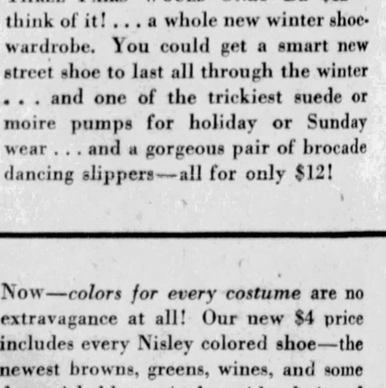
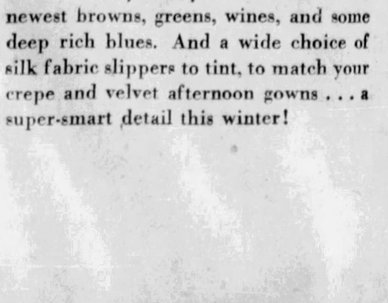
NISLEY NEWS OF NATION-WIDE INTEREST

WE ANNOUNCE THE FIRST AND PROBABLY THE ONLY PRICE-CUT IN OUR HISTORY





THIS price reduction is in keeping with public sentiment in regard to buying.

We know that every woman today is shopping with the greatest discernment . . . and finding it rather fun to see how far her money goes! In fact, it's just this sort of clever young person—always so smartly set-up and with some money left over—who is already our best Nisley customer.

She has known all along that we gave her $8 to $10 shoe-values for $5. Now, when every woman is buying with that same thrift-sense, we're reducing the price of Nisley Shoes to attract a still wider circle of Nisley customers.

This sensational price-cut goes into effect immediately! We can't promise how long it will last. We have on hand the most beautiful winter stock we've ever unpacked, and are proud to invite you to see it. You won't be urged to buy . . . try on as many pairs as you like. But for your own accommodation, come as early as possible!

REGULAR $5 STOCK NOW

REMEMBER! Even at $4 you're getting much more than the usual $5 shoe. Nisley Shoes have never been in the $5 class. They've never been bought by "$5 shoe purchasers," but by women who have always paid more UNTIL THEY DISCOVERED NISLEY! We make all our own shoes in our own plants and do this work on such a vast scale (to supply our more than fifty Nisley stores) that we can afford the softer, finer leathers, more shapely lasts and refinements-of-finish which you look for only in expensive shoes.

Not a Clearance Sale!

All are smartest fall and winter stock. Sizes run from 2½ to 9, AAAA to D.

THREE PAIRS WOULD ONLY BE $12—think of it! . . . a whole new winter shoe-wardrobe. You could get a smart new street shoe to last all through the winter . . . and one of the trickiest suede or moire pumps for holiday or Sunday wear . . . and a gorgeous pair of brocade dancing slippers—all for only $12!

Now—colors for every costume are no extravagance at all! Our new $4 price includes every Nisley colored shoe—the newest browns, greens, wines, and some deep rich blues. And a wide choice of silk fabric slippers to tint, to match your crepe and velvet afternoon gowns . . . a super-smart detail this winter!

2 NEW PLANES FOR MAIL LINE

Two additional Fokker F-14 mail planes will be added to the equipment used on the eastern division of the Transcontinental Air Service, J. W. Brennan, traffic manager of the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., who arrived here yesterday, announced. One will be stationed in Pittsburgh and one in Harrisburg. They are expected to arrive here from Columbus next week.

These planes have an engine of 575 horsepower, and can carry a load of mail up to 2,000 pounds. Although designed to carry six passengers, they will not be used for passenger traffic, as they are equipped with only a single engine, and the carrying of passengers in single-motored planes is contrary to the company's policy.

Sun-Telegraph Doll Lady Looks for Girls' Letters

Dear Little Girls:

Every single day brings us just one day nearer to Christmas and I can see where I am going to be a very busy Doll Lady for the next five weeks. I have received promises from hundreds of little girls in Pittsburgh and vicinity telling me that they will work for one of my wonder "Tickletoes" dollies. In fact a lot of little girls have already received their "Tickletoes" and some of them are going after another one. I knew they would because my dolly is such a darling that she becomes a member of the family right away.

I read every letter I get and I answer every letter almost the same day I get it. Gladys Seamens wrote a cute letter to me, but she forgot to tell me where she lived. Gladys says:

I am very excited over the idea of getting your doll. Will you please tell me how to get it. I got a doll from Santa last Christmas, but I think yours are much nicer. I hope you are well and so are your dollies.

One who is very excited,
GLADYS SEAMENS.

So, if Gladys has not heard from me and if she will send me her home address, I'll write to her right away. And I'll send her the same set of "Tickletoes" colored pictures that I am sending to all the little girls who are mailing coupons to me.

Of course my daily letter to little girls would not be complete without a few words about my wonder "Tickletoes" dolly. As I have told you before she's a big dolly—within an inch or two of being as tall as this newspaper page is long. She has a radiant smile, laughing eyes, dimpled knees and is beautifully dressed in organdie. She is unbreakable, has rubber arms and legs and you can give her a bath just like a real baby. My "Tickletoes" has three voices. You hear one when you pinch her right knee, another when you squeeze her left knee, and she cries when you lay her on her face. Lay her on her back and she goes sound to sleep. She can play with her toes and suck her thumb. In fact, you never loved any other dolly like you'll love "Tickletoes."

If you really want one of these wonder dollies send the coupon to me today and you can easily have a "Tickletoes" before Christmas. Send your coupon to the

Dry Agents Find Liquor Under Sitting Hen

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—A sitting hen concealed six pints of liquor in the rear yard of a speakeasy here, federal prohibition agents found.

Last week agents purchased drinks in the place, but when they arrived for the raid the whisky could not be located until a prying agent discovered the bootleg product in the nest of the clucking chicken.

AIR MUSIC TOPIC OF STOKOWSKI

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Dr. Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, is of the opinion that the radio is equal to anything man ever had for exchange of thought, feeling and expression, but it still lacks something in broadcasting music.

Dr. Stowoski, who spoke at a Poor Richard Club luncheon, said that when music is put on the ether it is compressed out of shape. He pointed out that other great problems had been solved through scientific concentration of those capable in their particular fields, and expressed the hope something would be done about radio in this connection as soon as possible. He said:

"If we desire to broadcast a concert of the Philadelphia Orchestra by radio we must take the music and compress it. It is difficult to bring the soft tones up and the hard tones down. The only one who can help us is the scientist in the research laboratory."

NAME 4 TO ACT ON PALESTINE

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Appointment of a provisional committee of four to act on behalf of the American members of the Jewish Agency for Palestine was announced by Dr. Cyrus Adler, joint chairman of the council of the Jewish Agency.

The provisional committee has been created as a result of Felix M. Warburg's resignation as chairman of the administrative committee of the Jewish Agency in protest against the White Paper issued by the British government last October 21 restricting Jewish immigration and land purchase in Palestine.

Dr. Adler is to be chairman of the provisional committee and the other members named are Bernard Flexner, Morris Rothenberg and Robert Szold. The provisional committee is to "serve as an interim committee to dispose of all emergent matters, to guide and counsel the secretary in the discharge of his daily duties and to maintain formal contact between the American members of the administrative committee and the officers of the Jewish Agency in England.

TRIO ON PRISON STUDY JAILED

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Three youths who said they were Pennsylvania college students studying prison sociology got some practical ideas when a Westchester County judge ordered two of them held without bail for assault and the other handed over to federal prohibition enforcement officials.

The young men gave the names of C. W. Kreisher, 19, of Catawissa, Pa., and John A. Billman, 20, and Carl Lachtenmayer, 21, of Allentown.

They told police they had come with a party of Muhlenberg College students to study conditions in Sing Sing and other prisons and to visit friends. They were arrested on a charge of beating Edward Sweeney, cafe proprietor, who was sent to a hospital. Kreisher and Lachtenmayer were held and Billman was charged with possession of liquor.

FISHER OPENS 1930 SEAL SALE

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The 1930 Christmas seal sale was formally launched in Pennsylvania with the purchase by Gov. Fisher, at the Capitol, of the first seals put on sale.

The first sale was made by Frank S. Montgomery, attired as Santa Claus and carrying a Christmas tree in representation of the design of the 1930 seal. Little Jean Marie Gregg, dressed as a health crusader, was Santa's aide.

Following the ceremony at the State House, the state seal committee met at luncheon here to discuss plans of the annual campaign. The meeting was presided over by E. J. Stackpole, Sr., publisher of the Harrisburg Telegraph, and a number of persons prominent in anti-tuberculosis work addressed the committee members.

AIDS KIN FLEE PEN, GETS TERM

ELKINS, W. Va., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—John Mollisee, Morgantown, was sentenced to two years and six months in the Federal Prison at Atlanta when he pleaded guilty in Federal Court here to violating the new Federal Prison escape law. He admitted aiding his brother, Huff Mollisee, and two others, to escape from the Randolph County jail last July.

James Eice, Lumberport, was permitted to withdraw his plea of guilty to the sale of liquor, and the case was continued two weeks, after Judge W. E. Baker had been informed the defendant had been a drug addict for 20 years and that incarceration might kill him.

U. S. Lines Order New Ship From Camden

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The keel of a 30,000-ton ocean liner for North Atlantic service will be laid at Camden, N. J., December 4, the United States Lines state.

When completed the vessel will be a five-day boat on the London run. A similar ship will be started next June. The will be 705 feet long and will have capacity of about 1,300 passengers. Their building will employ about 1,000 men.

Ford Sends Girl Rare Violins For Debut

DETROIT, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Henry Ford played the role of a Maecenas to Beatrice Griffin, young Detroit violinist, who made her debut last night in Orchestra Hall.

Learning from Ossip Gabrilowitsch, conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, that Miss Griffin needed a good violin for her first appearance as a soloist with the orchestra, Ford offered the loan of an instrument from his collection. One of Ford's secretaries called on Miss Griffin, bringing two rare violins, one a Stradivarious, dated 1709, the other a Gagliano, dated 1740.

Miss Griffin's debut with the symphony orchestra was a sensational success.

Because McCreery's believe that this is the time for facing facts... for action... if our less fortunate townsmen, faced with the problem of keeping themselves and their families from want, are to have even some of the necessities of life,

McCREERY'S

WILL GIVE 3%* OF THE ENTIRE SALES (RESTAURANT INCLUDED) OF TOMORROW (SATURDAY)

To the Unemployed of Pittsburgh

This movement has received the unqualified endorsement of:

- HONORABLE MAYOR CHARLES H. KLINE
- MRS. ENOCH RAUH, Director of Public Welfare
- THE CONGRESS OF WOMEN'S CLUBS
- THE JUNIOR LEAGUE OF PITTSBURGH

¶ McCREERY'S have no selfish motive... nor are we in any way bordering on commercializing the present unfortunate economic situation which is responsible for the unemployment problem of the City of Pittsburgh. In order that this may be distinctly understood—

We Will Advertise No Merchandise Whatsoever for Tomorrow, and

¶ McCREERY'S have asked the following well-known citizens of Pittsburgh to serve as a committee... to receive and disburse, without prejudice, the sum of money which we shall turn over to them as a result of the business of the day:—

Mrs. Ralph N. Johnstown — Pres. of The Congress of Women's Clubs

Mr. Francis de P. Hyde Jr. — 1st Vice Pres. of the Junior League

Chris. Cruck Paul — Director of Public Welfare

James Rae — Pres. of The Chamber of Commerce

¶ McCREERY'S do not offer this as a solution to the unemployment problem nor do we desire to pose as public benefactors. We are simply endeavoring to do something definite to help the situation... and do it at once... it is not all that we would like to do, but we have been assured that it will help materially.

¶ Of course we urge you to buy tomorrow and, if possible, to anticipate your holiday purchases... but we only urge you to do this so that you will make it possible for us to contribute a larger amount to this worthy cause... and so that others, perhaps, may be encouraged by our initiative.

¶ Thus by simply buying at McCREERY'S tomorrow you will be aiding humanity in this time of dire need. 3c out of every $1.00 you spend will go to the unemployed of Pittsburgh.

This may not seem to be a large amount, but a few thousand dollars go a long way with folks that are cold and hungry—and, incidentally, 3% is more than three times as much as large Department Stores earned during 1929, according to actual statistics compiled by the Bureau of Business Research of Harvard University.*

QUESTION A DAY:

Who is Cousin Lora and in what month was she born?—F. B. M., Schenley Arms.

Answer—Lora M. McClelland, of 316 Elsdon street. Now, getting these girls' birth dates is not part of the profession, but we are happy to report that Lora was born the first day of November in some year or other. She is just out of her teens. She graduated from Wilkinsburg High not so many years ago. She favors poetry, and true to November spirit, nothing excites her like a 100-piece brass band. Even grownups have come to know her as "Cuz." She's very likeable.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K.—We agree with you. Walter G. Myers and some of the boys are to be congratulated on breaking up the monotony between station "breaks." We have noticed this several times lately. We know you will be happy to learn that it is being done on the boys' initiative, too.

Fred Webber, incidentally, uses more than good diction when he chimes in with "Your dials are tuned to WCAE." We call that good psychology.

To tell you the truth, we have a capable aggregation of announcers in this city.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

When Ted Husing stepped into a drug store telephone booth recently to call the studio he was surprised to hear central say:

"Pardon me, but aren't you Ted Husing, the radio announcer?"

Such is fame!

The LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Those who are finding the armchair more exciting than any other aspect of civilization may not have to wait long to know what radio reporting will be like when the tocsin of war again is sounded.

Ludendorff predicts war in 1932, a war, moreover, in the number of nations involved that will come just short of a world-like character. The radio rajahs must have read his words with a good deal of interest and it wouldn't surprise me to know they are already making plans for its eventuality.

When the next war does come it will undoubtedly be Floyd Gibbons and Lowell Thomas who will have the assignment of covering it for the radio. Not only are they war-wise, they are radio-wise. Give either a good observation post in an airplane and they could bring no man's land right into the parlor at 200 words a minute.

Radio Prepared to Broadcast Next War

The microphone's enlistment of most of the war correspondents and newspapermen who have seen adventure in the far corners of the world already gives to radio a preparation for war that must be of immense satisfaction to those who sit on the broadcasting thrones. The roster, besides Gibbons and Thomas, includes Frederick Palmer, Heywood Broun, H. V. Kaltenborn and Edwin Alger.

Trans-Atlantic radio has been perfected to such a state that the reporting of actual battles would be a comparatively easy matter, provided that the censorship was not too rigid.

The broadcasters, in planning for the next good war, would do well to consider the qualifications of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker for one of their most expert voices from the firing line.

It is even possible that radio will revolutionize the conduct of war. Not only will the generalissimos in the field be aware of the need for more decisive action, but the elder statesmen who pull the strings in governmental seats will be compelled to justify their policies with a little less thought to timeworn shibboleths, to pompous buncombe, to the windy repetition that God is exclusively on their side.

Microphones Expected To Debunk War

It is conceivable that radio will debunk war as it already has debunked politics, and that victory will perch upon that army that can call to the colors the most sincere as well as the most eloquent orators.

QUIZ DEALERS ON RACKETS

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Merchants in all big cities of the United States are to be asked, in a secret questionnaire, their experiences with racketeers.

Heflin's Defeat Costs Garner Sombrero

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Jack Garner has lost a Texas sombrero.

The minority House leader lost the head gear to the genial John McDuffie, soft spoken Alabaman who cracks the party whip as assistant leader.

It was all over Senator Heflin and his race for re-election in Alabama.

When John H. Bankhead was elected, McDuffie wired the Texan:

"I win the hat."

Later McDuffie said:

"Yes, Mr. Garner was afraid Senator Heflin would win."

FOUR INDICTED IN BOY KILLING

MIDDLEBOURNE, W. Va., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Four men accused of killing a 3-year-old child and then throwing the body in the Ohio River were indicted for murder by a Tyler County grand jury.

The mother of the child, Mrs. Eva Bailes, who at the time of the killing was in a government lighthouse tender's shack on Grandview Island, where the slaying occurred, was not indicted. She had been held on a murder charge, however, and was detained without bond as a material witness.

Charles Henry, navigation light tender; Ray P. Henry, his brother; James Dunn and Clyde McBee were the men named in the indictments. The slain child was Garlan Bailes, and authorities have said that the men confessed killing the child while they were intoxicated.

VOTE MACHINES CHANGE ASKED

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The Philadelphia County Commissioners have requested the Automatic Voting Machine Company, of Jamestown, N. Y., that it furnish lockout devices for the 600 voting machines purchased recently, by December 1.

If the company does not comply, the commissioners will so report to Judge Harry S. McDevitt, of Common Pleas Court, who will hold another hearing about December 15 in the taxpayer suit which prevented the machines being used at the recent election. Judge McDevitt declared the mechanical voting apparatus could be manipulated fraudulently unless it contained lockouts for spaces not containing candidates' names.

Ultimate failure of the Jamestown concern to equip the machines in accordance with the specifications, the commissioners say, will result in the machines being rejected.

DANCER-BRIDE LOCATED

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The blonde, dancer-bride of Charles J. Flynn, 34, World War veteran and Yuma, Ariz., rancher, whom she married after a four-day courtship during a recent American Legion convention in Boston, is safe in Mountain Grove, Mo., near here.

She left Flynn, who thought she might have been kidnaped, of her own accord, because she was "tired of him," she said.

Flies Upside Down In Glider for Stunt Record

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Lyman Voelpel flew upside down in a glider, the first time he believed the stunt had been performed.

Voelpel flipped the glider over twice and flew approximately 100 feet each time.

MARTIN NAMED BY AUDITORS

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—S. H. Blan, state auditor of Alabama, was elected president of the National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers and Treasurers.

New vice presidents include Edward Martin, state treasurer of Pennsylvania; Charles G. Johnson, California state treasurer, and Thomas Treadway, territorial auditor of Hawaii. J. W. Long, state auditor of Iowa, was named treasurer.

Biloxi, Miss., was chosen for the 1931 meeting.

State and local governments were taken to task by Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the Treasury, in an address to the association for relying too much on bond financing and not enough on current funds derived from taxation.

He praised the budget system of the federal government and said federal taxes were reduced $1,541,000,000 from 1921 to 1928, but local and state taxes increased $2,162,000,000 in the same period.

NOTED WOMAN HUNTER DIES

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—An illness contracted while traveling in Switzerland several years ago has caused the death of Dr. Cora Johnstone Best, lecturer, mountain climber and huntress.

Dr. Best, 58, died at her home here. She was a member of the Canadian Alpine Club, the Japanese Alpine Club and the Swiss Alpine Club. She was known throughout the United States as a conservationist and exponent of outdoor life.

In 1924 she set a record by climbing Mount Robson, highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, in 14 hours.

During the last 12 years she divided her time between exploring expeditions from the Arctic Circle to the Tropics, and writing and lecturing.

Hoover Raises Ban On Handshakes, Greets 2,500

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—President Hoover engaged in the business of handshaking on a large scale for a short time yesterday, greeting 2,500 delegates to the conference on child health and protection as they filed by him at the White House.

Presidential handshaking had grown to such proportions when Mr. Hoover took office that in the interest of his hands and health he was forced to limit it sharply. It now is confined to introductions or the ordinary greeting of friends and acquaintances, save on special occasions when he receives groups at the White House.

The ban is lifted on New Year's Day, and the response from the public is a line that extends from the White House doors through the grounds and out onto Pennsylvania avenue.

SHELL ORDERS HELD JOB AID

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Peace time munitions orders by which American manufacturers would be "evacuated" to the country's needs in time of war are urged by Frederick H. Payne, assistant secretary of war, in a magazine article.

The official explains that governmental arsenals can supply only 5 per cent of the nation's war-time munitions needs and private industry must produce the remainder. Preparations for such production, he urged, would advance preparedness, lack of which in the World War made it necessary for the United States to purchase nearly all its war materials abroad.

Such a campaign instituted now, he adds, would furnish employment for many machine workers.

Big Ball, Concave Niblick New in Golf

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—It's 50-50 for the duffers next year. They must play with a balloon ball which they can't hit so far as this year's heavier and smaller affair, but the executive committee of the U. S. G. A. has taken no action toward forbidding use of a new-fangled expensive heavy concave niblick that makes a joke out of a trap.

Grand Opera Voted $87,500 in Britain

Practical cases were being demonstrated before the Odontological Society of Western Pennsylvania today in the second day of the annual convention at the William Penn Hotel.

Following demonstrations by Dr. George Winter, of St. Louis, assisted by Dr. C. C. Conley, the members were to meet in annual business session with election of officers. A feature of the noon hour was to be 17 class reunions. A luncheon for dental assistants was also scheduled. Dr. Winter also was to speak before the members during the afternoon.

A testimonial banquet to Dr. Leslie Waddill, of Pittsburgh, will be tonight's feature in the Keystone Athletic Club. Dr. Waddill, who is serving as exhibit director this year, served as secretary for 12 terms. Re-elected at last year's convention, he resigned a short time later.

ROSSI SCORES IN DEATH TRIAL

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Nov. 21.—The state and defense broke even today at the trial of Joseph Rossi, Ashtabula, charged with murder of an unidentified man at Dennison, when Randolph Sopinski, fingerprint expert, testified neither of the two fingerprints found on the butcher knife lying beside the victim's body belonged to the defendant.

After the prosecution rested in mid-afternoon, the defense attorneys had a long conference. The state's key witness, Frank Marafiote, Dennison, in whose automobile a human ear was found, and Rossi's brother-in-law, identified the bloody iron pipe found at the scene of the murder, as having been taken from his basement, and that Rossi had been in the basement.

WELFARE FUND PASSES MILLION MARK

John A. Bell Coal Properties Reorganized

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

If you're disappointed because you can't give more to the Welfare Fund you might try some such plan as a prominent, well-to-do East End woman does. Each year she lays aside as much for philanthropy as she can afford. But before she turns the money over to the social agencies she takes it to the grocery and buys food. An excellent cook, she then prepares a big dinner every so often, invites in her equally well-to-do friends and tells them, after they've eaten a good meal, that the charge is $1 each, for charity. But, after such a meal, nobody considers giving as little as $1 and eventually her original contribution is doubled, if not tripled.

William Pfarr

Incident in the teeming life of a big city:

Eight young, and needless to say, comely women of the Philadelphia Company organized a bridge club a few weeks ago and, one recent Monday night, were playing just that in the rooms of the Congress of Women's Clubs.

One of the eight, Miss Lois Wilson, happened to be chewing gum. (Explanation: There are two classes of gum chewers, polite and impolite, and Miss Wilson belongs to the first). Miss Wilson tired of the gum, wrapped it in a slip of paper on the bridge table and tossed it out the open window into an alley.

The slip of paper happened to be the tally sheet. When that was discovered, Miss Wilson hastened to recover the score. She walked down the fire escape to the alley but at the bottom she saw an animal huddled on the step. She was scared, for she had never seen the like of it before. She ran back to the bridge room, locked the door and notified her friends. They talked about "The Hound of the Baskervilles."

The Negro janitor was summoned. A brave soul, he walked right up to the animal. He took it home and his wife cooked it for dinner that night. It was a 'possum, escaped from nobody knows where.

Before the young women adjourned that night they voted on a name for their bridge club. They were unanimously agreed: they called it the 'Possum Club.

Miss Eleanor Phelps is one answer to the question, "What do actors and actresses do in their spare time?" Miss Phelps, who plays Rose Maurant in "Street Scene," is the quiet, comely miss who has been strolling up one corridor and down another at the International Art Exhibition for the past two weeks.

An admirer of Miss Phelps told us that she was living evidence that a girl with brains still can be a good actress. She is interested, on the side, in philosophy. She is an authority on El Greco and a critic of social idleness. In fact, she quit the best people in Baltimore (her home town) to go on the stage. At Vassar she was successful enough not to be chosen for the chain.

If you ride in the Boulevard of the Allies there are two things to look for. One is a big sign which spells the word "accommodate" with only one "m," and the other is a man, apparently an invalid, who is always looking out the window of his second-floor bedroom near Grant street. His back is toward the window, but he props himself up in bed and twists himself around so that he can watch the autos.

Small-town item: Bobbie Burke, city detective, rushed out of a barber shop in the East End a few days ago with one side of his face shaved and the other smothered in lather. He stood on the street fussing and fuming. In an hour he returned to the shop and let the barber complete his job. Burke's partner in crime detection, Jimmie Noonan, had exploded a gas pencil whose fumes filled the shop and scared the customers away.

NEW GROUP TO OPEN 7 MINES

Bondholders Interested in Corporation; Sale of Land Yields Cash for Taxes

All of the coal holdings of the Carnegie Coal Company, formerly owned by John A. Bell, coal operator and banker, convicted of wrecking the Carnegie Trust Company, and later paroled, today passed into the hands of the Carnegie Coal Corporation, capitalized at $6,000,000.

Coincident with the reorganization of the Carnegie Coal Company, whose properties once were appraised as worth $13,000,000, there passed into the hands of the Manor Real Estate and Trust Company of Philadelphia, a concern controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad, 12,000 acres of Bell coal lands in Allegheny and Washington counties, sold for $1,000,000.

LIQUIDATES TAXES, DEBTS

The money derived from the sale of the coal lands to the Philadelphia bank was used to liquidate taxes and other debts. As part of the reorganization plan a mortgage for $750,000 was filed in Cleveland on the dock properties of the reorganized concern, which, it is said, is the only debt the new company has, and will give the company necessary working capital.

The Carnegie Coal Corporation has seven coal mines and about 10,000 acres of coal, formerly owned by the Carnegie Coal Company. These are situated along the Panhandle Railroad in Allegheny and Washington Counties. They are known as the Atlas, Cedar, Grove, McDonald, Primrose Armine and Oakdale mines.

Attorney Don Rose handled all the legal papers in connection with the case.

AIM AT 2 MILLION TONS

It is said that the company already is producing at the rate of 1,200,000 tons of coal annually and expects to increase the production to 2,000,000 tons a year.

ACCOUNTANT'S WIFE SUES

John R. O'Connell, 6357 Waldron street, certified public accountant and instructor in the American University of Commerce Accounting School, was asked to pay alimony and counsel fees to Mrs. Dorothy O'Connell, 224 Meridan street, by her petition in Common Pleas Court.

She filed suit for divorce, alleging that his cruelty and indignities forced her to leave him and take their three children, ranging from two to five years, to her mother.

They were married August 9, 1923, and parted October 21.

Wife, Eloper at 16, Sues for Divorce

The elopement of Eva G. Reutzel, Beaver road, Haysville, four years ago, at the age of 16, with John P. Reutzel, then 18, ended in his desertion six months later, she testified at the hearing of her divorce suit by Judge Harry H. Rowand in Common Pleas Court.

They eloped to Wellsburg, W. Va., June 30, 1926. She testified that when she returned to their Wilkinsburg home after Christmas shopping the following December 17, she found herself locked out and returned to her father's home.

POLICE HEAD'S SON TELLS OF CUTTING

Went to Aid of Comrade, Says Young Walsh Testifying At Magistrate's Hearing

Paul Walsh, son of Police Supt. Peter J. Walsh, appeared in Central Police Court today to tell about the fracas in Wylie avenue, near Fernando street, November 7, in which he was stabbed, but he failed to identify persons arrested as suspects and they were held over by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

Walsh testified that he parked his auto at the corner and waited in it until his companion, Charles Sheehan, 24, of 927 Bedford avenue, went across the street for a package of cigarets.

HELPS COMRADE

The next time he saw Sheehan, Walsh said, Sheehan was fighting with a Negro. Walsh continued:

"I jumped out of the car to help Sheehan, and when I found out he had a finger bitten almost off, I started to drive him to the Mercy Hospital. It was not until I had started the car that I noticed I was cut."

Sheehan testified that the fight started after he bumped into two Negro women and a man while he was leaving the store. The women took no part in the fight, according to Sheehan.

Zion McKenzie, 32, his wife, Catherine, and Beulah Davis, 28, of Clark street, the suspects, all testified that McKenzie was home in bed at the time, although both women admitted witnessing the fight.

ONE HAD BOTTLE

Mrs. McKenzie testified that either Walsh or Sheehan, she was not sure which, had a pint bottle in his hand. Magistrate Rothenberg asked Walsh, who is a city patrol inspector, and Sheehan, if McKenzie was the man who attacked Sheehan, but neither of them answered him.

After Walsh refused to sign informations for court charging McKenzie with felonious cutting, Rothenberg said he would hold the trio over in an effort to determine whether they have police records. In event that they do, Rothenberg said, he will send them all to the workhouse.

WOMEN'S CRIES ROUT THUGS IN HOLDUP

Armed Trio Robs Chinese Merchant of $22; Drug Store Looters Get $105

Two bandits, a Negro and a white man, escaped a pursuing policeman following their attempt to rob two women at Vickroy and Colbert streets at midnight.

Mrs. Theresa Lenoskey, 39, and Helen Cutt, 24, both of 1000 Vickroy street, were walking home when the bandit pair confronted them. The white man, pointing a revolver, ordered Mrs. Lenoskey to surrender her coat and when she and her companion screamed, the thugs snatched Mrs. Lenoskey's purse containing $14.

RECOVER PURSE

The bandits raced down Colbert street and disappeared when Plainclothesman Thomas Delahanty, who heard the women's cries from his home at 928 Vickroy street, reached the scene.

The purse, with its contents intact, was thrown under a parked automobile by the fleeing pair and later recovered by Mrs. Lenoskey.

Three armed robbers this morning forced their way into the laundry of Samuel Dong, a Chinese, of 4928 Second avenue and after threatening Dong, took $22 from the cash till and escaped.

A short time later two men, displaying revolvers, entered the Fisk Pharmacy at 4015 Butler street and forced Joseph L. Pillart, proprietor, to hand over the contents of the cash register. The loot amounted to $105.

A lone, unmasked thug late yesterday entered the butcher shop of Alex Markowitz, 1509 Maple avenue, Turtle Creek, and covering a boy clerk with a revolver forced him to open the cash register. The thief grabbed $80 and fled, escaping by running into a nearby woods, according to a report given Turtle Creek police.

RELIEF DRIVE TWO-THIRDS TO GOAL

Sewickley Day Observed At Rally; Maxwell Tells Of Urgency of Campaign

The Welfare Fund drive today passed the million mark, with two-thirds of the quota subscribed.

The daily collection total reported at the noon luncheon was $96,020, bringing the total obtained to $1,020,448, in the campaign for $1,530,248.

TUESDAY LAST DAY

The drive ends Tuesday. The Sewickley Division is under the leadership of Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, and to date has reported collections and pledges of $122,473. Speakers at today's meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. Royal S. Goldsbury.

A statement issued by the Fund today says that more destitute families will need relief this winter than ever before. And these are not the families one might expect to be in need, but families which in ordinary times would be comfortable and well taken care of. Figures for this survey were taken from the records of the Family Welfare Association, a member of the Welfare Fund.

NEEDY FAMILIES DOUBLED

The number of families actually needing relief in August was more than double that of last January, the report shows. In preceding years the summer months have brought a decline in demands for relief.

Analyzing this condition, Wilbur F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the Welfare Fund, said:

"To permit this condition to go on without instant remedial measures would be criminal. The bread-winners of most of these unfortunate families cannot find jobs. Wives and mothers are desperate—babies are on the verge of starvation. Some children are going to school in ragged clothing that cannot possibly keep them warm when near-zero temperatures set in. Hundreds of jobless men are being driven to dangerous thoughts by cries of hungry children. And because this condition has come upon us gradually we do not see it in its true light, that of a great catastrophe."

She testified before Judge James H. Gray in Common Pleas Court that she left him and took her two children to her mother when he came home and struck and choked her, early in the morning of July 27, 1928. They were married June 2, 1926, and lived in Washington place.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 21.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

—Before the child welfare gang yesterday Mr. Hoover delivered just about his best speech. I got my doubts as to what he thinks of politicians, but he must love children or he couldn't have thought of some of those fine paragraphs. He has never posed as an orator, but he had a lot of things that an orator would have liked to said. Chicago University come out yesterday with a terrible radical idea. They proposed to graduate a student as soon as he knew enough, that shows you that higher education is making progress. Its taken 2,000 years to think of such a thing, heretofore they have made the smart ones stay there four years just to keep the dumb ones company.

Will Rogers.

Yours,
WILL.

Bakery Opens 'Pie Line,' Pastry Boon to Jobless

There have been bread lines and soup lines and now the first pie line has made its debut for the "free-lunchers."

Broken pies, day-old pies, pieces of pies—all kinds of pies are given to the hungry by the Dusenberry Bakery in Forbes street.

For years they have had many pies that could not be sold. Some were broken; some were not baked just right; some had to be cut, but they were all good pies.

The management disposed of the discards the best way it could. Some found their way to hungry men, others to beggars. Then the unemployment situation challenged Pittsburgh to feed the needy.

Every day, between 2:30 and 3:30, all of the unsaleable pies are stacked in boxes and passed to the waiting line of hungry men. Some of them are lucky enough to happen along when a whole pie is being handed out, but whether a whole pie or a piece, they like it.

STORM THREAT MAY HALT DO-X

SANTANDER, Spain, Nov. 21.—(INS.)—Stormy weather in her projected path may further delay the take-off for Corunna today of the German flying boat DO-X, which landed here yesterday because of headwinds after a three-hour flight from Bordeaux.

The hop from France to Spain was made with little difficulty, although strong counterwinds reduced the airliner's speed. The ship carried 10 passengers and a weight of approximately 53 tons.

Dr. Claude Dornier, designer and builder, aboard the craft, said he expected to remain at Corunna for three days. The projected trans-Atlantic hop of the DO-X, he added, remained indefinite.

Southerly gales and stormy forecasts in the latter part of the morning further removed the possibility that the DO-X would conclude her hop to Corunna today.

CITY USES NEW TRAFFIC SIGNS

A new type of traffic control equipment for Pittsburgh was placed in operation at South Main and Carson streets, West End, and Bloomfield Bridge and Main street and Liberty avenue, according to City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre. The novelty of the signals involves the use of a new type of timing and control mechanism with arrows on the lenses of the stop-and-go lights.

The new arrangement at the end of the Bloomfield Street Bridge is calculated to break the traffic going east on Main street and Liberty avenue into two parts, McIntyre announced.

The change in arrangements at Carson and Main streets permits west-bound traffic to proceed continuously with the exception of a short pedestrian interval, and makes a special distribution of timing for traffic turning left into and right out of South Main street and going east on Carson street.

The Major, who signed up for the duration of the war on the very day it was declared, is blind. The bullet he fired in his suicide attempt did that. He was discharged and departed for Rhode Island to live with friends.

THEFT OF GUNS SHIFTS GUARDS

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—As a result of the recent theft of machine guns and service revolvers from local coast guard headquarters, all enlisted men with the exception of three in jail, and one officer, have been transferred.

The three men in jail are held on open charges. Just what action will be taken in their cases will depend upon instructions from Washington, Commander M. W. Rasmussen said.

No trace has been found of the stolen arms. Government officials are convinced, however, the weapons either are in the hands of Lake Erie rum runners, or in possession of a gang which has acquired them for holdup activities.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Thanksgiving To See All Hunts Ride

Every Hunt is going to ride Thanksgiving day, and every Hunt will have some special social event to mark the holiday. I've already mentioned the plans of the Sewickley and Pittsburgh Hunts, and that the Rolling Rock Hunt would meet the Westmoreland Hunt in Greensburg.

Today I've received word of the Rolling Rock social plans. The Richard Beatty Mellons will entertain hunt members with a breakfast in their home at 8 o'clock Thanksgiving morning. Following the hunt, Henry Coulsey will entertain at a hunt breakfast at 1 o'clock in his log cabin to repeal. On Saturday, November 29, when the two hunts will again ride together, the H. F. Bevards will entertain the field at a tea.

Date Is Changed

This early winter weather, with its dreary, fog-laden days, is always brightened, as though with the ruddy cheer of a fireside, with intimate, informal luncheons and small, gay parties. These smaller affairs are, of course, spaced between the big affairs, the balls and dinner dances.

Before I tell you about any of these parties I want to mention that a large dinner dance that was to have been given on the evening of December 27 in the Allegheny Country Club has been postponed. The Thomas J. McKays, who were to give the dance in honor of their debutante daughter, Elizabeth McKay, have changed the date to January 2.

Among them this year will be a dinner in honor of one of the buds, Jane Marshall, daughter of the Charles D. Marshalls, to be given in the Marshall home by the bud's sisters, Mary Marshall and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson, of Forest Hills, L. I., and Mr. Wilson.

That morning Alfred Ward will arrive home from school for the holidays.

In honor of Helen House, who'll return from the Milton Academy at Milton, Mass., for the Christmas holidays, the junior C. L. Pierces, of Beechwood boulevard, will give a dinner dance in their home on December 20.

Of course everyone wants to know who'll be in Jane Childs Foster's bridal party. Her marriage to Edward Small Moore, Jr., of New York and Big Horn, Wym., son of the Edward Small Moores, of New York, and nephew of the Cyrus R. Millers and the T. A. McGinleys, of Sewickley, will take place on Wednesdy morning at St. Mathew's Catholic Church, San Mateao, Cal.

Bridal Party

Jane, who is the granddaughter of Mrs. Harvey Childs, Jr., made her debut here during the holidays several seasons ago. She's the daughter of the Charles A. Fosters, of San Francisco and San Mateao.

Molly Foster and Annie Foster will be their sister's attendants, and Garland D. Barnes, Jr., of New York, will be best man. Robert G. Hooker, Jr., of Hillsborough, Cal.; Charles A. Foster, Jr., brother of the bride-to-be; John Harry Watson, of San Francisco; and Oliver M. Wallop, of Big Horn, brother-in-law of the bridegroom-elect, will be ushers.

A reception in the Foster home will follow the wedding. After a wedding trip Mr. Moore and his bride will live in Big Horn, Wym.

America Facing Better Day, Alliance Told by The Rev. Dr. Petty

The world is facing bankruptcy, is up against a breakdown of democracy and a moral collapse, the Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty said yesterday when he addressed the Outlook Alliance at its literary luncheon in the Congress of Clubs. Dr. Petty had as his subject "Thanksgiving in a Time of Depression," and before he finished his talk he showed why America has cause to be thankful just now.

The speaker drew a sharp line between cynicism and constructive criticism before going on to talk of the present depression, the cause of which he traces directly to the World War.

He spoke of the war as the wildest, the most disastrous, most prodigal and wasteful enterprise the world has ever seen, remarking that every sane economist knows the world can not burn up beyond salvage $240,000,000,000 without every nation going into a deficit. The subsequent orgy of speculation inflated all economic values, the standard of living was raised disproportionately above the standard of life; the great responsibility was accepted as a piece of good luck and not as a trusteeship; silk stockings were confused with brains and comfort with culture, he stated.

Mr. Petty quoted a statistician as saying 100 years ago 16 items constituted the necessities of life; 62, the luxuries, and there were 200 items to choose from; today there are 94 necessities, 484 luxuries, and 365,000 items from which to choose. Sales psychology, which is essentially a selfish psychology, he said, has become the psychology of American life.

Dr. Petty prophesied that with the two qualities on which America always works—courage and faith—the nation will swing out towards sanity, simplicity and a spiritual interpretation of life that will amaze the world within the next decade. America's golden days have always been when she faced facts, and tomorrow, he declared, will be a better day because we have suffered than yesterday was a cheaper day because we revelled.

Other features of the luncheon yesterday were the very pleasing solos sung by Mrs. Earl Sarver, accompanied by Mrs. Martin Leiseder.

SHEER FABRICS FAVORED FOR EVENING WEAR THIS WINTER

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 21.—We are going heavy on light fabrics this winter and consequently ballrooms and restaurants present quite a summery appearance with so much lace and net, georgette and chiffon in evidence. And some young girls anticipating the sartorial delights of the South are appearing in frocks of georgette and chiffon. And if that is not a direct defiance of the winter, well what is? There is something so ethereal about sheer fabrics and so it is not to be wondered at that women have insisted upon being permitted to enjoy their glamorous appeal the year round. The heavy fabrics are of course most stately, sometimes opulent. But the trend also favors lighter weaves. Woman would always like to appear exquisitely glamorous, judging by the frocks making their appearance in the most fashionable resorts and homes.

EVERY EVENING entertainment seems to be a signal for the ordering of novel and beautiful evening frocks. The two sketches presented will give a slight idea of the trend here. The first model is a most novel Louiseboulanger creation that breaks several time-honored precedents for evening clothes. First of all it is of chestnut brown—hardly an evening color till now. Then it is of crisp organdie, ideal for the graceful full skirt. It has a top of brown chiffon and the much liked square decolletage.

THE OTHER sketch was observed at a fashionable restaurant and sketched because it presents many points of interest. It is of white georgette and features the modified "tie back" that was considered the last word in the seventies.

$73,600 SPENT FOR AD, SETS RECORD

Refrigerator-Radio Concern Spends to Show Faith in Return of Prosperity

Bespeaking an unshaken confidence in public buying power and returning prosperity, the Grigsby-Grunow Company and the Majestic Household Utilities Corporation, have placed the largest single advertisement ever given any woman's magazine in the December issue of Good Housekeeping.

The advertisement is an eight-page, four-color insert, costing $73,600, representing the largest expenditure of money by any single manufacturer in one issue of any magazine, as far as is known.

The advertisement is used to describe Majestic electrical refrigerators. The companies are now producing 800 refrigerators a day, and 6,000 persons are employed in the huge plants of the Grigsby-Grunow Company and Majestic Household Utilities in Chicago. These plants have a capacity of 3,000 refrigerators, 6,000 complete radios and 100,000 tubes daily. W. C. Grunow, president of the two affiliated companies, said:

"We sincerely believe that you cannot buy a better refrigerator than the Majestic at any price, and to properly picture this newest product of the Majestic factories we decided to place in Good Housekeeping the largest single advertisement ever placed in a woman's magazine."

Duane Wanamaker, vice president in charge of advertising for the companies, said:

"Good Housekeeping was picked to carry this advertisement exclusively because in our opinion Good Housekeeping circulation represents a picked audience of the most desirable American housewives. To tell the story of this wonderful new Majestic electrical refrigerator requires far more than eight pages, but in order to give the housewives of America a little glimpse of what a really wonderful product it is, we decided to use this advertisement and to invest over $100,000 at the same time in the newspapers of America."

MARCO POLO'S TRAIL GOAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Plans of Georges-Marie Haardt, French scientist and traveler, to emulate the journeys of Marco Polo by automobile, were disclosed today by the National Geographic Society.

The society announced that it would co-operate with the Frenchman in sending eight caterpillar cars on a 5,000-mile tour of least-known Asia, from Beirut, Syria, to Peiping, China, and return on an 8,000-mile southern route.

It described the tour as "one of the most comprehensive and most completely equipped expeditions of modern times." Experts in a dozen scientific fields will be on the staff to make technical studies.

Except for a Geographic Society representative, the party of 35 will be entirely French. The expedition's patron is Andre Citroen, motor manufacturer.

The trans-Atlantic expedition will take the field in March.

STORE SLAYING 'MISTAKE'

MARATHON, N. Y., Nov. 21.—(AP.) — The fatal shooting of Clayton W. Seeber, banker and merchant, in his store last Tuesday night was described by the county sheriff as the blunder of a burglar-hunting posse.

Sworn statements in hands of District Attorney Coon said Seeber was killed and Mrs. Myra Mudge, 57-year-old widow, wounded by a posse of which Seeber's own son, Carter, was a member.

The posse was assembled when Carter Seeber reported that he heard noises in his father's feed store, which had been burglarized twice before.

Coon and Sheriff Eades expressed the opinion today that the shooting was "a regrettable case of mistaken identity."

Put dates and nuts through food chopper. Add sugar and beaten eggs and mix well. Add melted butter, lemon juice, flour and salt and mix thoroughly. Spread evenly in a greased shallow pan, having mixture ¼ inch deep. Bake in a moderate oven, 324 degrees F., about 30 minutes. Cut in strips and roll in powdered sugar while hot.

HONEYMOON DIVINITY—One cup honey, 3 cups sugar, ½ cup orange juice, 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten, 2 cups chopped raisins, 20 marshmallows, shredded.

Boil honey, sugar and orange juice without stirring until it forms a firm ball when tried in cold water or reaches 240 degrees F. on candy thermometer. Remove from fire and pour over the stiffly beaten egg whites. Beat until thick, add raisins and marshmallows and pour into buttered tins. Cut into squares before it hardens.

BUTTERSCOTCH FILLING—One cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons water, 1 cup cold water, 2 egg yolks, 1 cup evaporated milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 5 tablespoons flour.

Boil sugar with 2 tablespoons water to ⅔ cup syrup (about 5 minutes). Make a smooth paste of cold water and flour. Add to syrup and boil 1 minute. Beat egg yolks, add evaporated milk and combine with sugar mixture. Cook over boiling water until thickened (about 10 minutes). Add vanilla. Pour into cooled baked tart shells. Cool, cover with meringue and brown in a slow (300 degrees F.) oven. Yield, 8 tarts.

MERINGUE—Two egg whites, 2 tablespoons cold water, ½ tablespoon cream of tartar, ¼ cup sugar.

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Add fat, sugar and salt to milk. Add yeast and well beaten eggs and mix thoroughly, then add flour to make a stiff batter. Beat thoroughly 10 minutes. In a warm place (about 85 degrees F.) free from draughts of air, let rise about 1½ hours. Beat again and pour into a buttered pan. Pare and core apples and slice thin. Lay slices of apples on top in rows with the sharp edges pressed into the dough. Sprinkle with sugar-cinnamon mixture, and let rise in a warm place, preferably a closed container that has a pan of warm water underneath to supply steam, and to keep the outer surface moist. Let rise until bulk has increased 2¼ times. This will be accomplished in 40-45 minutes, if the temperature of rising is around 90 degrees F. Bake in a hot oven (455 degrees F.).

GRIDDLE CAKES—1 cup special cake flour, sifted; ½ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, well beaten; 1 cup thick sour milk or buttermilk, 1 teaspoon melted butter or other shortening.

A topping of sweetened whipped cream may be put over the cranberries if desired.

QUINCE AND APPLE MARMALADE—Eight sweet apples, 4 quinces, juice of 2 lemons, sugar. Pare, core and slice the fruit. Cook gently until it is tender, in a very little water. Annie Amazed When Tom Proposes to Her

CHAPTER XIV.

"If youse'll let me deal wid dese hoodlums, we'll have d'gal back sweet an snappy," grunted Cyclone Tim McClosky as he filliped the gray ash from one of Mr. Schuyder's Habana perfectos on the oriental rug.

The other three, Tall Tom Gillespie, Tommy and the banker seated in a semi-circle in Mr. Schuyder's spacious drawing room at 9:30 o'clock on the morning after Alice Schuyder had been kidnaped, all peered at Cyclone Tim incredulously. All but Tommy, who had faith in the judgment of the grizzled old gang chieftain and who had insisted that he be present when the promised telephone call was to come through at 10 o'clock from his fiancee's abductors.

Cyclone Tim was strangely out of place in the luxurious drawing room. He sported a patch over his forehead from the blow he had received the night before when his gang had hi-jacked in Long Island Sound the million dollars worth of Silk Freeman's dope. His left arm was stiff from the bullet wound and his whole body was mauled and bruised. He wore a greasy sweater and he had stuffed his cap into his hip pocket when the butler let him in.

But Cyclone Tim was not out of place among these men. Between him and Tall Tom Gillespie was an age-old reverence of fighters. He and Tommy were downright pals. And Mr. Schuyder was sympathetic to any agency through which he might reclaim his daughter.

On the table, beside the banker were several bundles of banknotes. Cyclone Tim threw avaricious glances at them from time to time as Mr. Schuyder explained again to Tall Tom the conversation with the mysterious man on the night before; explained how he was to have the $100,000 ready when the man called at 10 o'clock; explained how the money was to be held merely as a bond to force Tall Tom to give up 33 1-3 per cent of his trucking business—a business, the man charged, Tall Tom had bludgeoned from less powerful rivals.

Tim Answers Call

As Cyclone Tim listened with the cunning of his kind he suddenly sought out a bare space between two Oriental rugs and spat on the floor.

"It's Freeman," he growled contemptuously.

"Whoever it is," sighed the banker, and he turned his melancholy gaze on Tall Tom, "I've got the money here and I'm going to pay it and get my daughter back. You and I have always worked together, Tom. When the money is posted and Alice is safe, I don't care whether you carry out the blackmailing bargain or not—I'll stand to lose. All I want is Alice—safe and sound."

It was a few minutes to 10. Tommy began to pace the floor. Tall Tom remained in his stiff, upright position in his chair in deep and silent thought. The banker nervously watched the telephone. Cyclone Tim leisurely helped himself to another Habana from the humidor.

Ten o'clock. The sharp, ominous tinkle of the telephone bell. Tommy froze in his tracks. The muscles of Tall Tom's face twitched. Mr. Schuyder for the moment seemed paralyzed. A hopeless, forlorn expression spread over his thin, white face. Cyclone Tim was on his feet like a cat.

"Don't touch dat 'phone!" he growled, as he walked toward the table. He yanked the receiver off the hook with his right hand, as he could hardly move his wounded left arm. He placed the receiver to his flopping ear and stuck his twisted, snarling lips into the mouthpiece.

Recognizes Voice

"Hullo," he said in a low tone such as convicts use when they address each other in prison, "Mr. Schuyder, yes, he's right here. . . . No, he don't wanna talk to you" — the banker shot a despairing look at Tall Tom and then sank back in his chair. "Who is dis?" . . . Never mind who dis is. Who are you? . . . Well, I'll tell you who y'ar. You're Scotty MacDonald, dat little Shyster punk around from de Jefferson Market Court. . . I never forget no voice. I know you, and you're playing wid Silk Freeman. . . No? Well, I'm goin' t' tell you somet'in an' you can burn it into de ear o' your B. B. You can tell him you was speakin' to de gink dat grabbed off his million smack'ers o' dope las night out in de Sound—get me? . . . I got de dope and youse has got de goil. If dat jane is wort' a hundred grand to Silk she's sure wort' ten times dat. . . . So, let's do a little business on dis 'phone at 'leven t'night—an' no double-cross'n, s'long."

Cyclone Tim threw the receiver with a clatter on the hook. He turned to face the others — Tall Tom watching him, keenly admiring Tommy with an awe-struck expression. The banker now cunningly alert at the mention of a million dollars and a fight with weapons of his kind.

"Dem's sure good stogies," commented Cyclone Tim digging his dirty paw into the humidor.

Polack Annie, who had shot with more noble implements, was aiming to coax a golf-ball through a grated hazard under the incandescents of Broadway's own night-life peewee links on Fiftieth Street. Nine men oddly enough were gathered about her, all waiting to play that same hole. She looked neither to right nor wrong, though she had never hit one of the funny sublimated marbles before she knew enough about the game to keep her eyes on the ball.

She missed the putt. But the moment was not a total loss For just then a roadster drew up at the entrance and out leaped an athletic young fellow, Tommy Gillespie. He tossed a half a dollar on the ledge and, disdaining the club and ball, entered hastily and looked around.

Speak of Marriage

When he saw the knot of men he sensed that Annie would be in the center. They all looked at him resentfully as they saw her drop the putter, abandon the hole and the whole business, and stroll with her hand on his arm out the gate.

He seated her in his car, hopped in and hopped off. She was still holding his arm, gently feeling his trained muscles as they played with the turn of the wheel and the shift of the lever.

"Gee, you're strong," she enthused.

"Strong for you," he answered boyishly. "We've had a busy evening—and we're going to be busier still, I fancy. But I mustn't embarrass you with this. Cyclone—I mean a friend of mine thinks—well, a friend of yours is behind the kidnaping of Alice."

"Oh—so? It's jus' too bad about Alice. What'd Silk want with her—he's had ME!"

"Well, it isn't just that sort of an attachment—whew, I hope not!"

"That's right. Youse two are engaged—yet. H'm—you know, Tommy boy, I think I could marry this Freeman if I took good aim at him."

"Heaven forbid!"

"How come? If you're gonna double up with Alice, why shouldn't I team with Silk?"

"He's a thief—a racketeer—a murderer—a—"

"He's no lily—that is, from what I hear. But he's there with a bankroll . . . an' being Mrs. Silk Freeman for a while prob'ly means bein' a rich widow soon . . . them kind don' live to be pests long. I could—"

"You'll not marry Freeman!"

"No?" she retored "Li'l Annie no can marry Silky?"

"Stop treating the subject in that—that profane spirit. When I get this—this other matter—all straightened out, you'll marry me."

Annie Amazed

The amused expression of Polack Annie died.

"Y-you? You would marry me?" she asked.

"Not I would—I will."

The gangster girl slumped rather than relaxed down in the seat. Nothing like this had ever come to her before. Surely enough, a few bohunk bozos, half drunk or on fire from her hair, had mouthed marriage at her; her one big love, the Edgewater Kid, would have married her, maybe—had he lived until he had to, but—

This boy, this rich, educated, refined, manly lad, from a realm beyond the dregs and the yeggs that had punctuated her whole existence, this handsome young millionaire, would jilt a society heiress for the red-headed leavings of red-handed roughnecks; he would take her out of her slavery to the only world that ever had given her hospice and hostage; he would make her a lady—a wife—Annie Gillespie—she would have a last name! Mrs. Thomas Gillespie, Jr.

This boy—this boy—Annie suddenly put her gloved hand over her face for fear that those educated eyes that she had trained to cheat and lie so long that she couldn't trust them herself might betray her—this boy was the boy she had promised to put on the spot!

Things rocketed jazzily through her head.

Tommy had pulled up—in a dark place.

"This is the spot," he said.

She jumped at the word.

"Annie!" he breathed earnestly, hoarsely, "I haven't known a moment since first I kissed you that I didn't spend just impatiently longing for this moment when I'd kiss you again. . . . Annie I've never loved a woman before . . do you—could you—"

She raised her face and her hot lips found his.

A harsh voice broke in:

"Hey, youse two—"

It was a uniformed policeman.

"What the hell you think this is? You're in Central Park not Inspiration Point."

Women's Economy in Clothes Bespeaks Favor of Short Skirt—Fay King

By FAY KING.

Women do not like to economize. They never are so happy as when they are out shopping for pretty new things.

This season seems to be the first when they have been willing to wear their old things longer than usual. The reason for this is that most women like the old styles better than new ones which have been put forward this season.

One sees few long dresses worn, and the wearers of short ones will tell you they are making their old clothes do. This gives an excuse to stick to the styles they like best.

Fashions have never been so unflattering as they are this season.

Long evening dresses make even the youngest and prettiest look matronly.

Madge Hesitates to Tell Mary of Veritzen Dinner

At Mary's terrified whisper my eyes followed hers to the elevator she had indicated. But I could see only a group of women standing in front of it.

"What? Where, Mary?" I whispered back. "I don't see—"

"He's gone now," Mary said. "And of course I couldn't be certain. But there was a man standing against a post near the elevator who looked like that man in the black roadster. I don't believe I would have noticed him except that when I looked over that way he gum-shoed it around the corner of the elevator as if he were trying to get under cover. What do you think, Auntie Madge?"

Her tone expressed such confidence in my judgment that I was heartened to more optimistic utterance than I felt.

"I think, my dear," I said lightly, "that your Uncle Dicky would tell you your imagination was working overtime. That is one of his favorite phrases, you know."

"Yes, I know," Mary said doubtfully, "and I suppose you're right. But I can't help feeling—"

"What does it really matter if I'm wrong and the man has actually trailed us here?" I asked lightly. "It is annoying, of course, to be watched, but we can hug to our souls the blessed assurance that Mr. Veritzen, if this man really is reporting to him, will be equally annoyed to find us doing anything so innocent as shopping."

"You mean to find me," Mary said shrewdly. "It's kind of you to pretend that Mr. Veritzen is employing that man to watch you as well as me. But I know better."

"Have it your own way," I laughed. "But don't spoil this shopping trip worrying about it."

"You're such a good egg, Auntie Madge," she said fervently. "No one can worry about anything with you on the job."

"That is too sweeping a statement," I told her, "but I do want you to feel that you—spell it with capitals—do not need to worry about anything Mr. Veritzen can do. I am 'on the job' in this matter every second of the day and night, so please smile at me and turn your mind to matching shoes and hose to these gorgeous colorings."

I gestured to the evening dress and coat which the girl in front of us was carrying, and Mary gave me the smile for which I had asked.

"I can't think of anything more fascinating," she said, "and I suppose if we can't find an exact match black slippers and flesh stockings will do."

"You may have any kind you wish," I told her indulgently, and for the next half hour we had an orgy of shopping which began in the shoe department, where we found the "darling, stubby short vamp slippers," continued at the glove, hosiery and handkerchief counters.

I hated to spoil Mary's pleasure in the trip with mention of Philip Veritzen, but a look at my watch when, tired but triumphant with the sense of a hard task accomplished, we entered the taxi, told me that it was almost dinner time, and that we might find my employer at the hotel when we arrived. It was unthinkable to let her meet him without preparation, and I braced myself for the task of telling her the unwelcome news.

"Mary," I said abruptly, deeming it best to get the thing over as soon as possible. "We have an unpleasant evening before us, but I want you to put the best face on it you can and let no one guess your real feelings."

She caught her lower lip between her teeth before she spoke, but her voice was steady.

"Do you mean I'll have to meet Mr. Veritzen?" she asked quietly.

"Yes. He has asked us all to dinner with him."

"Dinner?" she echoed. "But I couldn't eat anything with him around. I'd choke. Isn't there some way I could stay at the hotel by myself?"

"Mr. Veritzen suggested that himself, Mary," I said. "Do you think it would be wise to follow his advice?"

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Mrs. Solomon Says—

Verily, verily, my daughter, there are two-gunmen, two-in-one tables, and two-way streets. But every damsel is, at heart, a ONE-MAN woman!

And, howsoever, she may strive to pose as a varietist, and a hard-boiled collector of hearts, she deceiveth no one save herself. For, her camouflage is thinner than a debutante's hose and easier to see through than a husband's alibis.

Wherefore, then, do foolish virgins seek to appear "wise" and to play the sophisticated and cynical, saying, "Love is the bunk; and marriage crampeth the style. Me for the free and single life!"

For in matters of love, men may be general practitioners, but every woman is a specialist.

And many admirers may stimulate her vanity and inflate her egotism. But, when one man occupyeth her heart, he leaveth no room for others.

Go to. A man's heart is as a subway train or a college flivver, in which there is always room for ONE MORE.

But a woman's heart is like unto a telephone booth, where only one at a time may linger.

And, however often a woman may change from husband to husband, she seeketh not variety, but always the ONE MAN, who shall satisfy all her dreams.

Lo, because a man loveth one woman, is no reason why he doth not delight in kissing another woman. For, unto him, love is a personal matter; but a kiss is only a kiss—and may be purely impersonal.

But, to a woman who hath set her heart upon one man, the kisses of all other men are boresome, and their caresses exceeding abhorrent.

Verily, man's thoughts may be all of one woman, even while he holdeth another woman in his arms.

How then, doth a damsel think to find happiness and peace of heart in the philosophy of sophists and the company of petters?

For a woman may sing the praises of the "free and single life," but her song subsideth to a gentle, "Yes, dear," when she hath GOT HER MAN!

Tell It to Sally

By SALLY MARTIN

Should an Unwed Mother Sacrifice Her Baby to Erase the Stigma of Shame?

They say she must give up her baby!

Give up her tiny, soft, helpless little son—hand him over to some stranger to adopt, and then walk out, and never see or hear or speak of him again.

Why this terrible verdict?

Because he has no name! And because a nameless baby is black shame for her and them—her family!

But still her young arms cling desperately to that little nameless bundle they call her "sin."

Is he a "sin?" Must she let him go?

Or has she the right to keep him and work for him and give him her own name?

It's as pitiful a story as ever came into this column. It's a story that will make your throat ache and your blood boil, if you have an ounce of humanity in you.

Read it:

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I have been reading your column for a long time, and you seem so kind. You seem to help so many people. So I am coming to you, hoping and praying that you can help me.

"My own people say that I don't deserve any help, but oh, I do need it so! I am going to tell you my terrible story anyway, whether there is any help for me or not, so that I can get some of the weight off my mind.

"Here it is. I am the mother of a baby who has no name. I am not complaining about that, or trying to put the blame on anyone else. I am taking all of it myself. I know that it is all my fault. But I am just heartbroken. Please, please help me, and tell me what you think I should do.

"Do you think that it is wrong for me to want to keep my baby? My own people have no use for me any more. And they insist that I give the baby away . . . Get it out of sight, so folks won't be reminded how I have disgraced them. They want me to let some stranger adopt it.

"But oh, I can't! I can't ever do that! It is a little boy, and even if I shouldn't ever have had it, I love it so, and I just can't bear to give it up. When it's little hands reach out and catch hold of mine, it just goes clear to the bottom of my heart. Oh, I care so much more than anyone else in the world ever could care for it.

"Do I have to let it go? Do you think it would be best if I did give it away, so it can have an honest name?

"Or do you think I could take it up in the country somewhere, where no one knows me, and get a place to work where I could have it with me? My own people hate me, and don't want me around, so long as I keep it. I feel as if I had no one—no one at all, only my darling baby. He is my only comfort.

"Please help me! I feel so broken. So lost. So bewildered. "BROKEN-HEARTED MARY."

You poor little kid! How I wish I could gather you into my arms and comfort your terrible hurt—and how, oh how, I wish I could hand your heartless family the wallop they deserve!

Must you give up your baby?

Not while you've spunk enough left to fight for it! It's your baby, and yours to keep. An "honest name" you ask? What about your own name, honey? The name of any girl loving and gritty enough to face the ordeal you have faced, and endure the persecution you've endured, for it's sake, is "honest" enough for any baby.

So fight for it! Don't live another day where you are hated and scorned! Go out and make a life for yourself and for it, just as you would if you had been married. Get yourself a job. If you can't find one where you can take it with you, put it with some good day nursery—and crash into that new life that's ahead of you.

And forget your shame. Stop cringing and loathing yourself. Put the past behind you. Look forward, with hope and courage, to the future.

You were a reckless, silly little fool once, but you've wiped out that recklessness and that foolishness by your love and bravery. You've grown up.

So go out and live again. Live happily. Live proudly. Hold up your head. Live so that your little son will love you and be proud of you . . . and be happy because you are his mother.

And here's betting on you! You're regular, and then some! Crash into it!

Household Hints

The juice of ripe cucumbers will remove vegetable stains from the hands.

Rub a raw potato on the aluminum griddle used for baking pancakes. Then the cakes will not stick.

For salad making, shears are useful utensils. Use them to shred lettuce, cut parseley and dice fruit or vegetables.

Eliminating the odor of boiling onions from a home where this vegetables is a favorite menu item presents a problem. And no matter how fond one is of onions, there is nothing more unpleasant than to be greeted at the door with a gust of onion-scented air. Try putting the onions on in cold water to a boil and drain. Then add boiling water for a final cooking.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Insomnia Is Often a Habit.

Nothing is more disturbing than going to bed at night and not being able to sleep. It makes the night hideous and ruins the happiness of the following day.

DR COPELAND

Sleeplessness or insomnia is largely a matter of habit, a bad habit. Excessive fatigue, worry, lack of fresh air and physical exercise, are the main causes leading to insomnia. One should acquire the habit of absolutely dropping work and cares at bed-time.

If you are restless and cannot sleep, do not worry about it. Dwelling on the thought that you are having difficulty in sleeping will keep you awake. Relax in bed, and even if you are awake, you are affording rest to your body. Rest will come only with relaxation and that will be followed by sleep.

Sleep is Nature's way of rejuvenating the body. Sleep should be sufficient in duration and it should be uninterrupted. The average number of hours of sleep required by an adult is from seven to nine hours. Growing children require more sleep than adults.

Sleep comes most readily when the stomach is practically empty. If the drinking of water induces bladder action during the night, it is better to avoid late drinking. Where possible, sleep outdoors or in a room open to fresh air. Outdoor sleeping is more restful and beneficial than indoor sleeping.

Never take drugs for sleeplessness. Once you start relying on medicine for sleep, you begin a habit that is often difficult to break.

Plenty of exercise in the open during the day is essential for good sleep at night. Let your evening meal be a wholesome one without spices and condiments. Avoid all stimulants.

Let me repeat—make sure there is plenty of fresh air in your bedroom. You can be assured of this if all the windows of your sleeping chamber are open.

A warm bath just before going to bed is a great aid in relaxing the body and preparing for a good night's sleep. Sleep may be encouraged by drinking a glass of warm milk.

If you are worried and cannot relax in bed, it is often a good plan to read something diverting. Do not read exciting books in an attempt to relax. A book that requires concentration will help you quiet the mind and induce sleep.

If you continue having insomnia in spite of these measures consult with your physician. Continued lack of sleep is injurious to the body.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The "Bread and Butter" Letter

Will you kindly tell me how to word a bread and butter letter to my hostess for a delightful week-end party?

R. M.

Tell your hostess first of your appreciation of her "kindness and lovely hospitality," or words to that effect, and then chat with her about your appreciation of her special thoughtfulnesses in planning for your happiness while you were in her home. For instance, some special party she may have given for you, a dinner, a luncheon, a tea, a supper party. Tell her, too, how very much you enjoyed meeting her delightful friends. Tell her how much you loved being a member of her charming home, and how touched you were by the kindness planned for you by the other members of her family.

In other words, put yourself in her place, and think of what things you would like to be thanked for, if you had been the hostess.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, November 22

The sidereal operations for this day seem to accent the domestic, artistic, social and romantic affiliations or those forms of business in which these elements are concerned. Employment should prove pleasant and advantageous, as should contacts or engagements with elderly persons or institutions. But the purely personal activities may pleasantly and fortuitously eclipse all other interests.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year in which the domestic, social, artistic or affectional affiliations may be predominant, although business relating to these and also employment should prosper and bring happiness. Also matters associated with elderly persons or institutions should flourish, but in all affairs the temper should be preserved and caustic speech avoided

A child born on this day may be clever, practical, energetic and personally attractive and popular. But it should be disciplined in cool and "civil" speech.

Physician Describes Value of Iron in Food

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator From New York.

"Have you had your iron today?" This question in one of its many variations may be seen in advertisements for foods believed to be "rich in iron."

In order that the body may thrive and develop properly, certain minerals are necessary. They are supplied to the body by food.

As would be expected, some foods are richer in minerals than others. If the diet in general is good, you may be sure sufficient supplies of minerals will be given you.

Why are minerals so important?

Firstly, because the minerals aid in the development and nutrition of the bones of the body.

Second, each cell in the body, in order that it may carry on its functions must have minerals.

This activity is essential to maintain life and growth. This process goes on all the time in the tissues and fluids of the body and it cannot be carried on without minerals.

NECESSARY MINERAL

Iron is one of the most important minerals required by the body. Growing children and nursing mothers require more iron than men. Children are constantly growing and their bony framework requires ample nourishment. Iron in larger doses is required by women, because they are subject to many normal burdens upon their strength.

The chief food of the infant is milk, which happens to be exceedingly poor in iron. Nature takes care of this by providing that the child receive much iron from the mother before birth. This supply of iron given by the mother is stored in the infant's body. It is gradually released during the nursing period. It is interesting to note that at birth the infant possesses a storage of iron three times as great as is found in the body at maturity.

Lean meats, eggs, cereal grains, vegetables and fruits are rich in iron. Spinach, cabbage, string beans, carrots, dried beans and dried prunes are especially valuable as sources of iron in the daily diet.

IMPORTANT FOODS

Fruits, such as apples, bananas and oranges, and nuts, such as almonds, peanuts and walnuts, supply us with liberal quantities of iron. Vegetables and fruits should be included in our daily diet because of their contribution of iron.

Fatty meats are extremely poor in iron content. Other fatty foods, such as bacon, meat fat, lard and butter, are low in iron content. If taken in excess, to the exclusion of other foods, their consumption will greatly lower the daily intake of iron.

Bear in mind the importance of the minerals. Your health depends on an unfailing supply.

BANK OFFICIAL ADMITS THEFT

MERCER, Pa., Nov. 21.—Ralph E. Matthews, secretary-treasurer of the Dollar Title and Trust Bank, which closed its doors last week, has signed a plea of guilty to embezzling $171,000 of the bank's funds. This was the amount stated in the warrant, but it will be several days until the official audit is completed and the exact amount taken, determined.

When the bank closed it was estimated that Matthews had taken $125,000. District Attorney Leo McKay states Matthews will not be sentenced until the audit is finished.

"I'll Expose the Secrets of Royal Families!"

BORN the heir to a dukedom . . . a cousin of an Emperor . . . surrounded by the glitter and pomp of one of Europe's oldest and proudest courts, hobnobbing with Kings and Emperors . . . followed by admiring crowds, tenderly guarded by the police and pursued by beautiful women. But he could not tolerate the intrigues, bitter jealousies and hatreds—the wild gaiety and human passions—the hypocrisy of court life. This high-born man prefers to live the life of a commoner in Switzerland. And now he reveals the misery of court life—the curse of a throne which breathed death and destruction to every one approaching it . . . intimate details of the death of a Crown Prince in a hunting lodge . . . illuminating revelations behind the scenes in the life of European royal families: next Sunday in The American Weekly.

Are We Really Civilized?

Is it so that we are dirtier than savages, noisier than wild men? Is it true that while reaching for higher and nobler things we are missing the ordinary comfort, cleanliness, health and peace of mind of the dumb animals? This is something that concerns every man, woman and child in America . . . a startling array of facts regarding the air we breathe, the food we eat, the clothes we wear, the life we lead and the penalties we pay for trying to be civilized: next Sunday in The American Weekly.

A Strange Marital Mix-up

Plain, homely husbands, with only one wife, have spent sleepless nights devising ways of squaring things with that wife when she caught some other woman showing an interest in him. But here is a man, married four times, divorced and is about to marry for the fifth time—and the wives are good friends, play golf together and "compare notes." Not only that—wife number three undertook to finance her husband so he could pay alimony to wife number two. Though the ladies love him and leave him, there is always an impatient line of beauties waiting their turn. You will be interested in the details of this strange marital mix-up: next Sunday in The American Weekly.

ABOUT HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM EVENTS; NEW PICTURE REVIEWED

Tom Meighan May Make Talking Version of 'Daddy Longlegs'

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21.

One of the pictures contemplated for Thomas Meighan at Fox is said to be "Daddy Longlegs," the best remembered of Mary Pickford's earlier starring vehicles.

Fox will neither confirm nor deny the report, but friends of Meighan declare that the matter is settled.

Thomas Meighan

Another interesting rumor is that Janet Gaynor will play Mary Pickford's role in the talkie. Meighan, of course, would have the part played by Mahlon Hamilton in the silent film.

NO REHEARSAL NEEDED

When Chester Morris was signed for the play, "Past Life," Al Woods wired to know if the actor's father, William Morris, would play a supporting role.

"Why not?" replied the elder Morris. "I've been supporting him all his life."

FRIENDLY RIVALS

Paramount's new discovery, Marlene Dietrich, is compared everywhere to Greta Garbo. They say that Greta owns all of Miss Dietrich's German phonograph records and plays them constantly.

FEAR WAS UNFOUNDED

Joe Jackson, the dialoguist, returns from Europe with the story of a Paris restaurant where 25 scantily attired girls come rushing at you, hissing sibilantly. It was a great relief, he declares, to find that they had not seen his pictures, but were merely trying to attract him to their tables.

FROM PILLAR TO POST

Frank Albertson, Fox's favorite juvenile, can't tell from one day to the next what picture he is in.

Yesterday he was scheduled to do "Waiting at the Church." Today, he has been switched to Will Rogers' new comedy, "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court." He'll play opposite Maureen O'Sullivan.

El Brendel

THERE'S A LIMIT

A short time ago, El Brendel went to Stockton, Cal., to make a personal appearance. Upon his arrival, the manager of the theater asked him if he would play at four shows.

"Listen," objected Brendel mildly, "one show is a personal appearance. Four is an engagement."

She Dances

Dorothy Stone, dancer, is prominent in "Ripples," the new show of her father, Fred Stone, which comes to the Nixon Monday.

RECORD LIQUOR CARGO SEIZED

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The Coast Guard patrol boat Jackson arrived off quarantine in Boston harbor with a tug and two barges laden with one of the largest cargoes ever seized in New England waters. The Jackson made the capture 40 miles south of Rockland, Me.

Coast Guard officials said the tug was the Morell, of New York, an ocean-going craft, bound for her home city. The seizure was made without resistance.

The crew of 10 aboard the Morell and eight others aboard the two barges were held.

New Y. M. & W. H. A. Members Honored

New members of the Y. M. & W. H. A. will be feted Sunday night at Bellefield avenue headquarters. The program includes motion pictures, a stage show and short addresses by several of the organization's members. Prizes will also be awarded to members winning the membership campaign contest.

Thugs Loot Victim In Street, Get $500

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Howard "Scrubby" Bowman, 40, was found beaten unconscious in a South Wheeling alley. Upon being revived by a doctor, after his discovery by passersby, he said that he had been waylaid by two men who had beaten him with blackjacks and taken $500 in bills from his pockets.

Postal Laborers To Organize Here

Alexander Hamill and T. E. Pendelton, officers of the National Association of Postoffice and Railway Mail Service Laborers, will arrive in Pittsburgh Sunday to organize a local branch of the organization. A meeting will follow in the Pittsburgh Terminal Building.

Overbrook Church Plans Card Party

The annual Thanksgiving card party and dance of St. Norbert's Church, Overbrook, will be held next Wednesday and Thursday evenings in the parish school auditorium. The pastor, Father Mader, has appointed John B. McDonough general chairman.

Walker Orchestra For Webster Hall

Beginning tonight, Jimmy Walker, Jr., and his W. & J. Orchestra will play in Hotel Webster Hall nightly for dinner dancing, for which there is no cover charge.

W. A. CLARK ART PRIZES GIVEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Maurice Sterne, New York artist, won the first of the much-besought W. A. Clark prizes in the twelfth biennial exhibition of paintings to open November 30, at the Corcoran Gallery of Art. His work was a study in still life, entitled "After Lunch."

C. Powell Minnigerode, director of the gallery, today also announced the second prize goes to Gifford Beale, of New York, for his figure study, "Circus Girl."

The third prize winner is Edmund Archer, of Richmond, Va., for his "Show Girl," another figure painting.

A street scene, "Mechanic Street, New Hope, Pa.," won fourth place—the artist being Joseph M. Plavcan, of Erie, Pa.

Freshmen's Parents University's Guests

To enable parents and members of the faculty to meet and discuss the work of freshmen, Chancellor John G. Bowman, of the University of Pittsburgh, will give a reception to parents of freshmen in the banquet room of Memorial Hall tonight.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Prophecy

I will grow old and take on careful ways,
And put to rout all youthful arrogance;
I will forget the warm and careless days—
I will have lost the trappings of romance;
You will have gone your way and I will be
Crafty and suave again and strangely cool;
Taverns and inns will see no more of me—
I will have little time to play the fool.

There will be books and ease—a proper mate
To care for me and see that I am fed;
There will be roses growing at the gate,
There will be children to be tucked in bed;
And she will never dream her silent man
Once walked with you and heard the Pipes of Pan.
—Young Man of Manhattan.

The Retort Lovely

A group of Times Squarefarers were toasting and roasting this master of ceremonies and that one again the other night, in the foyer of the Palace Theater. One unofficial critic was saying his say about the lads who interrupt the Ace Music Hall's weekly programs.

"The one I like best," he chirped, "is (name deleted upon request.) I heard everybody say he was great because he has a loud voice and you could hear him in the back rows."

"Is that why you think he is a great entertainer," queried a listener, "because he's loud?"

"I certainly do!" said the chap.

Heheheh

Laughing It Off

The most devastating travesty in town is "Once in a Lifetime," at the Music Box. This is the burlesque on Hooeywood and it is merciless in its kidding of the movie higher-ups and others associated with moom pictures.

Therefore, it is an interesting note to chronicle that Adolph Zukor, one of the industry's most powerful captains, saw the play at the premiere and his only comment was, in his mild and apologetic manner:

"I'm only afraid people will think this play is exaggerated."

Degeneration?

Observation

A first-nighter forwards this scene which he vows took place between scenes in the rear of the Vanderbilt Theater, where Lyle Andrews just produced a new revue. Andrews was jotting down notes — suggestions on what to do to improve the production.

The man giving the expert advice was Arthur Hammerstein, whose "Luana" was the season's most costly casualty.

P. S.—The Vanderbilt Revue closed Saturday night.

What an Idea!

Since the unemployment sitch-ee-ay-shun became the talk of the town, almost anybody you encounter on the avenues approaches you and says:

"Say, buddy, will you help the unemployed and gimme some dough?"

The weary-of-it-all are prepared for these types (as many of whom are phoney, and who are merely taking advantage of the public's sympathy). When a sized-up spurious panhandler says:

"How about helping the unemployed?" the best answer is: "Now ain't that a coincidence? Why, that's just what I was gonna ask you! ! !"

It never fails.

By Way of Report

In the very interesting movie, "The Doorway to Hell," there is this scene. One of the gangsters asks a bartender, "Please give me my instrument." The bartender hands him a violin case (which contains a machine gun).

"Where you going?" he asks.

"I'm going to teach a fellow a lesson," is the gorilla's retort.

This was a tense moment in the flicker the other nite, but we will never forget the shudder that shook our frame when we heard it in the original in a certain speakeasy three years ago.

For the Historians

The trouble with originating a good swift crack is that you never know how many others will claim it. Take the late E. W. Osborn's wisey diurring Mr. Tuttle's attempt to control the ticket specs in 1927. On August 11, 1927, we quoted Mr. Osborn, who was Manhattan's dean among critics, as niftying:

"The ticket brokers are hoping it will be a Tuttle Boss."

Before, during, and after the recent gubernatorial election in New York at least three wits were credited with it in as many columns. Readers still fill our wicker with it.

As Bob Quillen once said:

"Cast your paragraphs upon the waters and they return credited to someone else!"

Haw!

And Vic Earlson says that he knows a girl to whose door the wolf came so often, that Mrs. Wolf got wise and sued for a divorce.

HUSSEY, STAGE STAR, DIES

NORTH DERGEN, N. J., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Jimmy Hussey, 39, who portrayed Jewish parts in vaudeville, died here of pneumonia. His wife and Ed Hickey, Hussey's former partner, were at the actor's bedside. He was born in Chicago and will be buried there.

Hussey, a messenger boy, made his stage debut by singing choruses from the gallery. In "The Little Outcast" he had his real tryout at $12 a week. Then he played a bear in "Babes in Toyland" and scored a hit with Jewish dialect in "The School Girls and Boys."

He was later featured with Elsie Janis in "Puzzles of 1925," and had a leading part in Florenz Ziegfeld's "Betsy." His best remembered vaudeville act was called "The Police Station."

FOREIGN LEGION AGAIN LOST MEN'S HAVEN IN THE WARNER

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

The French Foreign Legion comes in for more glory—or whatever it is the movies give it—in "Renegades," new film in the Warner.

It is the old theme, with a few embellishments, of men who join the Foreign Legion in an attempt to get away from their pasts. It has some action and a lot of desert sand.

Warner Baxter is the biggest pebble among all the sand. He's an ex-officer in the French army, who escaped a disgraceful death by a firing squad and landed in the legion. And a woman was to blame for it all!

OH, THAT WOMAN

Well, this woman—in the person of Myrna Loy—turns up again way out in the Morocco desert. She's out there vamping men under the hot desert sun—or should it be moon?—and Mr. Baxter sees her. All of which goes to make the film story bigger and, pardon us, we almost said better.

The picture becomes incredulous when it has Mr. Baxter setting up a government among native tribes with himself the big boss. This comes after he runs away from the legion.

ANYWAY, A HERO

There is a revengeful streak in the Baxter character. But he's a hero just the same. His worthless life is tossed away in an effort to save the legionaires when his own desert band attacks the French fort.

A beautiful gesture, this. But it doesn't make "Renegades" another "Beau Geste." Its nearest approach to that picture is the presence of Noah Beery in the cast.

Beery and two other players, Gregory Gaye and George Cooper, play comrades of the hero. And Cooper manages to brighten things a bit with his brand of comedy.

TWO MUSICAL SHOWS ON THANKSGIVING WEEK SCHEDULE

There will be no matinee in the Shubert-Alvin Wednesday during the Thanksgiving week engagement of "Artists and Models." Instead, there will be a performance on Thursday afternoon. The curtain is scheduled to rise at 3 o'clock that afternoon.

Seats are now on sale at the boxoffice of the Nixon for the engagement of Fred Stone in "Ripples," with Dorothy Stone and Paula Stone and a company of 100, opening in that theater Monday night.

Another Donation Day will be held in the Pitt tomorrow. Every boy and girl bringing an offering of food or clothing for the poor will be admitted to the matinee. This plan for helping the needy was inaugurated by George Sharp last Saturday and will be continued indefinitely.

Show Boat Keeps Healy and Cross

Healy and Cross remain one more week as features of the new Show Boat revue that opens tonight. Other entertainers include the Alvin sisters, singers; the Gardner sisters, a versatile quartet, and the Jay sisters, blues singers. Betty Lee and Leona Wild are on the bill. Wally Vernon will preside as master of ceremonies. Another attraction is Kiki and Devere, who do a dance, "White Cargo."

THEY CAME . . . THEY SOUGHT . . . THEY CONCURRED:

"IT'S A great gasoline!"

TOUCHDOWN! It's "over" for a score! WHITE FLASH is over, like no gasoline you ever heard of. WHITE FLASH, the new Atlantic super-fuel which sells at regular-gas price. WHITE FLASH, which puts zip and zing into motor-cars and makes them want to go places—quick—on the run!

Remember last Saturday and Sunday? Rain and fog and generally messy driving. The kind of weather when gasoline sales are usually off a half to two-thirds. In spite of this, more motorists by thousands rolled up to Atlantic pumps and romped away with more Atlantic Gasoline than on the previous week-end, which had clear weather in its favor, in addition to peak-season football crowds on the road.

Most of these cars have been back for another tankful. That's what we wanted to check. We believed WHITE FLASH was the finest, highest-powered straight gas that ever whistled through a carburetor. We knew it gave quicker starts, more flashing pick-up, and more power on the long, hard pull than any gasoline ever. And now the customers have proved it.

So, thank you, Everybody, for the best week-end we have had in months. Oh, yes . . . sure, we've got some more just like it. Just come in and say: "WHITE FLASH—fill 'er up!"

8 TO FACE JURY FOR 'NUMBERS'

Complaints charging the sale of "numbers" to school children were included in testimony this morning when William Hayes, 32, of Hazelwood avenue, and two self-confessed Negro bookies were held for court on charges of operating a lottery by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court.

The trio was arrested yesterday when Inspector Albert Beebe's Hill police raided an alleged "numbers" pickup station, opposite the Fifth Avenue High School.

Teh raid was the second of its kind within as many days, police having been spurred to activity by a discussion of the "numbers" racket at a recent meeting of the school board.

Columbus Walker, arraigned before Rothenberg after his arrest in a Hazel street poolroom raid, confessed he peddled "numbers." His case was held over.

Andrew Wallace, Negro proprietor of a store at 6407 Frankstown avenue, and five other Negroes, admitted being numbers writers in East End Police Court today. They were fined $50 or 30 days to the workhouse by Magistrate Charles Papale. All paid.

OFFICER FLIRTS; SUSPENDED

Traffic Patrolman John Solcany, 45, of 5801 Penn avenue, today was fined $25 in East End Police Court and suspended, after an East End woman testified he had asked her to elope with him and had made threats against her husband.

Mrs. Clara Klein, of 4911 Baum boulevard, testified that Solcany, stationed at Baum boulevard and Millvale avenue, came to her home Tuesday under the influence of liquor. He accused her husband of taking auto rides with Anna Solcany, his estranged wife, Mrs. Klein testified, and later proposed that she leave her husband for him.

Solcany denied all charges. He had been arrested early today when he took his wife, Anna, who rooms at 6342 Marchand street, to the police station to have her locked up, and was himself lodged in a cell.

Police Guard Grape Magnate, Threatened

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—(INS.)—Cordons of police today guarded the home of Donald D. Conn, in Hillsborough, a suburb, following reported threats from men who are said to be agents of "Scarface" Al Capone, Chicago gang overlord.

Conn is managing director of Fruit Industries, Inc., whose product of California grape concentrates has been made the prey of eastern gangsters recently.

Jefferson Letter Brings $23,000 At Auction

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—A letter by Thomas Jefferson dated July 1, 1776, and relating the drafting of the Declaration of Independence, the conspiracy against George Washington in New York and the revolutionary campaign in Canada, was sold at auction for $23,000.

It was addressed to William Fleming, Jefferson's life-long friend, who was a member of the committee on independence of the Virginia convention and later a member of the Continental Congress.

The letter was the property of Mrs. Raleigh Kinor, of University, Va., and was purchased by Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach.

3 IN AUTO DIE ON CROSSING

DETROIT, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Three persons were killed last night when their automobile was struck by a Michigan Central passenger train at the Mill street crossing, in the suburb of Ecorse.

The dead are: H. E. Van Canneyt, 54, Ecorse; Mrs. Goldie Flenner, 42, Ecorse, and her 11-year-old son, Bobbie.

The police today continued to drag Ecorse Creek, which runs near the crossing, for the body of a possible fourth victim. Witnesses of the accident insisted there were four persons in the automobile.

You need not punish a sluggish system with purgatives that do violence. Just chew a pleasant Cascaret before bedtime. Next morning you'll be a new person. Candy Cascarets are made from cascara—which doctors say actually strengthens the bowel muscles. So their action is always beneficial. They clear up a stubborn, bilious, headachy and constipated condition every time. You awake with coating gone from tongue; with eyes brightened; breath sweetened; appetite on edge. FIRE DESTROYS COAL TIPPLE

Residents of the Strip and North Side early today witnessed a spectacular fire in a coal tipple in the plant of the Pittsburgh Valve, Foundry and Construction Company, at Twenty-sixth street and the Allegheny Valley Railroad. Flames shot high into the air as the 80-foot tower containing 300 tons of coal burned.

A company employe discovered the fire at the top of the tipple and two fire companies answered a still alarm. The first firemen arriving discovered it was necessary to lay several hundred feet of hose to reach the flames. An alarm was then sounded bringing out two more fire companies.

The burning tower is erected beside the boiler and engine room and firemen for a time believed the flames would reach this structure. Battalion Chief William H. Davis estimated the damage at $500. The cause of the fire is undetermined.

BANKS LAUDED IN STOCK CRISIS

New York banks by increasing their loans to the limit of their ability prevented complete disaster on the New York Stock Exchange last fall, Montfort Jones, of the University of Pittsburgh, declared in an address last night at a meeting of the Pittsburgh Chapter, American Institute of Banking, in Fort Pitt Hotel.

While the banks were doing their best to avert disaster, outside lenders, both corporations and individuals, were increasing the proportions of the market crash by withdrawing their call loans, Jones declared.

Speaking of the usury laws, from which call money is exempt in New York, Pennsylvania and several other states, Jones asserted that Pennsylvania laws provide only for recovery of interest paid above six per cent, while New York usury laws provide forfeiture of both interest and principal.

STOPPING BATTLES DUKES' MAIN JOB

THOUGH PITT WILL be idle and Carnegie Tech will be in Philadelphia for a tussle with Temple, the football fans of this district will not be denied first-class gridiron entertainment tomorrow afternoon. The Dukes and West Virginia Wesleyan will stage at Forbes Field a number that promises to be featured by some of the hardest fighting around here this season, with Doggo Burns, for the Bluffites, and Cliff Battles, for the Bob Cats, heading the rival offensives.

Doggo Burns

Having lost two games in succession for the first time since Elmer Layden started coaching here in 1927, the Dukes are all set for a determined effort to swing back into a winning stride. But though they may be expected to put an aroused team on the field, and one that will be oozing fight from the first kick-off, the job ahead of them looks plenty tough. The Bob Cats have made an impressive showing through a hard schedule of eight games up to date, a schedule that included tilts with West Virginia, New York U., Georgetown and the Navy, and beating them will call for everything the Red and Blue has in stock.

STOPPING BATTLES STANDS out as the most difficult part of the contract. There are few better backs anywhere than this 195-pound triple threat. Not even New York U., Georgetown nor the Navy could keep him from scoring. He has made six runs of 65 yards or more for touchdowns, sprinting 66 yards against New York U., 68 and 88 against Georgetown, and 80, 96 and 97 against Waynesburg. As a runner, kicker and passer he ranks right up with the foremost in the entire East.

Ben Pawlina at fullback, Christy Cristina and Val Trambley at the halves and Bud Devenney at quarter will be the Dukes' starting backfield, in all probability, but Burns, the best running back on the Bluff will be in later, and followers of the Laydenites are confident that if Doggo is right he will not suffer by comparison with the sensational Battles at advancing the ball. It looks like a scoring game that will have few dull moments.

UNLESS THE RESULT is a tie, which appears unlikely, one of the few remaining undefeated major teams of the country will be pushed back into the second row tomorrow when Notre Dame and Northwestern clash at Evanston.

Larry Mullins

The Irish look like the probable winners, provided their morale has not been lowered as a result of the loss of Joe Savoldi. That's a heavy loss in a playing way, but Northwestern also has lost its star fullback, Pug Rentner, and with Larry Mullins and Dan Hanley available Knute Rockne appears to have a better chance to fill the shoes of Savoldi acceptably than Dick Hanley will have to replace Rentner.

THE PURPLE'S MAIN offensive weapon has been a forward pass from Rentner to Frank Baker, one of the country's best ends. With Rentner out, Lee Hanley, Bruder and Russell have been doing some throwing, but none of them is in Rentner's class at tossing the leather around. On the other hand, Mullins is a better defensive player against forward passes than was Savoldi, so with everything considered there is a strong possibility that Notre Dame will not miss Savoldi as sorely as Northwestern will miss Rentner.*

IN ADDITION TO Mullins, Dan Hanley will not be found helpless when he is sent into action. He stands 6 feet 1½ inches in height, weighs 195 pounds, is iron-muscled and faster than any one in the Notre Dame backfield except Marty Brill. The loss of a star appears never to handicap Rockne to any great extent. He just pulls out another, like a magician bringing a rabbit out of the hat.

As Johnny Law, last year's captain, remarked before the Savoldi episode: "Rock has third-string backs at Notre Dame that would do credit to any backfield in the country—except the one at South Bend. I doubt if any college ever had as many high-grade backs on hand as Notre Dame has now. It's really a shame as far as the boys are concerned. Some of them simply can't get a chance at the glory. There are too many around."

IN THE EAST tomorrow the outstanding gridiron game, made so by tradition rather than by the season's records, will be the forty-ninth meeting of Yale and Harvard, a fixture that got its start in 1875. Yale has won 27 times, Harvard 15 times, and six games have ended in ties.

Fay Vincent

On the strength of past performances, Capt. Fay Vincent and his mates would appear likely to carry the Blue to victory again this year, inasmuch as Harvard failed to win a game in the last five played and was beaten by Army and Dartmouth, both of which teams were tied by Yale.

HOWEVER, WHAT HAS gone before is never any indication of what Harvard may be expected to do against the Elis. The Crimson always points for this particular game, and regardless of earlier defeats the season is considered a success if Yale is beaten at the finish. So the Cambridge gridders are likely to display tomorrow form far superior to anything previously displayed by them, just as Princeton did against the same foe last Saturday, and under the circumstances, though there is an edge for Yale in the dope, it is a game that may go either way.*

IN VIEW OF the fact that Temple has lost only one decision this year, that to Villanova by the close score of 8 to 7, has rolled up 46 points against Lafayette and defeated Bucknell and Wash-Jeff among others, it is clear that tomorrow's game in Philadelphia is not going to be anything in the nature of a joy ride for Carnegie Tech.

That the Skibos will prove strong enough to land on the winning end, however, seems reasonably certain. Nothing more than the fact that they have lost three of their last four games, winning only over Western Reserve, should be needed to arouse them, and once they are aroused the Scots have the man power to do the rest.

GRIDIRON FANS THROUGHOUT the district regret the unfortunate situation that caused Jim MacMurdo and Rip Collins to be suspended from the Pitt squad within a single game of the end of their college playing careers, but the principle that studies must come first is unassailable.

The Panthers will not be left weak at the terminal posts for the final game of the campaign next Thursday. The recent fine showing of Eddie Hirshberg and Ted Daily assures that both jobs will be in good hands.

DUKES ENGAGE BOBCATS HERE TOMORROW

By JESS CARVER.

Carnegie Tech's wooing of football fortune, which has been carried on this fall with but niggardly return, will be directed toward the East tomorrow as the Tartans seek victory against Temple University in Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

Duke Ducanis

The Skibo squad, under the direction of Graduate Manager Clarence Overend and Coach Bob Waddell hopped off this afternoon for Philly. It is hoped that Temple's Owls will take kindly to the wooing of the Skibos tomorrow, for if Victory continues to repulse the advances of the Tartans, it may be necessary to begin feeding the boys love potions.

At the same time, another of the city's gridiron teams, Duquesne University, with three setbacks to its discredit, winds up preparation for a tough assignment on the home lot tomorrow afternoon. A brisk signal drill this afternoon is expected to put the boys on edge for tomorrow's setto with West Virginia Wesleyan and Wesleyan's scintillating star, big Cliff Battles.

BATTLES BIG STAR

Wesleyan's record isn't one to go into a fit over, but Battles' is. He's been running wild all season, running back punts and intercepted passes against some of the elite of the gridiron, namely New York University, Georgetown and Navy. He's just as likely to burst forth in a bloom of important scoring against the Dukes.

The Dukes and the Bobcats will tangle at Forbes Field beginning at two bells. It will mark the first appearance of a Wesleyan eleven here for some time. I don't think they've been in town since before Bob Higgins coached there, and that is long before it was illegal to rush a growler. Wesleyan has a lot of color, is well coached and always puts up a great game of ball.

LINEUP IN DOUBT

Before entraining for Philadelphia, Coach Bobby Waddell dropped a hint or two regarding the likely Skibo lineup that he'll shoot against the Owls tomorrow. Ted Rosenzweig and Pete Flanagan are slated to fill the end jobs. Tank Highberger and Len Schnupp will go at the tackles and likely Capt. John (Seneca) Dreshar and Bunny Burzio or Hooks Sample will be at the guards. Duke Ducanis is to be over the ball at center.

The backfield makeup is not so apparent. Harry McCurdy and Dueger are the quarterback choices. Dueger is the probable starter. The halfback combinations may be used, one being Dutch Eyth and George Kavel and the other Slats Flanagan and Murray Armentrout or Joe Morbito. Morbito ordinarily is a fullback, but he's fast enough to play a half and was used in that spot against Pitt. John Karcis is to be at fullback and will do the kicking while Dueger is in at quarter.

PITT PAIR DROPPED

Pitt put in its second day of work for the game with Penn State Thanksgiving yesterday. The Panthers' workout minus the services of two members of the cast, Jimmy MacMurdo and Ripper Collins, varsity ends who were dropped by the faculty committee on eligibility for not cracking enough books, or not cracking books often enough.

The Tipoff

Mayor Charles H. Kline has appointed the committee which will handle the funds received from the Carnegie Tech and Wash-Jeff benefit game in the Stadium next Saturday. The Mayor himself will head the body, and he will be aided by Buddy Overend, Dr. J. P. Kerr, city controller, and John Herron, president of City Council.

The various elevens throughout the district are set for their battles tomorrow. West Virginia and Wash-Jeff are very much on edge, with the Mountaineers fearing the Presidents and the Presidents fearing the Mountaineers. West Virginia, despite its moans and tears, is going to be the favorite, and is about due to be knocked off.

Geneva and Allegheny offer a fine game at Beaver Falls. The class B title hinges on the outcome of this one. I think the ball game is a toss-up. I'd hate to bet against the alertness of the Covenanters or the power and class of the Alligators. Bob Garbark's plunging, passing and running may provide a Methodist victory.

Bethany and Westminster will meet at Bethany with no one caring who wins save the ball players themselves. The Titans will be the choices. Bethany's season has been dismal, and Westminster's is nothing of which to brag.

St. Vincent has a tough one to get past in St. Bonaventure, the recent triumphs over St. Francis and the U. S. Medical Corps eleven may have given the Saints all the confidence they need. St. Francis has Gallaudet's deaf mutes to contend with at Johnstown tonight.

Waynesburg appears to be on the edge of another kicking around as the Jackets invade Elkins for an affair of arms with Cam Henderson's powerful Scarlet Hurricane. Davis-Elkins hasn't been going so good this fall, but still ranks above Waynesburg by about three touchdowns.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE BEAN THAT SAVED A LIFE—During the Texas-mier expedition in 1843, 170 men were taken prisoners by Mexican soldiers under Gen. Santa Anna, who condemned all of them to death. Gov.-Gen. Mexier refused to carry out the order, but placed 169 black beans and one white bean in a jar and had the prisoners draw them out—a black bean meaning death. Anthony P. Owens, famous pioneer hero of Texas, drew the white bean, which was presented to the Alamo in San Antonio by his granddaughter, and it is now preserved there. PINE LUMBER IS STRONGER THAN CONCRETE—The average allowable unit compressive stress for Long Leaf Yellow Pine is 1,200 pounds per square inch with the grain, whereas the allowable stress for 1-3-6 concrete is only 300 pounds per square inch. (Reference: "Strength of Materials," by James E. Boyd, McGraw-Hill Book Company, 1924, table 1, page 5.) A FISH WITH A MIGRATING EYE—Of all vertebrates, the flounder alone swims not with its back but with one side uppermost. The twisted structure of its head is adapted to that mode of life, both eyes being on the same side of his head. When young, the eyes, as in other fishes, are on each side of the head, but as the flounder grows older one eye moves to the other side, either around the head or right through it.

MITT TOURNEY AT FINALS

Four of the 15 bouts staged last night in the semi-final round of the Western Pennsylvania amateur boxing tournament at the Palisades, McKeesport, ended in knockouts, one occurring in the first round, while the other three ended in the second stanza.

Joe Pie, 112-pound deaf mute, of the Harry Swartz A. C., McKeesport, landed the quickest knockout of the evening when he stepped from his corner, swung his right and floored Jack McGann, of the Willow Club, for the full count, the bout being over 11 seconds after the bell sounded for the start. John Hazel, lanky Pittsburgh Lyceum lightweight, was credited with a technical kayo victory over Leo Moan, Willow Club fighter, in the second round. Moan was helped to his corner after being floored three times.

BURKE FAVORED

Jeff Burke, Willow Club, became the favorite to cop championship honors in the 160-pound division when he won on a technical kayo, in two rounds, over J. Peterson, southpaw Negro fighter, of the Superior A. C. Peterson was floored three times before the towel came fluttering into the ring.

The other knockout was scored by Joe Mulyar, of the Brownsville A. C., who stopped Stanley Biel, North Braddock A. C., after one minute in the second round.

One of the real action producers of the evening was furnished by Al Sunseri, Pittsburgh Lyceum, and George Julius, Willow Club, Julius getting the decision in four rounds. Charles Blozevich, Burke A. C., St. Michaels, Pa., bested Louis Santucci, Willow Club, in another good bout.

ROCKNE PICKS IRISH TO WIN

KNUTE ROCKNE PREDICTS

Michigan to clean up Chicago.
Ohio State too powerful for Illinois.
Wisconsin slightly better than Minnesota.
Purdue to stop Indiana.
Nebraska tough for Iowa.
Kansas favored over Missouri.
Drake to take Iowa State.
Kansas Aggies should run over Centre College.
Possibility that Oklahoma Aggies may take Oklahoma.
Detroit to triumph over Michigan State in close fight.
Ohio University to take Ohio Wesleyan.
DePauw to go down before Wabash.
Haskell Indians to scalp Butler.

By KNUTE ROCKNE,

Member, All-America Board of Football. (Reg. U. S. Patent Office.

Now that it is fairly definite that the Big Ten title is to be divided between Northwestern and Michigan, the Notre Dame-Northwestern game tomorrow will be of exceptional interest because it will determine whether or not Northwestern is to be Western champion also.

I saw Northwestern play last Saturday and in the second half they were a very fine football team. Their line is big and powerful and I don't see how any running attack is going to do much with it. If there are any weaknesses in the Northwestern defense it was against a short passing game. The Northwestern running attack looked good in the second half, and their passing game, even with Rentner out, looked dangerous. It looks like a team that may wear down Notre Dame through sheer power, but Notre Dame should score a touchdown or two before this happens. It will be a close, nip-and-tuck struggle which should be well worth watching.

Michigan, which has a clean slate except for a tie with the Michigan State team, should not have much trouble taking Chicago and thereby going into a tie for the Big Ten championship with Northwestern.

The 1930 City League scholastic football championships was at stake in the Stadium this afternoon as Westinghouse and South Hills High schools pitted their elevens against each other in the annual title battle.

O. H. Burton

For the first time in three years, the honors were to be decided without Schenley High being a contestant, Westinghouse having displaced the Bellefielders as ruler in Section 1. South Hills was making its second consecutive bid for the championship, having opposed Schenley last year in the title clash.

The Silver Lakers, O. H. Burton's well-drilled machine, ruled a strong favorite to win today's struggle because of its more impressive record.

LAKERS UNDEFEATED

Westinghouse had won six out of eight games, defeating Fifth Avenue, Carrick, South, Schenley, Peabody and Allerdice, and losing to Greensburg and Altoona. South Hills had won five, lost one and tied two. Langley, Allegheny, Perry, Oliver and Indiana were defeated, Allerdice and Carrick tied and a game lost to Beaver Falls.

An injury to Halfback Jim Firrell in the Oliver game came as a severe blow to South Hills. It was necessary for Coach Maneski to find a new back for the Carrick game last week. Field was used in this tussle, but he failed to come through in fitting manner and today Young Billy Regan was to get the call. The remainder of the backfield was as it has been all season, with Rigg at quarter, Succop at left half and Franklin Banks at fullback.

One shift was made in the Westinghouse lineup, that being at quarterback where Coach Barton decided to start Wadsworth instead of Durberry. Show Boat Ware and Dye were at the halves and Field at fullback.

The two elevens met last in 1928 in another title battle, with Westinghouse winning by a score of 19 to 0.

A number of outstanding games

The W. P. I. A. L. card for today is comparatively light. Avalon and Bellevue clash at Bellevue in a neighborhood affair colored by intense rivalry. Carnegie meets Crafton at Crafton and Burgettstown engages McDonald at McDonald.

A number of outstanding games are booked for tomorrow. Beaver Falls sends its strong eleven to Wilkinsburg to take on Elmer Carroll's Holy City gridders. Youngwood and Jeannette clash at Jeannette. Canonsburg meets Monongahela at Monongahela and Har-Brack takes on Tarentum.

TUSSLE IN BEAVER FALLS

Midland and Aliquippa hook up in a important Beaver Valley tussle at Aliquippa, the outcome of the game bound to have a direct bearing on the eventual awarding of the Valley championship. California and South Brownsville clash at Brownsville and East Pittsburgh plays at Turtle Creek.

The race for honors in the W. P. I. A. L. is a hectic one. Redstone High, with eight triumphs and no defeats or ties tops the list of Class A elevens. Clairton is undefeated, but has been tied by Scott High.

Turtle Creek, Monessen and Tarentum are other undefeated elevens, but all have two ties on their books.

Braddock High School and Scott High, of North Braddock, clash on the latter's field at 2:30 in their annual battle, with Scott the favorite to win. Scott has been beaten only by Peabody in a close game, while Braddock has corraled only two victories and one tie. Coach Fred Rebman hopes to hold Bay Orris, the Scott halfback ace, in check with his strong line. The complete history

By CARL W. SHATTO.

It is very seldom that a team adds to its prestige and popularity in losing, but the Yellow Jackets certainly achieved this rare feat in bowing to the league-leading Buffalo Bisons, 3 to 2, in an International loop hockey battle at Duquesne Garden last night.

Only the 3,500 fans who witnessed the clash can understand how the local puckmen boosted their stock in accepting defeat, but there was no one who left the arena not fully convinced that the Jackets had outplayed and outfought their powerful foemen.

Buffalo's victory goal was something of a "fluke" in that it was recorded on a face-off about two feet out and directly in front of the local net. Face-offs right at the goal mouth are rare, and it was on one of these "freaks" that Roth, Bison center, slapped the puck against the stick of Bogardis. The Buffalo left wing had only to lift his weapon and the disc was in th cage. The play was started and completed in a split second. It gave Buffalo a 1-0 lead in the first period and a one-goal edge at the finish of one of the most wild and torrid battles ever staged here in any league.

BISONS' RECORD ENDED

In taking the short end of the 3-2 tally the locals did not stop the Bisons from achieving their fourth straight triumph, but they did succeed in banging home the first scores charged against the Buffalo defense this season.

Bill Taugher, visiting goalie, who allowed fewer scores than any other net guardian in the circuit last season, had to turn around and lift the puck out of the Buffalo cage for the first time in the 1930-31 campaign in the second period, and he had to repeat the discomforting act in the wild third stanza.

Capt. Tory Gregg and Cam Proudlock collaborated in engineering the Jackets' second-period tally. Proudlock gained possession of the rubber in a wild scrimmage at the end boards, and Gregg, with a hard, deadly shot, made good use of his mate's accurate pass to the goal mouth.

PROUDLOCK SCORES

The Jackets' tally in the third period was registered in exactly the same manner, and Proudlock again had a leading role in the play that "clicked." This time fast-skating Jimmy Smith made the pass out from the end boards, and Cam took it a few feet in front of the net and dented the cords.

In the second stanza, five minutes before Pittsburgh's first score, the Bisons bagged their second goal. The visitors had only five men on the ice at the time, and the local defense did not figure that Voss would be accompanied when he skated down center ice. Gross slipped down the left lane undetected, took Voss' pass with no Jacket near him and beat Goalie Bud Fisher from close in.

The locals were handicapped by lack of man power when Roth rang up Buffalo's third goal, on a solo effort in the third period. Proudlock was in the penalty box at the time, and the Jackets had no man to "cover" the Bison center when he broke free.

Duke McCurry, formerly with the all-conquering amatuer Yellow Jackets of a few seasons ago, and later a Pirate, made his debut as a pro Jacket and won round after round of applause. Duke paired with Art Berlett to do spare defense duty, and he did it well. He handed out violent body checks freely, and appeared to good advantage on the attack. He appeared to be in top condition, and it was apparent that he is here to stay. McBride and Yankoski were the new starting defense team, and they made few errors.

The local starting front line, too, showed greatly improved form, and a new spare front line combination of McLeod at center and Halliday and LaRoche at the wings just about matched the starters in speed and class.

The Jackets outfought the league leaders in every period, and the play was in the visitors' territory three-fourths of the time, and around the Buffalo goal constantly during the last five minutes of wild milling. Goalie Bud Fisher was repeatedly cheered for brilliant stops.

Before the game got under way President-Manager Roy D. Schooley told his stalwarts that they either would have to show greatly improved form or be displaced by some new talent. He is convinced today that his Jackets are able to hold their own with any club in the circuit, and may call in his scouts. The lineup:

Jackets.		Buffalo.
Fisher	G	Taugher
Yankoski	D	Lederman
McBride	D	Cain

PARKERS NEXT FOR BURNS ELEVEN

By TOM BIRKS.

Burns, of New Kensington, will be fighting for a mathematical chance of winning in the Independent Gridiron Conference Sunday when it meets Keets Muzzio's West View team at the Park. Despite the fact the Majestics and Olympics have the inside track, Jimmy Smith's club has a real chance.

The Olympics must meet the Majestics and West View, and the Green-clad Majestic outfit, besides meeting Iverson's club, must play Ambridge Thanksgiving Day.

Burns also must travel to Ambridge for its final game, so it is apparent Pat Comotre's club is playing a great part in the final decision.

Sunday, the Akron Awnings will meet a cyclone at Rainbow Gardens. Fred Iverson has been angling for a long time to avenge its defeats in the Rubber town.

The Pollard aggregation of Negro stars will anchor in Pittsburgh tomorrow evening from the Windy City to get a rest before Art Rooney's Majestic team is met at the Speedway.

The Sharpsville Merchants will meet the Ambridge Mystics at the Fair Oaks Stadium. Commorre should have a banner crowd on hand.

LION BOOTERS TO PLAY HERE

Fans will have some splendid soccer this week-end. One cup tie and quite a number of league games are on the schedule. On Thanksgiving Day, fans will have a treat, for in the morning, at the Westinghouse High School Stadium, the Penn State team, of the Eastern Inter-Collegiate Soccer League, an undefeated member for two years, will clash with the Pittsburgh Celtics.

At the Bridgeville Speedway, in the afternoon, the Cleveland Slavia's, with a number of former Pittsburgh soccer stars in the lineup, will meet Morgan. Mike Bookie and his gang will flash a little of the Western Professional League for the edification of the fans.

All referees should note that Herminie's home games will be played at Gratztown, and that all games at Heidelberg in the Panhandle League, will start at 1:30 sharp. Mollenauer and Referee Decheck please take notice.

Jones' Status As Official Unchanged

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Although Robert T. Jones, Jr., was not in attendance, his status as a member of the executive committee of the United States Golf Association remained unchanged yesterday at a meeting of this governing group.

The brief statement issued on the committee's behalf by Prescott S. Bush, secretary, contained no reference to Jones nor would any of the committeemen answer a question as to whether the world's champion, having renounced his amateur standing for the talking motion pictures, would serve as a member in 1931.

Women's championship at The Country Club, Buffalo, N. Y., September 21 to 26.

Presidents Lose Rush for W. Va.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 21.—(AP.)—A gloomy report came from the Washington and Jefferson football camp today that Maury Rush, backfield man, is definitely out of the West Virginia encounter tomorrow at Morgantown, because of injuries. The team was sent through a hard drill yesterday, but there was no scrimmage.

HOPPE STILL BEHIND

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Willie Hoppe, defending his world's 18.1 balkline billiards title, won the eighth block of his match with Welker Cochran last night, 350 to 300, but still trailed the Hollywood star by more than 950 points. It was the first block Hoppe has won. Cochran leads, 2,400 to 1,439.

PUNCHERS MEET AT MOOSE TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK.
Sports Editor.

Puncher will meet puncher when Joe Trippe, of Rochester, N. Y., and Jimmy Kelly, of the North Side and formerly of Dayton, O., clash in the 10-round main bout in the Moose Temple ring tonight.

Joe Trippe

Trippe's socking feats are well known around here, and he has been a favorite with the fans for a couple of seasons, his two bouts with Sergt. Sammy Baker being especially remembered. As for Kelly, he has been here about two months now and in that time has had four fights, winning all of them by knockouts. He stopped Billy Holt in four rounds at the Moose, Paul Oger at the Moose, Sammy O'Dell at Canton, O., and Young Joe Walcott at Washington, Pa. Before that he flattened a lot of bimbos throughout Ohio.

KELLY GREAT HITTER

Jimmy is a little Irish terrier, 20 years old, with a career of only a couple of years in the ring. He is a southpaw, and when he hits—Zowie! Not to mention Bam!

Promoter Apples Meyers, of the Moose, has arranged his best card of the season so far for tonight's show, and it ought to finally pack his small club. He has Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, and Benny McArthur, of McKeesport, in the six-round semi-final, and this pair recently fought a windup at Johnstown, with McArthur winning. In his second bout, he has Dan Gallagher, heavyweight sensation, of the West End, against Jack Smiler, Negro, of the Hill, while Larry Kaufman, of Louisville, and Chink George, of Ohio, are paired for the opener.

Between Rounds

Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, will finish his hard training tomorrow for his 10-round main bout with Sergt. Sammy Baker in Motor Square Garden Monday night. He is confident he will be able to take the measure of the "Sarge" and go on to the bigger things that have been predicted for him. He dropped a decision to Bucky Lawless his last time out, the same as Paul Pirrone "lost" to Lawless in the same ring last week, and he hopes to win so decisively over Baker as to leave no doubt of his superiority this time in the minds of the officials.

Jimmy McLarnin has been installed a good-sized favorite over Billy Petrolle in their battle of socks in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight. Petrolle has stopped Jack (Kid) Berg, present junior-welterweight champion, and beaten Tony Canzoneri, the new lightweight champion, to land the battle with McLarnin, wrecker of the fistic greats.

Tait Littman, Milwaukee middleweight, meets Harry Smith, New York Negro star, in his Eastern debut in the semi-final to the McLarnin-Petrolle bout, and Pee-Wee Jarrell boxes Eddie Ram in another 10-rounder on this bill. Smith, by the way, is a brother of Young Harry Wills, the Coast welterweight, who passed through Pittsburgh a few days ago on his way to campaign in New York rings.

King Levinsky, who recently was the beneficiary of a trick decision over Jimmy Slattery in Chicago, after having knocked out Leo Lomski there, clashes with Tommy Loughran, resigned light-heavyweight champion, in the Chicago Stadium tonight. Barney Ross and Harry Dublinsky box the semi-final. Other bouts listed tonight include: Billy Townsend vs. Bucky Lawless, Detroit; John Parker vs. Add Warren, Durham, N. C.; Eddie Shea vs. Allan Whitlow, Peoria, Ill.; Andy Di Vodi vs. Tony Portillo, San Francisco; Artie De Luca vs. Joey Caruso, New York, and Johnny Hayes vs. Jack Gallagher and Battling Willard vs. Jimmy Kennedy, Philadelphia.

According to word from Boxing Commission headquarters in Philadelphia, Joe Glick's suspension following his bout with Tony Herrera at Motor Square Garden last Monday night, in which he was knocked out in the seventh round, was due to the fact that he and his manager popped off to the local authorities when they were rebuked for having tried to take the easy way out via a claim of foul. The manager, Harry Alberts, also was set down indefinitely.

The Eagles of Carrick will stage an amateur boxing smoker and entertainment in their hall, 2122 Brownsville avenue, next Monday night.

Bids have been asked on a heating system for the Jolly Bowl, of New Castle, which is being put in shape for boxing again following a long layoff. Eddie Fritz has taken over ownership of the plant and plans to stage his first show before the middle of next month. The chances are the name of the arena will be changed now that Bill Jolley, after whom it was called, no longer has any connection with it.

The Pittsburgh Lyceum will open its boxing season in its gym, 110 Washington place, next Tuesday evening.

CARDS SELL HOLM

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Clarence Lloyd, secretary of the St. Louis Cardinals, has announced that Roscoe (Wattie) Holm, has been released to Rochester, of the International League. He said the deal was for cash. Holm, an outfielder, was with Houston, of the Texas League, most of the last year.

SHOOT TOMORROW

The South Hills Sportsmen's Association will stage a turkey shoot and also a nine-power gun contest against running deer and rising bear at its grounds, located a mile past the South Hills Country Club tomorrow, beginning at noon. All shooters are invited to compete.

Grid Fans Think Hoover's Aide Is Salvation Army

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—George Akerson, President Hoover's secretary, thinks some people have him confused with the Salvation Army.

One hundred and thirty requests for tickets to the Army-Navy football game had reached him today. Akerson hasn't a ticket and isn't likely to have any. He is referring all petitioners to the Salvation Army, which is handling the tickets to the game in New York, December 13.

Sport Vignettes

You can kick it around that your all-America fullback, now that Josephus Savoldi, the Pipple's Cherce, is out of the running, is none other than Len Macaluso, the Colgate Big Bertha in good standing . . . . All the great Leonard has done this season has been to score 18 touchdowns in eight games and to this total he has added 24 tries-for-point and one field goal for a total of 135 points, giving him a big edge in the Eastern scoring race . . . . In each of three games he has scored four touchdowns and he turned this trick against Syracuse last Saturday in Colgate's annual big game . . . . If they pay off on results obtained, they can't keep this fellow off the Big Team.

Frank Wykoff, whose mark of 9 2-5 seconds for the 100-yard dash without the use of starting blocks has just been accepted by the A. A. U., becomes the new "fastest human," which honor, with a nickle (or is it a dime?) will buy him a cup of coffee 10 years ..nce . . . The Lafayette-Lehigh game tomorrow will mark the sixty-fourth meeting between the keen Eastern Pennsylvania rivals . . . This fact is mentioned merely to refute any claims that football still is in its infancy and will be quite a game when it grows up.

Orin (Babe) Hollingberry, coach of the Washington State Cougars, is the only non-college man coaching in the Pacific Coast Conference . . . Among his other conquests this year were those over California and Southern California on successive Saturdays . . . His team was undefeated and piled up 205 points against 32 in eight games . . . . The Babe got his job at Washington State, Pullman, Wash., when the Olympic Club, of California, handed the famous University of California Bears their first defeat in four seasons . . . . That was five years ago . . . With only a high school training, Hollingberry began his coaching career 10 years ago, when he piloted three squads in one season, two of which won championships, with the third a runner-up . . . Two of them were high school teams and the other the Olympic Club . . . He coached one from 2 to 4 p. m., another from 4 to 6 and the third from 6 to 8. Now he is boss of the Pacific Coast Conference champions for 1930.

Frank Field, Westinghouse High School fullback, who plays against South Hills in that title game at the Stadium this afternoon, is not named after Franklin Field in Philadelphia. . . . Strangely, the first name of the opposing fullback, Banks, is Franklin; just another one for our Mr. Ripley.

Johnny Gallagher, the Dempsey-Firpo fight referee, who was found dead in a rooming house in New York, was the "goat" of the most exciting battle in heavyweight championship history. . . . I met him several times on visits to New York for fights and also at Dempsey's camp at Saratoga when Jack was training for his fight with Sharkey several years ago, and Gallagher was loath to speak of the Firpo bout incident.

Johnny was blamed by many persons for not awarding the fight to Firpo when Dempsey was assisted back into the ring by newspapermen upon whom he had fallen. . . . As a matter of fact, he did the proper thing when he did not disqualify Jack under the circumstances, for it was only to be expected that the men at the ringside would protect themselves from Dempsey's falling body. . . . Inasmuch as the champion's seconds did not touch him or assist him back into the ring, Gallagher only did what the rules called for him to do, but he paid the penalty that goes with being in the limelight on a big and exciting occasion.—HARRY KECK.

VET TO COACH FINTEX

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Attorney Bernard D. (Buckets) Sandomire, former star forward in local professional basketball circles, has been appointed coach of the Fintex team in the Allegheny County League, according to an announcement today by Wy Paris, veteran guard and manager of the club.

Sandomire

The appointment of Sandomire gives the Fintex club a mentor who is well versed in the fine points of the popular winter indoor sport and he should prove a valuable asset to the downtown aggregation.

Sandomire, in the heyday of his career, stood out with the greatest passers in this section of the country, the veteran star having seen service with the old Coffey Club, Amerita Club, Carnegie Steel, Butler and the Enoch Rauhs in professional ranks after having enjoyed considerable success at old Central High School and Indiana Normal.

Sandomire has been drilling the Fintex passers for several weeks and the team is rounding into form rapidly. Buzz Leisenring and Bobby Angelo, former Goldenson stars, will play for Fintex this season. The County League season opens on December 2. As was the case last year, Fintex will play its home games at Columbus Temple.

At a meeting last night, the County League managers named a board of arbitration to consist of Dave Parker, Al Abrams, Paul Kurtz and Julius Levin. Morry Goldman and Meyer Goldenson were chosen dual treasurers.

The following card has been set for the first week of play:

Wednesday, December 3—Beckmans at Ellwood City, Homestead at Griffen Oilers.
Thursday, December 4—Fintex at Mieles.
Friday, December 5—Griffen Oilers at Beckmans.
Saturday, December 6—Ellwood City at Charlerol, Lafayettes at Homestead.

Floor Notes

The Goldenson Vanities, who won 27 straight games last winter in capturing the girls' basketball championship of the Tri-State district, are confident of increasing that string this year. The addition of Clara Templeton, former star of the Temple University team, has given the South Siders a stellar performer who should make a name for herself in local floor circles. Her work in the practice sessions staged in the Salvation Army gym has been of high order and she should have no trouble winning a regular berth.

Members of the Inter-County Amateur Institutional League are hard at work preparing for the opening games on December 1. This league is without a doubt one of the best balanced ever organized in this section and a close fight is predicted for the cup donated by Honus Wagner, who is sponsoring the league.

The W. U. Hoyles, of the North Side, swing into action for the first time this season at Perry High School tonight when they oppose the Tarentum Elks. The Hoyles, judging from their showing in the preliminary work-outs, should enjoy their best season on the floor.

The I. K. S. varsity and reserve teams open their season tonight by meeting the Temeles, of Weirton, W. Va., at the I. K. S.

DETROIT COPS

DETROIT, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—Jess Spring, Olympic defense man, caromed a shot off Goalie Stuart's skate with 15 seconds to go in the second overtime period to give Detroit a hard-fought 3 to 2 victory over London here last night.

BILL HANNA DIES

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—William B. Hanna, veteran New York sports writer, died yesterday after a long illness. Although more than 70 years old, Hanna had been actively engaged in covering sports for the Herald-Tribune until last May, when he suffered a stroke while reporting an Army-Dartmouth baseball game at West Point.

Clairton donned gala attire today as townspeople and school student bodies gathered to dedicate the first unit of the new high school stadium. Clairton High's grid team battled Duquesne as the feature attraction.

Schools and business houses of the town closed for the afternoon as the citizens celebrated the opening of the new athletic plant. An inspection of the dressing and shower rooms preceded the formal activities on the field.

H. J. Davis, general manager of the Clairton plants of the Carnegie Steel Company, made the address of welcome. H. D. Teal, superintendent of schools, and W. M. Bryson, high school principal, also spoke. L. L. Burnett, vice president of the Carnegie Steel Company, presented the greetings of the company.

The ceremonies were concluded at 2:45 with the raising of the flag. The game was scheduled to get under way promptly at 3 o'clock.

Clairton and Redstone are leading the Class A race for the W. P. I. A. L. title. Both are undefeated, only a tie game with Scott High of North Braddock marring the record of the Clairton eleven. A victory over Duquesne today will serve to boost the standing of the Clairton eleven.

Clairton will have an opportunity to establish itself as supreme in the W. P. I. A. L., as it is to clash with Redstone in a Welfare Fund charity game December 6. The game also will be played in the new Stadium.

MY FIFTY YEARS IN BASEBALL

By CONNIE MACK,

Manager, World Champion Philadelphia Athletics

INSTALLMENT NO. 65.

In my opinion, there were no particularly great teams in the first decade of the American League.

The White Sox team won in 1901, but it could not be rated as a mighty organization. This was the first season of the American League in major circuit dress and the teams were just beginning to feel their way.

Connie Mack.

My Athletics of 1902 won my first pennant, but they were just a good team, not one that stood out. The same can be said of the Red Sox, pennant winners in 1903 and 1904 and the Athletics of 1905.

The 1903 Red Sox delivered one stroke when it won the post-season series that fall from Pittsburgh. This was the precursor of the modern world series, which was not played under special rules and under the jurisdiction of baseball chiefs until 1905.

The White Sox, who won in 1906, were known as the "hitless wonders," a sour name for champions.

Detroit captured the pennant in 1907-08 and 1909, the first American League team to win three times in a row, but this achievement was dulled from two standpoints.

TIGERS FAIL IN SERIES

In these three years the Tigers won only by a nose, and, in 1908, did not come through until the last game. Then they made an inglorious figure in the world series, for they never were successful once.

They are the only American League pennant winners that never won at least one game in a World Series. The Tigers had good teams, but in the face of the records not great ones.

I don't think the American League had a genuinely great team until the Athletics of 1910 came to rule baseball. From that time up to today the American League curve was upward.

Up to this time, National League teams had won four out of five World Series. Then came the Athletics with their dazzling ensemble to win four pennants in five straight years and also capture three world titles.

I also consider the Boston Red Sox of 1912, 1915 and 1916 to have exercised a real power in baseball. They followed three pennant triumphs with as many clean-cut victories in the World Series.

YANKS' GREAT TEAMS

The White Sox of 1917 were another powerful band and scored an impressive conquest at the expense of the Giants in the World Series. War year was a bad one for baseball, with many players shouldering rifles, and the Red Sox, who won in 1918, were not a notable team.

There was not another really great machine in the American League until the Yanks won in 1926, 1927 and 1928. They had won in 1921 and 1922, but did not have the power then that they showed in their second pennant era.

While the Yanks lost the world series to the Cardinals in 1926, they won the next two world series without a single defeat, a record in world series history.

This Yankee team must be ranked with the Orioles of the early nineties, the Cubs of 1906 to 1910 and the Athletics of 1910 to 1914.

The Athletics team of 1929 must rank with the best, but I am placing my 1910-1914 team ahead for the reason that we know how long it lasted and what it did.

PRAISES INFIELD

My 1929 winners in the end may prove better than the 1910-1914 combination because they are a team of youths and there is no telling how far they will go.

That, however, remains to be seen.

I am convinced, however, that I never again will be the leader of an infield the equal of Stuffy McInnis, Eddie Collins, Jack Barry and J. Franklin Baker.

Every man could field his position better than anybody else in his day and three of them were regular hitters above the .300 mark at a time when it was considered an achievement to hit .300.

HIS GREATEST TEAM

My composite strongest Athletic team would be that infield and my present-day outfield, with Cochrane catching Waddell, Grove, Earnshaw, Bender and Combs forming the pitching staff.

coach and extra backstop by the New York Yankees, may come back to the National League, where he formerly served with the Reds. It is understood that Val Picinich and Hank DeBerry are slated for release by Brooklyn, and Hargrave may be signed to fill the need for an experienced receiver to help out Alfonso Lopez. Rumors that the Phillies might make a place for another old maskman discarded by the American League, Wally Schang, are strengthened by the announcement that the management of that club has released Fred Hunter, who served as coach of the Phils during the last three years. It is expected that Schang will be signed for the vacancy. Hunter played first base for the Pirates in 1911.

WORD FROM BOSTON that the Red Sox probably will train at Pensacola again next year completes the major league spring training schedule. Only two clubs will change camps, the Reds moving from Orlando to Tampa and the Tigers shifting from Tampa to Sacramento. Florida will get nine clubs, California three, Texas two, and Louisiana and Mississippi one each. Here's the 1931 training layout:

Pittsburgh—Paso Robles, Cal.	Philadelphia—Fort Myers, Fla.
Chicago—Catalina Island, Cal.	New York—St. Petersburg, Fla.
St. Louis—Bradenton, Fla.	Washington—Biloxi, Miss.

Brooklyn—Clearwater, Fla.	Detroit—Sacramento, Cal.

Forbes

You and I Are to Blame For Unemployment!

By B. C. FORBES

YOU AND I, rather than employers, have been largely responsible for the lamentable increase in unemployment this year.

LET'S BE HONEST. Let's freely face the facts.

B. C. Forbes

When things go wrong with us, it is human nature to try to blame somebody else. That's what you and I have been doing, isn't it?

A tidal wave of letters have rolled into this column complaining that this, that and the next manufacturer, railway company, merchant, mining company, brokerage concern, construction company, etc., etc., have thrown workers idle. Many of the communications have been fiercely bitter.

BUT TODAY let us consider a different angle of the situation. Instead of indulging in the pleasure of condemning others, suppose we analyze, coldly and critically, our own conduct and see whether we have not been in some measure responsible for the conditions now existing.

WHEN THINGS FIRST went wrong, I kept on spending as before. Not in any patriotic spirit, but solely because I believed that securities had become cheap. I invested more extensively than ever before when the panic hit Wall Street. As an employer, I maintained a full force of employes, and I made no unusual effort to reduce my household expenditures.

But, after many months, when things went from bad to worse, I found myself with more employes than I had work for, and, finally, felt compelled to let a few go.

My income having suffered, I began asking my wife to cut down somewhat in her habitually generous spending. There was lots of room—and still is for that matter! But some considerable savings were effected.

I recite this as a confession that I have no wish to exclude myself from the common run of people who have contributed to bringing about unemployment.

HOW MANY OF our 25,000,000 families have spent as much this year as they spent last year?

Banking, industrial, railway, trade statistics answer that question. They reveal absolutely unmistakably that there has been less buying of almost every class of merchandise and materials.

Why, notwithstanding the millions who have been out of work and notwithstanding the shrinkage in earnings of salesmen, small business men and other people throughout the country, there actually has been a pronounced increase in savings bank deposits. That tells emphatically that millions of individuals and families have spent less.

ANSWER THIS simple question honestly:

Wouldn't any and every employer rather employ a maximum number of people, do a maximum amount of business, and earn a maximum amount of profits, than employ a much smaller number of people, do a much smaller volume of business, and earn much smaller profits?

Of course, there can be but one answer.

IF, THEREFORE, employers all over the land have found themselves unable to keep their maximum 1929 force busy during 1930, is it because they have taken a fiendish delight in casting out their work folks? Or have they provided less work solely because they had less work to provide?

Who have been responsible for there being less work?

The people who made goods and sell them or the people who buy goods—you and I and everyone else?

AND SO YOU can go through the whole gamut of industry, transportation, finance, trade, speculation and you discover exactly the same thing, namely, that fewer people are employed because you and I, the buyers, are responsible rather than the sellers.

ADMITTEDLY, the reason we are buying less may be that we have less to buy with. But that doesn't alter the fundamental fast that unemployment has been brought about, not because the makers and sellers of goods were unwilling to make and sell as much as ever before, but because the demands for their wares fell off.

In other words, is it not the net truth that the discharging of workers has not been done by employers so much as by consumers—you and me?

THIS IS NOT intended as a comprehensive explanation of what led to depression. Still less is it intended as absolving bankers, brokers, corporation executives and others in high places for all blame for the excesses encountered last year or the spinelessness exhibited this year.

It is intended to inspire a little thinking along a line which may be good for our souls rather than for the feeding of our ego and our self-righteousness.

Jersey Standard Cuts Price of Gas

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has reduced tank wagon price of gasoline one cent a gallon in New Jersey, effective this morning.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Changes in bond prices were generally unimportant today. STOCK MARKET AGAIN CREEPS UPWARD

Early Losses Turned Into Gains of 1 to 6 Points; Trading Remains Dull

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP.)—The stock market again crept back to the best levels of the recovery today, after shying away yesterday.

The selling which appeared in the last hour of the previous session was carried over into today's early trading, causing further recessions of a point or two, but it was soon completed and the advance resumed. Trading was dull, but shares advanced more readily than they had declined and numerous gains of 1 to 6 points were recorded.

Most of the trading appeared to be professional and strength of some of the specialties suggested resumption of pool activity.

Continued improvement in the wheat market was a bullish influence. Copper speculators and small dealers were offering the metal all the way down to 10¼. The export price still held at the 12 cent basis.

The Irving Trust Company, in its mid-month review of business, pointed to the firmer prices in textiles, copper, sugar, rubber and other commodities.

F. W. Dodge's report for the first half of November shows a reduction in building contracts let east of the Rockies of about 9 per cent from the level of October. Electric power consumption in the second week of the month showed somewhat more than the seasonal decline, with a reduction of 8-10 of 1 per cent from the previous week.

Moody's, in interpreting its preliminary "prosperity index" for October, pointed out that, while it showed a decline, the downward curve was flattening out, for the drop was the smallest since last June.

The further drop of $50,000,000 in brokers' loans was favorably interpreted. Credit conditions remained about stationary, with call money availabel "outside" at 1 per cent.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Substantial new upturns in wheat values took place early today following a fresh advance of ½c in bids on the part of Farm Board allies. Rust reports from Argentina were also a bullish factor, and so, too, were statements from the Grain Stabilization Corporation that consumers may now safely purchase their seasonable requirements. Opening ¼ to ⅞c higher, Chicago wheat future deliveries showed additional gains later. Corn started unchanged to ½c up, and subsequently held near to the opening figures.

Europe Buying American Stocks in Substantial Amounts.

In the past few days European investors again have made their appearance in the local stock market. Toward the close of last week and in the first two days of this week buying orders were placed from abroad for a broad line of prime investment common stocks, and as far as can be learned, a great majority of the orders were executed. The orders at times are said to have reached substantial proportions, and the most part came from Switzerland and Holland. The volume of business done was sufficiently large to account in great part for the persistent weakness in Swiss francs and Dutch guilders in the Foreign Exchange market recently.

Philip D. Wagoner, president of the Underwood-Elliott-Fisher Company, says: "Our October export orders increased more than 50 per cent compared with September. October export orders were nearly 20 per cent lower than export shipments billed in that month, indicating the improvement was holding up in the latter part of the month. Our Bridgeport factory is running full-time and will continue to do so until the end of the year at least. We now have in excess of $8,000,000 cash and equivalent, and no bank loans. We are entering our seasonably best quarter, and at the year-end will also take into our books in net income of non-consolidated, affiliated and subsidiary companies."

After reaching a low of 14½ during the recent general break in the stock market, Chrysler has enjoyed a good-sized recovery over the last 10 days, staging its best performance since mid-summer. It is understood that a well-known trader has taken a position in Chrysler and will co-operate with the syndicate sponsoring its market. The latter group is popularly supposed to be dominated by Brady, Chrysler and Bache interests. This syndicate acquired a block of some 200,000 shares of the stock last August around the 30 level. The group is understood to have been quiet, although not entirely disinterested during the past three months due to unfavorable conditions in the automobile industry and the unsatisfactory market.

Wall street naturally is interested at this time in the operations of the Federal Farm Board agencies designed to maintain stability in the wheat market at Chicago. The estimates of the holdings of these agencies which appeared during yesterday attracted no little interest. One such estimate coming from circles where careful watch is kept on operations in the Chicago pit elicited quite a bit of general comment. This calculation set forth that such agencies had increased their wheat holdings from about 60,000,000 bushels to upward of 100,000,000 bushels in the course of the last month.

Washington dispatches indicate that the forthcoming short session of Congress will be in receipt of recommendations from the Interstate Commerce Commission of some proposed legislation looking toward the control of railway holding corporation. In usually well-informed circles it is believed that such legislation will be broad in scope and that it will be designed to cover such corporations not actually controlled by the railroads as well as those which are so controlled. From information filtering through it is indicated that any holding company whose portfolios include enough stock in a road to permit investigators, it will be recalled, made a thorough canvass of Wall street firms last year looking over railway share holdings of such firms for their own or others accounts.

The part which selling for tax purposes has played in the recent past and is likely to play in the balance of the year is a subject of much discussion just now in speculative quarters. An interesting sidelight on that phase of the situation developed in the course of such a discussion yesterday. Admitting that there undoubtedly had been some special selling of that character and probably will be some more, it was argued that, by and large, traders have little reason to take such action now or during the balance of the year. It was pointed out that relatively few could use such losses as an offset to profits. But it developed that selling for tax purposes could reasonably be an important factor the early part of the new year. Losses would then be registered for 1931 and would be available for use against profits which might accrue over the balance of next year.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Curb trading today set the slowest pace of the week in a featureless market. Offerings of leading utilities at the opening carried prices fractionally off, but the decline was not followed up and quotations soon hardened to around yesterday's close. Progress beyond those levels was difficult.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 committed in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

GROWER THINKS COTTON PRICE AT BOTTOM

By MERRYLE RUCKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—A reliable barometer to business improvement is the state of the commodity markets, L. K. Salsbury, of Memphis, Tenn., an outstanding American cotton grower, in a message to this column, takes the view that the staple of the South has reached bottom. He also denies that there is any possibility of America's losing its dominant world position as a world cotton grower.

Mr. Ruckeyser

When Mr Salsbury was queried concerning the significance of the fact that the six-month period ending July 1, 1930, world consumption of cotton grown outside of the United States was greater than the consumption of American grown cotton for the first time in history, he replied:

"I think this is largely attributable to the fact that there was an overproduction of foreign cotton as well as American, and the question of freight favored the purchase by foreign consumers of foreign cotton. However, I believe this was against their best judgement.

SEES CHANGE

"It is a well settled fact that foreign cotton is not as good a grade as American, and I don't believe that foreign production will hold the percentage of increase shown last year.

"I think the American grower will be able to meet this competition and certainly give American cotton supremacy in world consumption, as a result of scientific methods of production and reduction of cost.

Queried about near term prospects for cotton, Mr. Salsbury said:

"There is no question but that the present price of cotton is below the cost of production, but I feel that the acreage reduction this year will be sufficient to put in balance the question of supply and demand of American produced cotton.

"There is no doubt, in my opinion, but that cotton at the present price is cheap, and I believe has seen the bottom for some time.

"I believe that from now on business will improve slowly and that next year will see the world in a much happier frame of mind and business in a much better condition than at present."

UPTURN IN MARCH

The statistician of a premier American corporation, in his private report to executives, predicts "a real upturn (in general business) by February or March."

A new element in the business situation is the use by a wider public of business statistics as a guide. With their eyes fixed on the actual data of production and distribution, the public is skeptical of "sunshine" propaganda. On the other hand, the country needs more actors who can make economic history rather than a vast array of passive chart readers.

DAILY TRUE STORY

'Doctor's Orders'

The train began to move slowly.

Isobel Warren walked along beside it, looking up at the window from which protruded the curly, bushy-haired head of her dearest chum, May Anson.

"By-bye, Fuzzy," Isobel called. "Don't forget to send me a piece of the wedding cake."

"Ha-ha, if you wait until I get married you won't have teeth enough left to chew a piece of cake!"

The train gained somewhat in speed. Isobel tried to keep pace with it along the wooden station platform. She and May had always joked each other about being married.

Isobel had run smack into the arms of a nice looking young man, who held her firmly to prevent her from falling against the moving train.

"Ha-ha!"

Isobel gave the young man who was holding her a startled glance. He was smiling at her.

"If," he said pleasantly, "I had been one of those wooden platform pillars you would have bumped your pretty face."

Isobel Grateful

His eyes were still smiling at her and he still held her.

The young man released her, but evinced no embarrassment.

"I was afraid you would stumble against the train and I surely don't want my first case in Kentville to be a train-mangled girl."

"First case? Oh, you must be—why you can't be Dr. Parker?"

"Really? Now why can't I be Dr. Parker?"

"You are awfully young—to be a doctor."

"The coming years will help me to overcome that fault."

Isobel suddenly remembered herself. "At any rate, I'm grateful to you. It was awfully careless of me to run along like that beside the train."

"The pleasure was all mine."

Isobel stopped at the distant edge of the platform before a small roadster.

"May I take you up to the Meserve house? I believe that is the place they fixed up for you, isn't it?"

Doctor Parker thanked her, but explained that he had to see about a carload of his belongings that was already sidetracked and waiting for him. Isobel drove away. Doctor Frederick Parker turned to the old man in blue with "Station Master" on his cap, and asked who the young lady was.

"You're a travelin' salesman, I take it," the old man said, "and it won't do no good for travelin' salesmen to try to shine up to Sam Warren's gal, Isobel, so I won't tell ye."

Become Sweethearts

Doctor Parker laughed heartily. The old man shook his head. He couldn't see anything to laugh at.

For several days Doctor Parker was busy having his goods moved into the newly-painted cottage where he was to hang out his shingle. Then he had his car driven to Kentville and was ready to settle down as one of the two doctors the small town supported.

He met Isobel at the post-office.

"Good morning, Miss Warren," he greeted her.

"Good morning, doctor."

Isobel was quite prim and curt, but after he passed she looked back at him.

He was looking back at her!

Her cheeks turned red.

They met in church the next time. Then at Mrs. Slocum's charity lawn party. After that there was no keeping account of when and where they met.

Isobel wondered if he would really propose. She wondered if she would be married before her chum, May Anson, who had visited her and had laughed so shrilly upon leaving to see Isobel run into Frederick. They had reached the "Isobel and Freddie" stage by this time.

Young Doctor Parker prospered. He was well liked and it looked to everyone, Isobel included, as though he would marry Isobel.

Then it so happened that Isobel drove down to the railroad station to mail a letter at the mail car, because she was too late at the postoffice and the mail sack was locked and on the way to the station.

And just as Isobel got there she saw something.

To her it was a tragedy, although to the others it seemed quite natural. People were always kissing each other down at the railroad station.

The little blonde lady liked it. She gave him a hug and returned the kiss.

Isobel Warren forgot to post the important letter. She turned and hurried away before Doctor Parker could see her. She drove and drove for many miles, and then came home and put up the car.

Doctor Calls

The next day he saw Isobel.

"Hello, dear," he said gaily.

"How do you do, Mr. Parker."

Isobel managed a little smile and hurried away.

A couple months passed. Dr. Parker was busier than ever, because old Dr. Welles was taken sick and had to go to a hospital in the city for a minor operation. This meant that Dr. Parker had to take care of his own and Dr. Welles' patients.

Isobel hadn't learned of this. She had a cold and feared that something serious might come of it. Her mother sent for the family doctor. Dr. Parker arrived, explaining how it happened. Isobel was inclined to be furious.

"All else aside, Miss Warren," he said, "you must follow your doctor's orders if you want to ward off more serious illness."

"Very well, Doctor," Isobel said, coldly.

She was better in a few days. Then he called one afternoon.

"Your doctor orders a short ride," he said and made her take a ride with him. He drove 20 miles over to Ridgefield and stopped at a handsome home.

The pretty little blonde lady she had seen him kiss came to the door.

"This," said Dr. Parker, "is Mrs. Harriman, my sister."

"Oh!" said Isobel, getting red. They went inside and got warm. Dr. Parker drove Isobel home and went in with her. She didn't have courage to apologize.

"Now there is one more thing, Miss Warren," Parker said in his best professional manner, "and as your doctor, I order you to take this."

He put something in her hand.

It was a handsome engagement ring.

Loree Means Business

New Railroad Project Would Mean Much to Pittsburgh.

L. F. Loree means business when he proposes to span the state of Pennsylvania with 283 miles of new railroad line which will cost $177,000,000 and will give employment to 20,000 men. Loree and E. H. Harriman started to lay plans for the line 22 years ago. Harriman is now dead, but Loree, in the face of the opposition of all the competing eastern railroads, is still plugging away on the idea. Undoubtedly he will keep on plugging until the last spike has been driven home.

Loree is one of the last of the old school of railroad builders. He is a gruff man, a taciturn man. Ordinarily he says little about his plans. He rarely permits himself to be quoted in the newspapers. He seldom makes a promise, but when he does make one he keeps it.

Loree did make a very positive statement following his last hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission. Opponents to the building of the proposed New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago Railroad had implied that he was not so much interested in building the line as he was in selling out to some competitor for a fat price. Loree did not mince words in answering this charge when he declared:

"I have not gone into it for any speculative purpose or for any purpose whatever except to construct it and to place it in operation with the least possible delay."

A Good Convention City

But Pittsburgh Cannot Invite the Largest Conventions Because of the Lack of a Town Hall.

There have been worth-while conventions in Pittsburgh almost continuously lately—sometimes two or three simultaneously.

The Chamber of Commerce announces that 64 conventions have already been booked for 1931.

These conventions of widely varied organizations, drawing their membership from all parts of the country, are a fine thing for Pittsburgh. They advertise the city favorably and, incidentally, bring thousands of dollars to Pittsburgh's hotel and shop keepers.

The city has much to offer conventions—a central location, good railroad service, good hotels, first-class theaters and other entertainment.

There is one thing we cannot offer, and because of the lack of it we cannot invite the largest conventions—a town hall, seating at least 15,000.

There Must Be a Limit

Taxes Cannot Continue to Rise Indefinitely; the People Will Not Submit to It.

Edward Martin, state treasurer of Pennsylvania, predicted in an address Wednesday that taxes will continue to go up. He said higher levies would be made necessary by the increasing cost of government.

It is true that the people now demand of the government public works and services in great variety that were not demanded 20 or 30 years ago. Improvement of the highways may be mentioned as an example.

Our standard of living necessarily calls for heavy governmental expenditures, and the taxpayers cannot hope to escape paying the bills.

There must, however, be a limit to these expenditures, and most Pittsburgh taxpayers will agree that the limit has just about been reached. The people will not submit in time of peace to imposts as heavy as those that are imposed in time of war.

Autos Promote Education

Improvement of Rural Schools Is By-Product of Motorization.

A new $70,000 consolidated school will be dedicated in West Deer Township Monday night. It takes the place of four scattered one-room schools.

Another consolidated school will be dedicated in Hampton Township Tuesday night. It replaces five one-room school houses.

Soon there will be few of the little one-room schools left.

This development is one of the curious by-products of the motorization of the United States. Automobiles and good roads have made it possible for country children to attend schools much farther from their homes than they could have attended when they had to make the journey on foot. They are taken to and from the new consolidated schools in motor buses provided by the school districts.

Automobiles, accordingly, have given rural pupils practically the same advantages, at least so far as the elementary schools are concerned, as are enjoyed by city children.

The railroads revolutionized civilization. It is perhaps a fair question if automobiles have not produced an equally great revolution.

Business Advice

As Good as Ever.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, tells his stockholders:

"General Motors has not reduced either salaries or wages, and it is my hope that no readjustment of that character will be necessary.

"To my mind it is important for industry to appreciate the fact that the prosperity of the United States is founded on a high wage scale. To reduce the wage scale in my judgment not only would delay the return of more normal times but would put a limit, and an unnecessary limit, on the future prosperity of the country.

"The broader the margin that exists between the daily wage and the necessities of life, the more the individual has available to purchase additional products and enjoy the profits of his leisure hours.

"This development of purchasing power creates wealth, which in turn reacts and reacts throughout our whole industrial situation."

In those five sentences Mr. Sloan gives American business the best advice it has had since the slump.

The prophet Isaiah gave the same advice a few hundred years before the birth of Christ, but American business men don't read Isaiah.

College Football

Tomorrow the football season gets its gears clicking in high. If you're not perched in a stadium you might as well be in a tree in Siam.

Tomorrow, six thousand institutions of learning will change the subject.

The East speeds its co-ordinated prowlers to the West, to spread the fear of parliamentary procedure along the Pacific.

The ambulance has taken the place of the covered wagon.

Football is getting more exclusive and tougher. When they carry a player out of the game today they want him carried out to the fifth decimal point.

But we like it. We like to clutch our speculated ticket, crack the gate and cuddle up among the trained raccoons in the ampitheater.

We never went to college. We never even went close to one. But we like to watch football games because we love the boys when they hate each other.

Where can you see such war without joining the Army? All the fighting Gene Tunney expended to win the heavyweight championship of the world would not get him a guest card to a prep school huddle.

We like to see the boys kick each other in the modulated features, pull out hair by the bumper crop and slug one another to a row of white blisters. We like all that because we like good, clean sport.

We cheer when a man gets knocked down. We cheer when his distinguished contemporary jumps on him.

We may be sadistic. But we are non-partisan about it.

We don't care who wins so long as the losers lose by a wide, antiseptic margin. Football is a game in which men are men and the substitutes also sing bass.

It's the only true American culture we have left. After you watch college football you know that you ain't going to be intimidated by backgammon.

The only fault we have to find with the game is that it is so peaceful between halves.

SOLAR RADIATION

By Archibald Henderson

The king, the father, the lifegiver of the solar system, is the sun. No problem is more absorbing than that of the evolution or devolution of the sun, its radiation, sun spots, layers, internal structure and temperature. An intensive study of the sun is going on nowadays, by such astrophysicists and astronomers as Abbot, Eddington and Jeans. In his picturesque way, Eddington has happily described the processes taking place in the chromosphere.

In this outer layer of the sun's atmosphere are certain selective elements which actually float on the sunbeams or light rays. Says Eddington: "The art of riding a sunbeam is evidently rather difficult, because only a few of the elements have the necessary skill. The most expert is calcium. The light and nimble hydrogen atom is fairly good at it, but the ponderous calcium atom does it best."

It has been estimated that the layer of calcium suspended on the sunlight is at least 5,000 miles thick. The calcium atom has especial ability for riding sunbeams for a very special reason. This is presumed to be its ability to lose an electron under impact of the escaping energy, and then to recapture it.

It must be able, according to Eddington, to toss up an electron 20,000 times a second without ever making the fatal blunder of dropping it. That is not easy even for an atom.

Calcium (as it occurs in the chromosphere) scores because it possesses a possible orbit of excitation only a little way above the normal orbit, so that it can juggle the electrons between these two orbits without serious risk. The average time occupied by each performance is one 20,000th of a second.

The activity of the calcium atom is divided into two periods, during this tiny fraction of time. During the first period, the atom is patiently waiting for a light wave to run into it and knock out the electron.

During the second period, the electron revolves steadily in the higher orbit before deciding to come down again.

The actual details of the activities of the calcium atom have been worked out by Professor Milne. An electron tossed into the higher orbits, Milne finds, remains there for an average time of a hundred-millionth of a second before it spontaneously drops back again.

During this brief interval of time it makes something like a billion revolutions on the upper orbit. Quite an athletic stunt; but quite easy for an electron.

Calcium constitutes the chief element of the sun's outermost atmosphere. Energy radiates out from the sun in all directions; and only a tiny fraction of it, in the form of heat and light, is caught by the earth.

But, fortunately for us, this tiny fraction is sufficient to conserve life on this planet.

The question as to the habitability of other plants than our own is tied up with the question of solar radiation. Although we are far from a solution of this puzzling question, there seems little doubt that there does not exist in the universe any great number of planetary systems like our own, which furnish condition suitable for sustaining life in the forms known to us.

As Henry Smith Williams humorously expresses it in his stimulating work, "The Great Astronomers":

"A sane appraisal would seem to reveal mankind as merely the agent of a minor microbic disease on the surface of a planet of totally negligible significance. Whether a few million or billion other planets suffer from a like malady may from man's standpoint have an element of human interest, but can have no bearing on larger questions of the origin and destiny of the universe."

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

I believe in prayer. I believe that we need to pray exactly as we need to eat or sleep. . . that we have needs which only prayer can answer . . . and that the important part of our life perishes if those needs are not answered. But I have found that they can be answered—by prayer.

I am not thinking of prayer as a religious exercise. I am thinking of it as a practical part of the working program of every day people . . . taxi cab drivers, waitresses, automobile salesmen, housewives, stenographers, bookkeepers, clerks. Tired people. Worried people. Stupid, cross people. People who want more beauty and inspiration than their monotonous chores provide . . . who need more power and peace and joy than they're getting.

I believe in prayer for people like that. I know that it will help them, for I use it myself and it works. This is how I use it.

I pray to God. I do not know what God is. But I do know that there is more than man in this world, and man's ignorance and confusion. I know that I am surrounded by beauty and mystery and energy. . . . add that, above our little human squabble, loom law and order. And I know that these sustain and serve life. It is not necessary that I understand this enveloping mystery. It does not matter whether I call it "God" or some other name. All that matters is that I do call . . . and accept the answer.

For that source does answer. All creatures are fed, according to their nature. The gnat gets what it needs. The grass gets what it needs. The bird gets what it needs. They do not have to understand God to get what they need. They do not have to be religious. They need . . . they ask—they get—that is all. If their need is served, according to their nature, why should not my need to served according to my nature?

I do need. I need desperately. I am not any more sufficient unto myself than the bird is sufficient unto itself. I have all the needs of a bird—and infinitely more. The bird needs food and flight and a nest. So does my body? But so does my soul! And human beings cannot give me what my soul needs. We are all equally bewildered. I must go, for my supply, to the place where the bird goes. I must go to Life. I must go to "God." And why should I not go? Or why should I go doubting? If "God" made my body he also made my soul. If "God" takes care of wings and roots, why should he not also take care of those higher needs which are as much a part of my life as roots are part of grass? So I pray—

I do not wait until I'm "feeling religious" to pray. I do not wait until I can kneel or go into a church. I ask for what I need when I need it. I ask as I go—when I'm washing dishes or darning socks, when I am cutting chapparal for a survey line, when I am dressing for a party, when I am shopping and my feet hurt, when I am working on a business deal . . . or just sitting stranded in some dark corner, lonely as flotsam. Whatever I'm doing, whenever I need, I ask. Something like this—

"God, I'm cross today. I feel tired. Through Nothing seems worth while. Somehow I've lost contact with life. And yet I suppose I must go on. Help me! Help me get back. Make me love life again. Make me love people again. Make me love myself again. Give me eagerness and curiosity and generosity. Give me the hunger to want and the courage to take all that life may hold. Help me—God!"

I pray like that. And when I pray like that, AND MEAN WHAT I SAY, it works. I do not know how it works. Neither does the grass know how the sap within it works. But the sap rises and the grass grows. And the sap rises in my soul and I am filled with eagerness and delight and power and tenderness—though a little while ago I was empty and cold. Does God send it? And what is God? What does it matter as long as the sap rises?

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

In Winter

In winter song and bloom retreat,
The woods grow barren as a street.
Sometimes a snow-piled branch is stirred,
Sometimes a snapping twig is heard
As over ice-encrusted snow
On cautious feet furred creatures go.

Life ebbed from all the forest ways
When autumn passed in golden haze,
And now the land knows no regret
For mocking bird and violet;
But silent vistas, cold and white,
In sleep forget June's sweet delight.

Earth lies at rest and careless now
Of every ardent April vow,
Forgetful of each lyric strain
That whispered through the summer rain;
But what bright dreams the rose must know
Beneath her robe of drifted snow!

Text For Today And I seek not mine own glory: there is one that seeketh and judgeth.—John, viii: 50.

THINK IT OVER

Drawn by Hal Coffman.

The motorist takes good care of his car, as a rule. He spends his Sunday morning tinkering with it, or takes it to a garage for adjustment and repair. A car is a complicated piece of machinery, and needs attention if it is to run smoothly.

The human body is an infinitely more complicated piece of machinery. Yet how few of us give it as much care as we give our cars. Only when it develops a cough, a rattle or a squeak do we haul it to the repair shop or send out an SOS for a "mechanic."

Man is a funny animal. He will spend time and money patching up a machine worth a few hundred dollars, and often neglects completely the human machine—which is a million times more valuable and delicate, and which, when it is scrapped, he can't replace.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Thoughts while strolling: Wonder how many finger nails a window cleaner breaks in a year? Ex-Ambassador Gerard's short neck. Those newsboy gyps who screech "Famous Movie Star—" and trail off into unintelligible mumble. Vincent Lopez has grown becomingly thinner.

Frank Sullivan, a Saratoga, N. Y., boy who made good in the city. I always glance at auto licenses in secret hope of spotting No. 1. Those mean tempered cops who pop out of bushes to frighten little boys on park grass. Edgar Saltu's daughter—Mrs. Mund.

Mandolins are staging a comeback. A cafe and night club feature mandolin bands. Cheerful souls who auto-bus it from the West Coast. Theodore Dreiser's perpetual glumness. Underworld for growing prosperous. He's "on the gain!" A Broadway orchestra called: "Al Katz and His Kittens."

Those interesting pictures in Pirie McDonald's sidewalk cabinet. Few wear clothes like Peggy Hoyt. Hugh O'Connell, the actor. Haberdashery window card: "Sober-hued Hose pour Gents." Ben Holzman is always in a rush. Richard Le Galliene in town from Paris.

Prim ladies gazing at travel posters wistfully. Burlesque banner: "Forty Torrid Teesers." Never hear of girls hurling vitrol any more. O, sole mia—purple velvet pajamas. Can't find black pumpernickel in this town. It is all blonde sissy stuff. Clifton Webb's pleated pants.

Nobody seems to use the word, "succinctly" in conversation. But writers run it raggedy. The apple-cheeked octogenarian who has eaten three raw onions a day for 20 years—the odoriferous old dodo. Money in the beauty parlor business. Look at their establishments.

Who'll buy the rope for the bird who perpetrates those French quotations in cigaret ads? One of the Warner brothers—Jack, I think. The grey of a winter twilight, lustrous with shafts of pink. Few look out an L train windows. They stare straight ahead.

Central Park may have a Rotten Row, like that of London's Hyde Park, and the most famous horseback path in the world. London's busiest men from King George down take a pre-breakfast canter daily. Central Park's bridle path is nothing at which to hoot but is not comparable to Rotten Row. The park commissioner—Duke Herrick—has been on the other side studying the outlay and especially the soil mixture that gives such a noiseless softness.

Most Central Park riders are middle aged. On Rotten Row there are innumerable children, shepherded by watchful grooms, and riding superbly.

Book publishers have been unable, despite innumerable precautions, to bring out a book entirely free of grammatical and typographical mistakes. The average tome will present 150 "bulls." One of Conrad's totaled more than 400 and an early volume by H. G. Wells had 150 embarrassing errors. Some books are proof-read by three different experts, but mistakes creep in. The Bible, due to many reprintings and corrective measures, is about the only perfect book typographically.

Isn't It So?

A lot of men will ask for advice when they really want a loan.

Very often a girl makes a postcript to a letter longer than the letter.

Any man may commit a mistake, but none but a fool will continue it.

The man who is crooked wants a broader path than the straight and narrow one.

Every man is popular with somebody, even though it may merely be with himself.

A reformer is a man whose fondest desire is to continually go out and paint the town blue.

The man with more money than brains wouldn't be so bad if he had brains enough to know it.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You have lost many friends because of the demands you make on them.

You should not expect too much in favors from those to whom you are closer than to anyone else.

Friendship must be unusual to stand the strain you require of those who seem to enjoy your society.

Why should you think your friends should be ready at any time to forget self and personal interests in order to favor you?

Real friends will follow you a long way, but beyond a certain point they rebel.

The more friends you have, the more you desire and demand of them.

You look upon your friends as conveniences, don't you?

If you can't use your friends, why have any seems to be your principle. This being true, isn't your friendship one-sided, always in your favor?

You seldom offer aid to those who need it, no matter what they have done for you.

You want someone to stand back of you and support you in your undertakings, but you are unwilling to assist those who list you as a friend. Then you are undeserving of friendship.
